At Least Two City Departments Will Need More Money to Complete 1924 Programs

AUDITOR GIVES OUT STATEMENT

Indications That Street and Charity Divisions Will Need Some Help

Financial Schedule Being Adhered to in Most Instances, However

That the street and charities departments will require more money to complete their 1924 programs was made evident this morning in the semi-annual statement of City Auditor Daniel E. Martin, forwarded to the mayor.

Mr. Martin commented upon municipal finances in the following interview to newspapermen relative to his statement:

"From the manner in which the various heads of departments have handled their appropriations, it would seem that almost without exception they are striving to adhere to the policy inaugurated last year by the mayor —namely, that the program of work for a given year should be measured by the appropriation available for that work rather than that the appropriation should be considered entirely from

State Motor Vehicle Registrar Says Accident Situation Worse Now Than at Any Time in State's History—Addresses Letter to Chiefs of Police Urging Action

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, July 16.—Declaring that the motor vehicle accident situation is worse now than at any time in the history of the state, Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, today wrote to every police chief in Massachusetts, asking for more drastic action on the part of the police and courts.

In the first six months of this year he points out, the record of persons killed is 124 greater than last year, and with thirty already killed in this month, he expresses the opinion that the alarming increase is likely to continue unless greater penalties are meted out to offenders.

Most of the persons killed, he as-

10,000 TURNED OUT FOR OLYMPIC SWIMMING EVENTS TODAY

Warren Kealoha, of Hawaii Breaks Olympic Record for 100 Metre Back Stroke in First Elimination Trial —Results in Other Events

OLYMPIC SWIMMING POOL, LES TOURELLES, France, July 16. (By the Associated Press.)—The fourth day of the Olympic swimming program was run off in more moderate weather than had been the rule all the week. The scorching sun disappeared behind clouds and the attendance was increased enormously. A crowd of 10,000 persons turned out, one of the largest of the swimming tournament, and bigger than the throngs that were witnessing even the Olympic tennis matches and the rowing events.

Warren Kealoha, of Hawaii, broke the Olympic record for the 100 metre back stroke in the first elimination trials, covering the distance in one minute 13 2-5 seconds, shattering the mark he established at Antwerp, but swimming the distance of 4-5 of a second slower than the world mark he also made at Honolulu in 1922.

Kealoha was five seconds faster than the winners of the other four heats. Bartha of Hungary, made the distance in 1 minute 18 2-5 seconds, Rawlinson of Great Britain in 1 minute 18 4-5 seconds, Thaulo of Norway in 1 minute 24 seconds flat, and Paul Wyatt of Uniontown, Pa., in 2 minutes 19 2-5 seconds.

Summaries:

200 metres, breast stroke, women, third heat: Miss Carson, Great Britain, first; Miss Topel, Sweden, second. Time 3 minutes, 30 seconds. Miss Matilda Shurich, women's swimming association, New York, finished third and was eliminated.

200 metre, breast stroke, women, second heat: Miss Morton, Great Britain, first; Miss Koster, Luxembourg, second. Time, 3 minutes, 29 2-10 seconds. Miss Eleanor Coleman, Milwaukee A. C., Milwaukee, finished fourth and was eliminated.

200 metres, breast stroke, men, first, semi-finals: Robert D. Skelton, Illinois A. C., first; W. T. Kirschbaum, Hawaii, second. Time, 3 minutes, 2-10 seconds, breaking the Olympic record.

200 metre breast stroke, men, second semi-final: Decomare, Belgium, first; Linders, Sweden, second. Time, 3 minutes 2-10 seconds (equallying the new Olympic record made by Robert D. Skelton in the first semi-final.)

SUDDEN DEATH OF FORMER LOCAL PRIEST

Word has been received in this city of the sudden death of Rev. Joseph Hercule Emard, O.M.I., formerly of this city, which occurred a few days ago at Lebrun, Saskatchewan, Can.

Rev. Fr. Emard, O.M.I., was born in Montreal, Que., in 1864, and entered the Oblate order in 1883, being ordained in the same year. He came to Lowell in 1891 and remained in this city a few years, being connected with St. Joseph's parish.

In 1897 he went to Buffalo, N. Y., where for some time he was a professor of theology at the Holy Angels college. A few years ago he returned to the Canadian province of the Oblate order and for the past few years had been conducting his ministerial work in the province of Saskatchewan, being located at Lebrun.

According to information received in this city, the reverend gentleman died suddenly a few days ago, after celebrating mass. Deceased was a brother of the late Right Reverend Bishop Emard of Canada. He was a singer of exceptional ability and will be remembered in this city as having participated in numerous concerts for the benefit of the church. He was a fine pulpit orator and for several years did much missionary work throughout the States and Canada.

HUNT SLAYER OF POLICEMAN'S SON

Entire Police Force of Staten Island Marshaled in Effort to Find Murderer

Body of Eight-Year-Old Boy Found in Hastily Constructed Grave Near Home

NEW YORK, July 16.—Virtually the entire police force of Staten Island was marshalled today in an effort to arrest the slayer of eight-year-old Francis McDonald, son of a Staten Island policeman, whose mutilated body was found late last night in a hastily constructed grave of brush and leaves near the child's home. The body was discovered by a searching party which had been seeking the boy since his disappearance Monday afternoon.

The boy's suspenders knotted tightly about the throat had been used to strangle him and the body bore evidences of fiendish assault, the police say. Nearly all the clothing had been torn from the body and was scattered about. Until late last night the police had few clews upon which to work, only one person other than the slayer, apparently, having seen the boy after he went out to play Monday afternoon. Jacob Stein, a neighbor of the McDonald family told the police he saw the lad at 4.30 o'clock Monday afternoon walking along the road toward the woods. He wore a new pair of overalls in which he had a child's pride. Just ahead of the boy was a man whom Stein described as about "50 years old." Believing the boy was directing a stranger to the trolley line, Stein gave no further heed to the pair, he said. So far as the police have been able to learn, that was the last time the boy was seen alive.

The scene of the boy's murder is only three-quarters of a mile from the spot where Mrs. Maude Bauer was shot and killed last March, after her car had stalled on a lonely road. Harry Hoffman, a motion picture operator, is now serving a 20 years' sentence for her murder.

Polish Writer Dying From Incurable Disease Begged Friends to End Sufferings

Fiancee, Overcome at Sight of Agony, Could Not Resist Pitiable Pleadings

PARIS, July 16.—Slowly dying from an incurable malady, Jan Zoznowski, a well known Polish writer, repeatedly begged friends and attendants at the sanitorium at Villejuif to put an end to his sufferings. Today his fiancee, Mlle. Stanislawa Unicuska, visited him and was so overcome at the sight of his agony that she could not resist his pitiable pleadings. She shot him in the head and he is not expected to recover.

Following the shooting, Mlle. Unicuska collapsed and officers who were summoned to make the arrest left her in the care of the sanitorium. She is only 22 years old and noted for her beauty.

Three Machines Taxied Easily Into Airdrome After Uneventful Flight From Paris—Given Enthusiastic Send-off by French People

CROYDON, England, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The American army airmen on their world flight landed here at 2.05 o'clock this afternoon.

The three machines taxied easily into the Croydon airdrome after an uneventful flight across the channel from Paris. Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, the flight commander, was the first to land, and one of the first to greet the American airmen was Mrs. Stuart MacLaren, wife of the British world flier, who asked news of her husband, now in the far east.

The aviators made the distance between Le Bourget and Croydon, estimated at 225 miles, in three hours and three minutes.

"I am sorry we missed him, but am glad we could help him," Lieut Smith replied to Mrs. MacLaren, referring to the new machine with which the

INTER-ALLIED CONFERENCE ON REPARATIONS IN SESSION

Meet at London Foreign Office for Purpose of Making Effective Dawes Plan—U. S. Ambassador Kellogg and Colonel Logan Present

LONDON, July 16. (By the Associated Press.)—The inter-allied conference for the purpose of making effective the Dawes plan for German reparations assembled at 11 o'clock today at the foreign office.

American Ambassador Kellogg was present with Col. James A. Logan, Jr., the American observer with the reparation commission. Four advisers and a number of secretaries were with the United States representatives.

Formally welcoming the delegates to the conference Prime Minister MacDonald made especial reference to the presence of the two Americans. He noted they were not present as full delegates, but he took their presence as indicating the good will and cooperation of the United States in the effort to make the Dawes plan effective.

Ambassador Kellogg, replying to Mr. MacDonald's welcome, said the American government and people believed the adoption of the Dawes report would be the first great step toward the stabilization of Europe.

The American delegates, Mr. Kellogg said, were not attending the con-

Criminal negligence is found against Paul F. MacKenzie in connection with the death of Richard Maynard after an automobile accident, in an inquest report submitted to Judge Fisher in district court this morning.

The inquest was held by Judge Pickman several weeks ago and his finding follows: "I find that said Richard Maynard received injuries from which he died by the criminal negligence of Paul MacKenzie in his operation of an automobile at the entrance into the Lawrence boulevard, and that no other person caused or contributed to the death of said Richard Maynard."

In district court this morning, MacKenzie was called on charges of man-

STEALS MILK WITH $118 IN HIS POCKETS

A most unusual larceny case was called in district court this morning, when Harry Younges was arraigned for the larceny of one quart of milk from a Middlesex street doorstep.

The arrest was made at 5 o'clock this morning by Sergt. Frank Maloney and at the time of his apprehension, the defendant had $118 on his person.

Younges' arrest followed a complaint to the station by Bernard Zager that he had been losing milk from his doorstep in Middlesex street for some time. Sergt. Maloney was detailed to the case and after watching the premises several mornings, arrested Younges this morning after he had taken a quart of milk, placed it in a bag, and started away with it.

When arraigned, Younges admitted taking the milk but said he intended to pay for it this evening. He was found guilty by Judge Fisher and fined $5.

LAWYERS' LIPS STILL SEALED

Will Make No Comment on Restitution to Bank by Mrs. Boardman

Boardman Ready to Aid Accountants in Locating Shortages on Books

Persistent rumors that J. Harry Boardman has confessed to looting the Old Lowell National bank and that his wife has offered restitution went unconfirmed and uncontradicted today. Mr. Boardman continued to keep himself cloistered at his Clark road home and attorneys for all persons involved decline to shed any light on the matter. In the meantime the bank, completely oriented after the disclosures of Monday, continued business without embarrassment, secure in its undoubted solvency and the supreme confidence of its depositors.

James J. Kerwin, member of Kerwin & Reilly, counsel for the bank and a member of its board of directors, refused to discuss the rumors of confession and restitution. A similar attitude was taken by Albert S. Howard, member of Qua, Howard & Rogers, attorney for the accused and also counsel for the Nelson family, whose trust Boardman is alleged to have betrayed.

"All that there is to be said was said to The Sun of Monday," said Attorney Kerwin. "There is nothing to add. I have no authority to give interviews for the bank. It would seem to me the case has been fully covered in the prints and that any further continuance would not serve any purpose. The bank is solid and solvent. That is all there is to say."

Mr. Howard when approached by a reporter for The Sun and asked point blank as to the rumors of confession and proposed restitution said: "My lips are sealed. However, you may say that Mr. Boardman has been and is willing to offer any and all assistance to the bank, to government officials or to accountants, in checking his books. Further than that there is nothing I feel I can say."

Fred E. and Grace P. Nelson, mentioned in connection with the case, are at Sutton, N. H., where they have a summer estate. It became known here last night that the accused cashier visited them at their home there last Thursday, making known to them in part at least, the state of affairs at the bank. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson decline to discuss the visit or their dealings with Boardman. Mr. Howard has been their attorney for a long period and all inquiries were referred to his office. Asked to whether he complained to the bank officials, Mr. Nelson asked to be excused from any discussion of the case.

From other sources it was learned that when Mr. Nelson sold his holdings in a chain of five-and-ten-cent stores about eighteen months ago and went to California with his wife, he left with Boardman, his banker, friend and neighbor, securities in the New Haven railroad. It is the charge of the federal district attorney that these were converted by Boardman to his own use.

Federal officials say that when Boardman saw the bank examiners were likely to uncover his dealings he made a hurried trip to New Hampshire and pleaded with Nelson that he save him and told him of the disgrace that his wife and children would be obliged to bear with him. It is said that Nelson, although taken back by the startling admissions of his erring and trusted friend and neighbor, was adamant and called in his attorney. It is said that Boardman, upon his return from the Nelson estate, also consulted his attorney and that by coincidence both poured out their story into the ears of Mr. Howard, with whom they have always done their legal work.

Other than expressing confidence in the bank, Mr. Nelson would not discuss any of the phases of the case.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Thy Name Is Woman" is the dramatic comet of the year. This new Fred Niblo production for Metro will open tomorrow at the Merrimack Square theatre. For the first time in his career, Ramon Navarro, the hero of many romantic roles, plays a character of his own nationality. His parents came from Spain to Mexico a short time before his birth, and he was brought up on the old traditions. He has now been summoned to play the leading part in a production which is laid in the Pyrenees, and concerns the loves and hates of a smugglers' band. The story was adapted by Bess Meredyth from Benjamin Glazer's American version of Kurt Schoenherr's play. Barbara LaMarr stars with Navarro, and gives a fine impersonation of passionate emotionalism and burning latin intensity.

Something of the speedy action of "In Fast Company," which accompanies "Thy Name Is Woman" on the new bill, can be imagined from the fact that those who have seen it call it a "serial in feature length." Every stunt performed by Richard Talmadge, star of Truart production, is possible in real life. In other words, the situations are not forced, but legitimate. But it is the speed with which the plot moves, and the fact that Talmadge produces so many daring thrillers, that give it prestige. But, unlike a serial, its speed thrills and its comedy are so interwoven that absorbing interest starts with the first scene and keeps up to the very finish. In the company, besides Talmadge, are Mildred Harris, Snitz Edwards, Douglas Gerrard, Sheldon Lewis, Jack Herrick and Charles Clary, all players of prominence.

The coolness and comfort of the Merrimack Square lend it a peculiar attraction these warm afternoons and evenings. Allow yourself to be convinced—not by the printed word, but by an hour or two spent in the thorough enjoyment which may be found there.

RIALTO THEATRE

Many an innocent man suffered under accusations for which he had no available alibi, but in the end the wheel of fate usually swung around to his number. It was that way with "Cameo Kirby," Mississippi river gambler, square shooter and gentleman beneath the surface. The story by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, remarkable for its truthful delineation of the picturesque life of the time, has been done into a dramatic photoplay by William Fox and will be shown at Loew's Rialto for three days, starting Thursday. Eugene Kirby, scapegrace son of a good old southern family, a professional gambler on Mississippi river boats and in the gambling hells of New Orleans and way towns, is known for his obsession for cameos. So marked is his weakness that he is nicknamed "Cameo." Entering a game in which Moreau, a river shark, is crooking Johnny Randall, a New Orleans trader, Kirby wins the latter's estate, intending to return it to him, saving it from the greedy clutch of Moreau. Not realizing this, Randall ends his life and "Cameo" is accused of murder. The plot weaves into an intricate pattern of tragedy, comedy and love to a climax which reveals "Cameo" in his true light. John Gilbert plays the title role, with Gertrude Olmstead opposite. A capable cast gives them notable support.

"Pep With a Kick," a novelty comedy drama with 27 noted picture stars is the added feature. The cast reads like an encyclopedia as to "Who's Who" in the film industry. The ninth round of the H. C. Witwer's "Fighting Blood" and a new Fox News round out this splendid picture bill.

7-YEAR-OLD BOY IS SAVED FROM DROWNING

The heroism and knowledge of artificial respiration methods of an unknown young man saved the life of John Bonnelle, aged 7 years, of 38 Merrill street early last evening.

Bonnelle, with several companions about his age, went swimming in the Wamesit canal near the Lawrence street fire house and after being in the water some time he either became exhausted or was seized with cramps and sank beneath the surface.

An older boy, swimming nearby, noticed the Bonnelle lad's plight and dove after him. Bringing the drowning lad to the surface, willing hands assisted in getting him out of the water and artificial respiration was resorted to by the rescuer. The police were notified and Sergt. Winn and Officers Cooney, Lynch, Graham and Hartley were despatched to the scene with the pulmotor.

Upon arrival, they found the Bonnelle boy conscious and he was taken to St. Johns' hospital in the police car. At the hospital it is reported his condition is favorable and he will be discharged within a day or two.

A Super-Clay

Brought me beauty and perennial youth

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

I look back on a glorious career. First, as a famous beauty. Then for 35 years a stage star. And now, at a grandmother's age, a beauty still, playing a beauty's part. I owe all that to several factors, but the greatest is a new-type clay. Now I have arranged with druggists and toilet counters to supply it to every woman. I want it to bring to others what it brought to me—multiplied beauty, decades of added youth.

My White Youth Clay

Old clays were crude and muddy. Mine is white, refined and dainty. Old types had one clay—mine has two. There are eleven ingredients embodied in mine, to bring the maximum results.

I owe this clay to men who have given it many years of scientific study. It is a super-clay, amazing in its quick and lasting benefits. I have seen many plain girls become beauties with one application. I have seen older women seem to drop ten years.

Clay is a beauty essential. No girl can look her best without it, no woman keep her youth. Look at France—where girls are all beauties and women all young. That is largely due to clay.

I have no great interest in urging women to use my particular clay. But I do urge them to use some clay. I have found that mine brings multiplied results, but better the old types than none.

My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It draws out the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights. Husbands tell me they hardly know their wives after they use White Youth Clay.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It wards off every sign of age.

STONE ORDERS TOZER CASE APPEAL

PORTLAND, Me., July 16.—Appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals in the case of the government against Dr. Frederick W. Tozer is to be taken, Atty Gen. Stone has notified Special Assistant District Attorney John F. A. Merrill to proceed and perfect an appeal, which was taken April 7.

Dr. Tozer is charged with being an undesirable alien and suited to deportation. This case will come up for a hearing at the October term of court. Judge James A. Morton of Boston, sitting in the district court, March 27, heard the government's case and the defense, and sent in an opinion on April 5, dismissing the action and discharging the accused.

An appeal was taken, subject to the approval of the department of justice, and District Attorney Dyer as well as Judge Merrill made repeated requests for a department ruling. None was forthcoming until that of yesterday, which was not in accordance with the recommendation made by Dist. Atty. Dyer. He favored dismissal.

Dr. Tozer was the principal government witness in the trial of Ralph A. Fry and Erwin C. Ruth in the December term in 1921, which led to the conviction of Fry on the charge of extortion from physicians and dentists accused of inaccurate records of their narcotics.

SAYS LEOPOLD AND LOEB ONCE CONSIDERED LATTER'S BROTHER

Defense Attorney Says Youths Held for Kidnaping and Killing Robert Franks Once Considered Ernest Loeb as a Victim

CHICAGO, July 16.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, awaiting trial Aug. 4 on charges of kidnaping and slaying 13-years-old Robert Franks, once considered Ernest Loeb, 11-year-old brother of Richard, as a victim of their search for a thrill, according to defense attorneys.

"For this reason, there is no one who wants to see the boys freed," Clarence S. Darrow, chief of counsel for the defense, said. "The family and lawyers are actually afraid of the boys and it is for the sake of society that the parents do not want the boys freed."

The theory of the defense, it was indicated after numerous examinations by alienists and experts had been completed, will be that the killing of the Franks boy was in response to an irresistible mandate of two coincidentally insane impulses. The victim was merely a subject for an emotional experiment in the eyes of the youths, the alienists and defense attorney say.

ference with the same powers as the others at the conference table because the United States was not a party to the treaty. However, the ambassador added that the Americans were present in the same spirit of co-operation and helpfulness. He paid tribute to the members of the Dawes committee and their work.

Premier MacDonald briefly surveyed the reparation problem, urging the importance of putting the Dawes report into effect as a whole, without change.

It would be the business of the conference, said Mr. MacDonald, to create conditions for the working of the Dawes report, the first being the fiscal and economic unity of Germany, and the second, adequate security for prospective investors in the loan for Germany.

One great merit of the experts' work, continued the premier, was the businesslike methods they had adopted in preparing it, and he hoped the present conference would follow their example. He pointed out that the Dawes report was not a final solution of the reparation problem but that it was necessary to get this scheme into operation before other problems could be solved. Therefore it was his desire that the conference deal solely with the Dawes report. Responding to the British prime minister's welcome, Premier Herriot of France thanked his colleague for his "noble words." He recognized the apparent difficulties before the conference but he thought everybody was "imbued alike with love of country and love of peace." Therefore he believed the interests of the various peoples concerned could be conciliated.

M. Herriot proposed Mr. MacDonald as chairman of the conference, after which the business of organization was begun. Sir Maurice Hankey was named secretary-general and three committees were appointed to work out the agenda along the lines of the Herriot-MacDonald communique issued from Paris July 9.

This business accomplished, the conference adjourned until tomorrow.

Take Up Premier's Note

PARIS, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The reparation commission devoted all of yesterday and a good part of the night to the request made in the joint MacDonald-Herriot note of last week that it submit to the London interallied conference suggestions with the view of establishing a plan whereby the economic and fiscal unity of Germany should be re-established as soon as the commission had decided that the Dawes report was in force.

The reparation commission laid down what should in its opinion constitute "the putting into operation of the Dawes plan." These conditions, five of them, were adopted unanimously at a long day and night session. They are:

First, voting by the reichstag in a form approved by the reparation commission of laws necessary to the working of the plan and promulgation of these laws;

Second, installation with a view to their normal working of all the executive and controlling bodies provided in the plan;

Third, definite constitution in conformity with the provisions of the respective laws of the German bank and of the German railway company;

Fourth, deposit with the trustees of certificates representing railway bonds and such similar certificates for industrial debentures as may result from the report of the organization committee;

Fifth, conclusion of contracts assuring the subscription of a loan of 800,000,000 gold marks as soon as the plan has been brought into operation and all the conditions contained in the experts' report have been fulfilled.

FEDERALS WIN VICTORY OVER BRAZILIAN REBELS

BUENOS AIRES, July 16 (by the Associated Press).—An official Brazilian communique from Rio Janeiro was received at La Nacion at midnight, stating that the federals "won an important action against the rebels, capturing many prisoners."

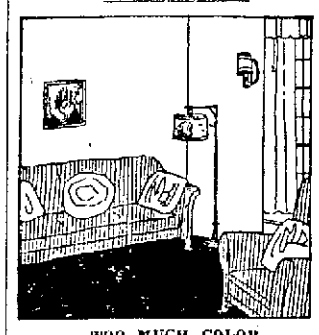
The official bulletin announces that telegrams are continuing to arrive indicating the "patriotic battalions" have been organized in nearly all cities of Sao Paulo state to battle the insurrectionists. It also states that intense feeling in other districts outside of Sao Paulo prevails against the rebels.

VERY MUCH ALIVE

Bill Anderson, one-time lieutenant of William Clarke Quantril, noted guerrilla chieftain, was not killed in the Civil war days, as many history books have stated. At 85, he is now living on a farm near Brownwood, Tex. Anderson was believed to have been killed when a band of guerrillas were ambushed. Following his reported death, he headed south from Missouri and settled down in Texas, where he has lived ever since.

STATE AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

NEWTON, July 16.—The state amateur golf championship play was begun on the links of the Woodland golf club today, with Fred G. Wright, former state champion, who has been playing in California for the past several years as an eleventh hour starter. Jesse Guilford, former holder of state and national titles started out on the medal round today with 64 scored yesterday in practice, seven strokes under par and under the record, as indication that he was in good form. Francis Ouimet, another holder of many titles, was also entered, together with Earl Mosser, present state finalist.



TOO MUCH COLOR

Too many pillows of varying color in the same room, with the apparent purpose of giving color and life to that room, go too far in that direction. They make a clash of color that is bad for the nerves.

VICTORY

TWO INQUESTS ARE HELD TODAY

Inquests were held in the second sessions court of the district court building this morning, before Judge Pickman, in connection with the deaths by accident of Mrs. Ada MacDonald and John D. Grant.

Mrs. MacDonald died of injuries received when an automobile in which she was riding was in collision with one operated by Emery Holt at Chandlers' corner, Tewksbury, June 30. Grant died of injuries received when struck by an automobile operated by George Gardner in Thorndike street, on June 18.

Drastic Measures To Reduce Motor Fatalities

serts, have been the victims of drunken or reckless drivers.

Mr. Goodwin's letter to the chiefs reads:

"Dear Sir: The motor vehicle situation from an accident standpoint is worse than at any time in the history of the state. With 110,000 more cars on the road than last year this would naturally be so and will continue unless drastic action is taken by the police, the courts and this department.

"Already this year there have been 337 persons killed up to July 1st compared with 213 last year, and with 30 persons killed in the first thirteen days of July it looks as if this tremendous increase will continue unless there is an immediate tightening-up of law enforcement and more severe penalties by the courts.

"The principal increase in the fatal and all other accidents has been in the nighttime, and aside from the pedestrians who are killed in the cities, most of the accidents in which occupants are killed or injured are the result of drunken or reckless driving.

"Already this year there have been 1647 convictions for operating while under the influence of liquor as compared with 977 last year, and 461 convictions for driving so as to endanger the lives of the public as compared with 243 last year.

"It is suggested, therefore, that you do all you can to compel drivers to slow up in the busy streets in the cities where children and pedestrians are sure to be, and make a special effort to apprehend all crazy night riders who are making it unsafe for decent people to drive their cars on the highways at night.

"I wish you would call to my attention all accidents in which drunken or reckless drivers are involved, in which persons are injured or property damaged, where the punishment is not in your opinion, such as to discourage that type of driving. It is about time to make public specific cases of failure on the part of the courts to do their share to stop this increasing slaughter.

Very truly yours,
FRANK A. GOODWIN,
Registrar."

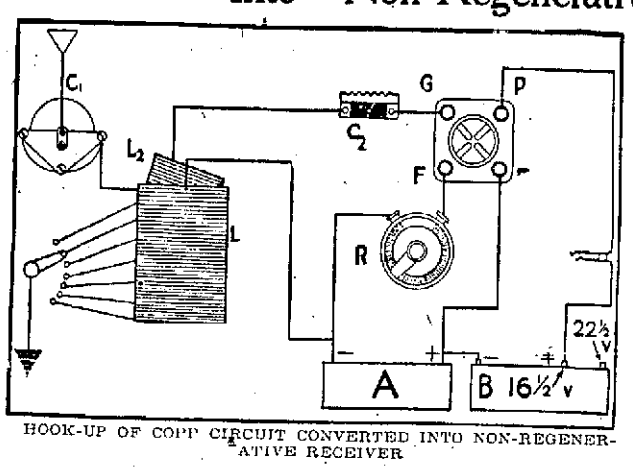
Copp Circuit Converted Into Non-Regenerative



HOOK-UP OF COPP CIRCUIT CONVERTED INTO NON-REGENERATIVE RECEIVER

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
N.E.A. Service Radio Editor

It is a simple operation to convert the Copp circuit to a non-regenerative hook-up.

The chief objection to a Copp set comes from others than those actually using the receiver—those who are annoyed by interferences by improperly tuned sets.

To please these neighbors there are two expediencies. One is to tune the set carefully, so that no oscillations will cause the set to reradiate. The other is the fool-proof method of converting the set to a non-regenerative circuit.

The set as originally hooked up causes oscillations of the tube to revert directly back into the aerial. To stop this the grid lead is taken off the aerial circuit altogether and the filament isn't grounded.

Simple Change

Instead the primary of the variocoupler, whether tuned or untuned, is grounded, while the secondary or rotor is hooked between grid and filament, instead of between plate and phones. The plate, in this case, is led directly to the phones.

The parts for this circuit are almost exactly those of the original Copp receiver, and the coils are of the same construction.

The primary consists of 70 turns of No. 16 DCC wire, with a tap off every tenth turn. It is wound on four-inch tubing six inches long. The secondary is wound on a 3½-inch rotor, with 17 turns of the same wire on each side.

Same Parts

Other parts include:

C1, a 43-plate variable condenser, .001 mfd.

C2, a grid leak and condenser, .00025 mfd.

One 6-ohm rheostat.

One tube socket.

One ¼-inch rod and dial, for the rotor.

Six binding posts.

Seven taps and switch lever.

Bus wire for connections, 8-inch by 12-inch panel, 6-inch by 12-inch wood base.

Instead of direct phone connections, a double circuit jack may be fitted into the circuit, for use of a two-stage amplifier. If this is desired, the two outside terminals of the jack should be connected to the plate and the 16½ volt, or 22½ volt terminal of the B battery, and the two inner terminals go to the first transformer, one to the plate terminal and the other to the positive B.

RECENT BROADCASTING MADE NEW FANS

Broadcasting the proceedings of the nominating conventions of the republican and democratic parties has tremendously increased the popularity of radio.

It has brought radio into the lives of thousands of people who never before felt the desire to own a receiving set. The way in which it brought the thrills and drama of the conventions to them was a revelation. From every section of the country, from cities as well as country districts, come reports of persons who listened to radio for the first time, during the conventions.

Not only did persons without radio sets of their own hear the convention news on sets in their neighbors' homes, but in clubs and hotels, and in parks where sets were installed for public convenience and with powerful amplifiers so that thousands of people could hear. It is an interesting fact, too, that the candidate nominated for president by the democratic party learned of his nomination by radio.

The long broadcasting of the democratic convention, especially, did much to popularize the use of loop sets. In thousands of clubs and hotels where no convenient facilities for an outside antenna and ground connections, sets operating on a loop and a loud speaker were used. And the results were excellent.

Such sets were a pleasant surprise to thousands of people who previously thought that radio meant complicated apparatus, a long wire strung on the roof, and another wire, even more bothersome, strung from the set to the bathroom to connect with a water pipe for ground connection and always in the way to be tripped over. When they heard the convention news coming in loud and clear through a loud speaker on a set antenna, their interest of an outside antenna, their interest and delight crystalized into a desire to have a set of their own.

RADIO MAKES AIR SAFER

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
N.E.A. Service Radio Editor

Before we start flying, radio is going to make it safer than motoring.

And we're about ready to start right now.

In fact, radio is far ahead of the science of aviation in preparations for the day when flying will become as popular as motoring. Lighter machines are still being tried out, smaller airplane engines are still on the testing blocks, and the helicopter type of plane is as yet incomplete.

But radio is already doing its share in flying. It is directing the coast-to-coast airmail pilots along their course, by day and by night. It is being used to keep pilots directly in touch with land wherever they may be. Conversations are held both ways, as though each pilot were at the end of a direct telephone line.

Twin Sciences

Experiments are continuing in Washington, in Dayton, O., and at other points in efforts to link radio with the airplane for their permanent and mutual benefit. At Washington, army air service flyers only recently succeeded in carrying on a lengthy conversation between pilot and ground.

Despite clouds, soaring or descending, whichever way he turned, Lieut. Burdette S. Wright, chief of the air service airways section, succeeded in talking with his comrades on land, without a break.

A similar test at Dayton showed that clouds, changing atmospheric pressure, height, direction, distance, position of plane—none of these factors affected the conversation in the least.

Improvement Seen

Now this system needs perfecting—lighter, more compact receivers and transmitters with standard controls for the simplest form of manipulation by the pilot or anyone else in the plane. The set used in the recent Washington tests consisted of a four-tube transmitter and a super-heterodyne receiver. The receiver itself consisted of a remote control amplifier and a tuner box.

The amplifier contained two detector tubes, three stages of radio frequency and two of audio frequency amplification. The tuner box contained the tuning units and the heterodyne.

Only a few years from now this will be looked upon as crude and clumsy.

In Dayton, at Wilbur Wright Field, the army air service is going much further with its experiments linking radio to flying. Pilots have already made trips from this point to Mitchel Field on Long Island without seeing where they were going. A little instrument in the plane directed them.

Now, by a directional radio beacon on land, and a radio-ized receiver on the plane, a pilot can make any trip without seeing land, except at the start and the finish. All he has to do is listen in, while his receiver keeps licking off the letter that tells him he is on the right course or the letter that warns him he is going astray.

With the transmitter and receiver, the pilot at the same time keeps in personal touch with land.

RUM CRAFT SEIZURE WILL BE TEST CASE

BOSTON, July 16.—The British three-masted schooner, Frances Louise, with 4000 gallons of Cuban alcohol on board, seized on rum row Monday night, was towed into the harbor yesterday by the coast guard cutter Ossipee. The vessel is alleged to be the mother ship and to have supplied small rum-runners which have been engaged in transporting the contraband to the shore.

It is understood to be the first seizure under the federal law which permits the seizure of vessels engaged in running contraband at a distance from port that the suspected vessel could cover in one hour, or that a connecting vessel, working in conjunction with her, could traverse in one hour.

The Frances Louise was taken 16½ miles from Race Point. While the schooner could not cover that distance in an hour, it is understood that the speed boat, Katherine B, which was seized in the lower harbor last Friday night, while heading for the Fore River with 600 gallons of alcohol, could easily cover that distance within the time limit. The Katherine B's load is alleged to have come from the Frances Louise.

The Frances Louise is said to be an old offender and it is alleged that she has been engaged in running rum for many months. According to the last issue of the Maritime Register, the Frances Louise left Lunenburg July 1 for sea.

Upon the result of the seizure and trial of this case will depend the activities of the federal authorities in their war against rum-runners peddling booze outside the 12-mile limit.

The Frances Louise is a wooden three-masted schooner of 184 tons gross. She was built at Lunenburg in 1917 and Lloyd's Register gives the owner as H. W. Adams of Lunenburg. The vessel is 125 6 feet long and carries a crew of seven men.

SIX KILLED AND 100 WOUNDED IN RIOTING

DELHI, British India, July 16.—Six persons were reported killed and more than 100 wounded in rioting yesterday between Mohammedans and Hindus. The disturbance was caused by what is described as the aggressive attitude of the Mohammedans who persisted in carrying cows for a sacrifice through the prohibited area where the Hindus live.

The Mohammedans are declared to have entered the Hindu streets, breaking open and setting fire to the houses and desecrating idols. The military force was called out with armored cars, and forced to fire on the mob. There were no casualties from this fire, the casualties occurring in the street disturbances. Order was restored after four hours.

K. K. K. LIQUOR RAIDER REMOVED FROM OFFICE

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ills., July 16.—S. Glenn Young, Ku Klux Klan liquor raider of Williamson county, Illinois, who in the last two months has acted as klan kleagle here, has been removed from office "because he exceeded his authority as a klan officer in publishing statement regarding an official of the United States government," according to an announcement today at klan headquarters.

"Fighting Bob" Evans who has been only slightly less conspicuous in southern Illinois klan circles, succeeded Young.

Decision to oust Young was made last week in Chicago by Charles G. Palmer, grand titan of the klan for Illinois. It was said after a protest by W. S. Potter, United States district attorney here. Potter objected to methods used by Young and to his alleged unfair attacks against himself and other federal officers, whom the klan leader charged with dereliction of duty.

NAVAL COURT REPORTS FINDING ON TURRET DISASTER ON WARSHIP

Insufficient Air Pressure Used in Cleaning Bore of Big Gun Cause of Explosion in Which 44 Men and Three Officers Were Killed

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The turret explosion aboard the battleship Mississippi, off the California coast last June 12, in which 44 men and three officers were killed, resulted from insufficient air pressure used in cleaning the bore of the big gun, according to findings of the naval court of inquiry.

The fire in the upper handling room, the court said in its findings announced yesterday, "was caused by the safety doors not being entirely closed," and casualties were increased by the presence of unofficial observers "who crowded the passageways, making exits more difficult."

The court made no recommendations, its report being confined solely to findings of fact. Secretary Wilbur and his technical staff have taken the document under study to determine whether there should be further action in connection with failure to comply with regulations requiring that safety doors in turrets be closed during firing operations and also with regard to the presence of unauthorized persons in the turret.

"The casualty in question occurred during the firing of the eighth salvo," says the summary of the report issued by the department. "Prior to that time, namely upon the completion of the load for the third salvo, the left gun of No. 2 turret fired prematurely while the gun was in loading position. As the plug was closed, no damage was done.

"As described by eye-witnesses, the main casualty occurred as follows:

"The seventh salvo had been fired, guns returned to loading position and plug opened. There appeared to be some trouble with air pressure, although not very clear just what, except that the gun captain was heard to make some remarks about air pressure; the turret captain picked up a wrench and stated he would fix it. The shell was rammed home, four bags of powder placed on the spanner-tray, and rammed into the gun, rammer withdrawn, whereupon there emerged from the breech of the gun a small grayish ball of smoke and flame followed by a large flash of flame. Flame and gases immediately filled the gun compartment, passed through the safety doors above the shell table to the other two gun compartments and through the peep-doors of the turret officers' booth. Deaths occurred as the result of ashphyxiation.

"The court was of the opinion that the premature firing of the left gun on the third salvo was due to 'foul bore' consequent to insufficient air pressure and guns not being properly cleaned of gas before loading.

"The court was of the opinion that the same cause resulted in the main casualty; the gun being fired into the wind probably made the expulsion of gases more difficult; that the number of casualties was increased by the presence of unofficial observers who crowded the passageways making exits more difficult; that the damage casualties on the left and centre guns probably resulted by the failure to keep the safety doors over the shell lable closed; that the fire in the upper handling room was caused by the safety doors not being entirely closed."

OUT OUR WAY

IN NEW YORK

By Stephen Hannagan

NEW YORK, July 16.—One of the clerks at the hotel in which I live is an Englishman, small of stature and unusually active.

Although he has been in the hotel business many years he does everything as though he were an efficient beginner, trying to earn a raise in salary.

He is by far the most accommodating hotel clerk I have found between New York and San Francisco.

Yesterday I learned, after knowing him two years, that he is worth a fortune, made in well-chosen business transactions.

Each year he spends his vacation in Europe, spending much of his time in London, the town of his birth.

He remains in the hotel as clerk because it gives him an opportunity to meet so many people—"some of whom are interesting," he adds.

He could buy and sell the majority of guests to whom he caters.

New York is a peculiar place. In the office building in which I work one can't ride on the passenger elevator unless he has on a collar. In other words he must be dressed fit to kill before he is tendered transportation.

On a warm afternoon, while sweltering over a typewriter, I run out of tobacco. I dashed for the elevator—fully dressed except that I had taken off my collar and tucked my neckband in.

"Take the rear elevator," commanded the dusky operator who has been getting all my spare cigars for months, "delivery boys and help ride on the employes lift. You can't ride on this car unless you are fully clad."

Back in Lafayette, Ind., my home town, you could put your bathing suit on in the office and ride on the elevator to and from your swimming lesson and nobody appeared distressed.

"Before you make your will," advertises a New York bank in the Fifth avenue busses, "be sure to consult us."

A few years ago—in the pioneering days of automotive transportation—that sign would have stricken terror in the minds of nervous people, just as it might if it were posted in the cabin of a passenger airplane today.

But the busses are safe.

PRE-NATAL DIET

When Mrs. Mann of Anytown was anticipating her first baby, she had a long consultation with the family doctor on diet, exercise and other questions.

"One thing is certain," the doctor told her, "and that is the necessity of a well-balanced and mixed diet. The diet should contain a mixture of fats, proteins, minerals and carbohydrates. By all means, drink plenty of water.

"In the early days, when nausea is likely to be a disturbing factor, it is best to dispense with three large meals a day and substitute a half-dozen small ones. The medical world has disproved the old saying that an expectant mother has to eat for two. She has to do nothing of the sort, and eating foods that would be likely to disturb the stomach is silly.

"In the later days, when motherhood is near, red meats should be eaten not more than once a day, while fish, eggs and meat should not be eaten every day, due to the protein content.

"On the other hand, fruits, vegetables—particularly vegetables of the leafy variety—help build up the mineral supply which is needed."

BOOKS

George Putnam Recalls Civil War Days

BY THE N.E.A. BOOK SURVEY

Even the World war has not taken from the Civil war the doubtful honor of being the more interesting to read about.

The number of books about the war of '61 is legion. Even so, one more will be welcome.

The latest to come from the press is "Some Memories of the Civil War," by Major George Haven Putnam. It is chock-full of color and romance. Besides telling of his own experiences as captain and adjutant, Putnam includes some incidents that, even if told before, are little known.

One is about Abram S. Hewitt, the iron founder. Hewitt was one of New York's greatest philanthropists and is known as probably the ablest man who ever occupied the city's mayoralty chair.

General Grant once made an urgent call for 30 mortar beds to be used at Fort Donelson. The contractors said they would require 90 days to build. But Hewitt, at a cost of $30,000, and without profit, delivered them in 28 days.

Each car left the factory with this inscription: "U. S. Grant, Cairo. Not to be switched under penalty of death."

Although Hewitt didn't take a cent profit and sidetracked all his orders, he didn't get paid the $30,000. On a trip to Washington, he went to see President Lincoln. Lincoln greeted him cordially, and when told about the money which had not been forthcoming, he became angry and sent for Stanton. Lincoln wrote on the bill: "Pay this bill now!" Hewitt and Stanton went to the treasury and the money was paid at once.

Major Putnam describes days spent in famous Libby prison, Virginia. The hardships of prison life are described in detail.

Probably the reason the book is so interesting is the fact that it is not a hasty collection of notes. It contains memoranda written over a long period of years. The book is the thirteenth Putnam has written.

P. G. Wodehouse, brilliant farceur, has just written the greatest tragedy of the age. It is a volume "written in blood." It is the outpouring of a soul as deeply seared by Fate's unkindness as the fairway on the dogleg of the second nine was ever seared by my iron," says the author in his "fore" word.

And the golfer, if ever he topped the ball on the very first tee, will carry on more lightly as he reads this volume on "Golf Without Tears" (Doran). It is a collection of ten short stories written over a five-year period of golf. Every good duffer should let his caddie carry a copy, for in it he may find solace when the going becomes too hard and the score passes 200.

In Afghanistan, all a man has to do to take a girl as his wife is to cut off a lock of her hair or throw a sheet over her.

NORTH COMMON MOVIES

A large gathering witnessed the movies on the North common last evening. Approximately 3000 adults and children enjoyed the fine program which included an educational film, news reel, comedy and feature picture. The screen was placed on the slope near the Fletcher street firehouse and a more advantageous spot could not have been chosen.

SECRET OF HAPPINESS

The greatest menace on earth to happiness is the ill health with which so many women are afflicted. The young woman is subject to pain and irregularities, the mother to the torture of displacements with consequent pains, aches and nervousness,—the middle aged man to the uncomfortable conditions caused by this critical age. The one remedy to control these conditions and restore the system to a normal, healthy condition is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for fifty years has been restoring sick and ailing women to health and happiness.—Adv.

After about three dances I used to think it was a delicate attention to a girl to keep away from her.
I can dance now without embarrassment
I inherited my body from ancestors built for hard work. Vigorous exercise, summer or winter, makes me perspire like a fat farmer pitching hay.
After about three dances I used to feel that it was a delicate attention to a girl to keep away from her.
Of course, I bathed. I even tried those things women use, for I was sensitive about it.
How I got rid of body odors
I was going to a dance one night with the girl. That afternoon, in a store, I picked up a cake of Lifebuoy. It smelt clean—the kind of cleanness I needed—not an affected perfume, but a good honest smell that meant business.
Before dressing, I soaked for a minute or two in hot water. Then I worked Lifebuoy into the open pores. Never saw such lather in my life. It wasn't like the stingy, sticky lather I had known, but a great creamy mass of foam with a kick in it. I could feel my skin getting clean by the minute. More dirt came off than I would have believed clean looking skin could conceal.
And positively not an odor all evening. Lifebuoy had penetrated to the root of the trouble. My pores were so antiseptically purified that no matter how much I perspired, there was no unpleasantness.
And by the way, my hot and cold Lifebuoy shower in the morning keeps me on my toes all day. I used to dread hot weather—now I like it.

Orange-red Lifebuoy is the color of pure palm fruit oil...It has a clean odor (quickly vanishing). That's why you'll like it.
Some Men Succeed So Easily
Welcome awaits them everywhere. Big men like them. They radiate a magnetic force that puts things over. It is the aura of health. Build up health. Avoid sickness. Health wins. Lifebuoy is the Health Soap.

Auto Business Chased State Capitol Away From Detroit

BY WILL M. CRESSY
(Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

Detroit, the city that ruined the shoe trade.

The first record we find of Detroit was in 1701, when a French automobile manufacturer, by the name of Cadillac, came there and established a Detroit branch of the Cadillac factory.

The town and the shop did real well up until 1812, when a party of English tourists, under the command of General Brock, came to town, knocked the town apart and put it together to suit themselves.

But a year later, an American patriot, Sir Henry Ford, recaptured the town, built a little shop and started making Eagle boats for the United States navy and Ford cars for the rest of the population.

By 1824 the town had grown so big that it was made the state capital. But it was not a success. The minute a legislator would get there he would throw up his job and go to work for Henry Ford. So, in 1847, they moved the capital to Lansing, where there would be nothing to disturb the deliberations of the law makers.

Detroit is a real pretty little village, with street cars, a moving picture theatre, several papier-mache hotels and 21 public parks.

Belle Isle, the largest of these parks, is on an island that it cost three and a half million dollars to get to. Just illustrating what Detroit folks are willing to pay to get out of town for an hour.

On this island is the largest flock of tame canoes on earth. It was started in 1896 with only one pair of canoes. And by letting (human) nature take its course it has grown to its present size.

In former years, during hard times, the other 20 parks were devoted to potato raising. But now they are given over entirely to fruit, peaches, pairs, prunes and night-blooming dates.

They also abound in wild life, such as squabs, goslins, ducks, dear, old bucks, sad dogs and young pups, old hens and young chickens, night hawks, chicken hawks, sparrow cops and nurse girls.

If all the automobiles made in Detroit in a year were paid for, nobody in America but automobile makers and agents would have a nickel.

Detroit makes more stoves in a year than all the countries of Europe would use in 50 years.

In addition to all the automobiles made in Detroit, Henry Ford also makes money.

For a while there was talk of putting a Ford in the White House; but it was a flivver.

Detroit is called "The Working Man's Paradise?" No matter what trade, business or profession you follow, you can have your own newspaper or magazine in Detroit. For there are:

The American Elk, the Beekeepers' Review, the Bulletin of Pharmacy, the Concrete Magazine, Electrocraft, the Cleaner, the Horseshoers' Journal, the Medical Journal, the Dairy Farmer, the Investor, Motorman and Conductor, Motor News, the Retail Druggist, the Stove Mounters' Journal, the Studio, Perin's Stenographer, the Therapeutic Gazette—and, although I do not know where they get their subscribers —the Truth.

Yes, 'Brother Charley' Likes His Little Nip of Grape Juice

By N. E. A. Service

LINCOLN, Neb., July 15.—Charles Wayland Bryan, democratic nominee for vice president, is bald.

Like his famous brother, William J., he goes in for grape juice and skull caps.

But where the "Commoner" is of medium height and leaning to corpulence, "Brother Charley" is a big, upstanding man.

He's more than six feet tall, with lots of pep. He holds his head up, shoulders back and walks with swinging, vigorous stride. And he has a bristling white mustache, whereas William J. is smooth of face.

They call Charles Bryan "Brother Charley" because for more than 20 years he has lived in the shadow of his brother's greater fame.

But he has been the Bryan in Nebraska ever since his election to the governorship in 1922. He has been the acknowledged leader of the state's dry forces ever since William J. quit Nebraska for Florida.

The new Bryan in national politics is 57 and has lived in Nebraska for 31 years, coming here from Salem, Ill., where he was born.

He was a traveling cigar salesman for a time. Then when his brother got important enough to have a private secretary, "Brother Charley" got the job.

Later he was publisher of his brother's paper, the Commoner. Still later he was publisher and editor.

He was mayor of Lincoln from 1915 to 1917. He believes in municipal ownership of public utilities. In fact, he established a municipal coal yard in Lincoln and saved users $4 a ton.

"Brother Charley" is not the orator that William J. is. But he has the reputation of being a better organizer.

He has always followed and supported the political theories of his brother, and William J. is said to have more confidence in the political opinion of "Brother Charley" than of any of his other associates.

As tribute to his political shrewdness he is credited with an important part in the defeat of Champ Clark and nomination of Woodrow Wilson in the 1912 democratic convention.

The Bryans are regarded hereabouts as "plain folks," rather than "society" people.

They belong to the Presbyterian church, and "Brother Charley" is as ardent a churchman as Brother Bill.

The Bryans have two children, a son, who was a captain in the United States army, and a daughter, whose wedding plans have just been announced.

BOY GRAZED BY REVOLVER BULLET

While attempting to hide a small calibre revolver from a policeman last evening, John Marez, 15 years old, of 17 George street, accidently discharged the gun and the bullet went through his clothing and grazed his left side. He was taken to St. John's hospital and allowed to go home after the injury was treated.

The boy purchased the gun from a friend yesterday afternoon and last night showed it to several of his friends in Williams street. While engaged in displaying his purchase, Officer Patrick Bagley appeared on the street and the boy tried to hide the weapon under his coat. In doing so he accidently discharged it, the bullet passing through his clothing and barely grazing his left side. Finding the boy slightly injured the patrolman commandeered an ambulance and had him taken to St. John's hospital.

TO AID VETS' BUREAU

Appointment of Council on Medical and Hospital Affairs Announced

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Appointment of a council on medical and hospital affairs, comprised of nineteen prominent physicians, to aid the veterans' bureau in improving its service, was announced today by Director Hines. The council, which will visit various centers of the bureau throughout the country will hold its first conference with Gen. Hines and Dr. E. O. Crossman, medical director of the bureau, in Washington, July 22-24.

"In rendering advisory service to the bureau," said General Hines, "the members of the council may be asked to give opinions on some of the details which give us concern in general, and it is desired that they consider, as specialists, and as ex-service men the broad aspects of the needs of the war disabled and the best methods of extending assistance to them in line with relief legislation and the regulations now in force."

The council includes the following specialists from New England: W. C. Rapplaye, New Haven, Conn.; Joel E. Goldthwaite, Boston; Frank Billings, Rhode Island; G. M. Kline, Boston, and Douglas A. Thom, Boston.

FOREST FIRES CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Eastern Washington, northern Idaho and California today were continuing their more or less unsuccessful battles against forest fires, but rains in western Washington and Oregon had nearly ended the fire menace there.

Fires in Northern Idaho and northeastern Washington last night had burned over several thousand acres of timberland, and had destroyed the surface workings of four mines, a number of ranch houses and much property of lumber companies, including several hundred thousand feet of timber. So far as known, no lives have been lost.

RICHARD CROKER'S WILL ADMITTED TO PROBATE

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., July 16.—Three children of Richard Croker, former Tammany chieftain, lost another step in their contest of his will when County Judge R. P. Robbins, admitted to probate here yesterday the will he made on Oct. 12, 1919, at Glencairn, his estate in Dublin, Ireland, bequeathing to his widow, Mrs. Bula E. Croker, his entire estate valued at $10,000,000.

Accepted as the last will and testament of the late political boss, it revokes all other such documents. The three children, Richard, Jr., Howard and Ethel, who have prosecuted a long court fight to overturn the will on grounds that Mrs. Croker, his second wife, exerted undue influence over her husband in his late years, and other charges, announced through their attorney that they would appeal the decision.

PRES. COOLIDGE TO STAY IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 16.—President Coolidge will spend the remainder of the summer in Washington unless something unforeseen develops. The summer so far has been cool—that is cool for Washington and the president has told friends he and Mrs. Coolidge have found the White House quite comfortable and have made no plans other than to remain there.

Week-end trips on the Mayflower afford more real rest, in the president's opinion, than would a stay of several weeks outside the capital.

Inasmuch as Mr. Coolidge is not to be formally notified of his selection as the republican presidential nominee until Aug. 14, it is not probable he will leave Washington for any purpose before the first of September.

WARSHIP WARSPITE WINS RODMAN CUP

PLYMOUTH, England, July 16.—Stokers of the crew of the British warship Warspite today won the Rodman cup, presented to the British fleet by Admiral Hugh Rodman, who commanded the American fleet operations with the British in the last war.

Each battleship in the Atlantic fleet entered one cutter and the Rodman race is the supreme test of the regatta, the winning crew being slated as champion of the fleet.

ANNIVERSARY OF BATTLE OF STONY POINT

NEW YORK, July 16.—The anniversary of the battle of Stony Point, celebrated there without a break for 139 years until the World war, will be observed today with a double program. The Grand Army of the Republic, West Point Cadets, 2000 Boy Scouts, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the Revolution and other patriotic and civil organizations will participate.

WILLIS EMPLOYES ELECT OFFICERS

At the regular meeting of the Willis E.M.B.A. held last evening, the following officers were elected for the coming six months: Charles H. Willis, president; John H. Whitney, vice president; John F. Foley, chairman; Miss Lois Hamilton, treasurer; John J. Copley, collector; board of trustees, Thomas Donahue, John Secor, George Everson, Ray Leblanc and Thomas McGunne.

The committee in charge of the outing held recently was accorded a rising vote of thanks in recognizance of the excellent work accomplished.

It was voted that the meetings of the organization be held the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

RAPID ACTION BY LIQUOR SQUAD MEN

A man arrested, the case tried in district court, and sentence imposed, all in half an hour, was the record made by Sergt. Winn and Officer Leahey of the liquor squad this morning.

The two officers, armed with a search warrant, visited at 369 Moody street after 9.30 o'clock this morning. After a search Sergt. Winn discovered a cleverly concealed trapdoor in place in the bottom step of the stairs leading to the cellar. Opening the trapdoor, several pints of alleged liquor were found cached underneath and the arrest of the clerk, Joseph Harvey, followed.

In court, Harvey was arraigned on a charge of illegal keeping and fined $100.

A. F. OF L. AND LA FOLLETTE

Some of the radical labor organizations are in favor of endorsing the La Follette ticket and also of having the American Federation of Labor support his candidacy for the presidency. We do not believe that President Gompers would sanction any such proposition. He has always held that the proper policy for the A. F. of L. to pursue in politics, is to act independently, holding itself free to assist the friends of labor and punish the enemies thereof in all election contests.

It will be remembered by the older residents that the Knights of Labor, which was at one time fully as strong as the American Federation is today, was completely wrecked by the blunder of its leader and president, Terrence V. Powderly in casting its lot with the republican party in a great national contest. The organization was smashed to pieces and put out of existence, only to be succeeded by the American Federation of Labor. It is plain, therefore, that the best policy for any such labor organization is one of neutrality as between the great political parties.

President Gompers has always maintained a firm stand against socialism which is entirely to his credit. He is also opposed to every form of extreme radicalism and in the matter of political affiliation, he has always advocated a policy of independence so that labor organizations might be free at all times to vote for the candidates who showed most sympathy for the rights and interests of the laboring people. Thus far that policy has been successful, and we do not believe that President Gompers at this stage will countenance a departure that will attach the organization of which he is the head to the La Follette kite and thus identify it with a band of radicals who can never win public confidence as have the various labor organizations making up the A. F. of L. and that follow the wise counsel of President Gompers.

MR. DAVIS ON AMENDMENTS

Hon. John W. Davis, the democratic nominee for president, has put himself on record as in favor of four amendments to the constitution of the United States. In an able address as president of the American Bar association delivered at the convention of that organization last year, he declared in favor of an amendment which would call a newly elected congress into session on the first Monday in January following its election and which would inaugurate the president and the vice president on the third Monday of that month.

He also favored an amendment that would permit the president to veto separate items in an appropriation bill. Another amendment which he favored would permit the ratification of treaties by a majority instead of a two-third vote of the senate. He would also amend the constitution in reference to the process of making amendments so that ratification should be submitted directly to the people of the several states or to legislatures selected after the amendment had been proposed.

It will be seen that these amendments are very conservative and that each of them would result in a great improvement in the method of conducting the national government. Much might be said in favor of the four amendments which Mr. Davis specifically endorsed in his address.

There are petitions before congress favoring as many as 50 amendments to the constitution some being rather of a sectional nature and in the interest of a particular part of the country; but the amendments favored by Mr. Davis are of such a general character that they apply equally to the entire country, and would obviously bring about very material improvements in the methods of conducting our national government.

ELECTING A PRESIDENT

In view of the fact that Senator La Follette is to run as an independent candidate for president, it is regarded as possible that the election of president may be thrown into the house of representatives. This will result if none of the candidates secures a majority in the electoral college. Then the national house of representatives will have to elect, each state delegation having but one vote. At present the minimum required for such election would be 266 and in this event the smallest state in the Union could be as potent as the largest or most populous.

If called upon to elect a president, the house should elect one from the number of candidates not exceeding three who received the highest number of votes. A majority vote of all the states shall be required to elect.

But if no choice be made before the fourth day of March next following, then the vice president shall become president as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the president.

As to vice president, if none of the candidates receives a majority vote of the electoral college, then it will devolve upon the United States senate to select from the two candidates highest on the list, the vice president. In this case a majority of the total number of senators shall be necessary for a choice.

These possibilities are provided for in the constitution, although in spite of the unusual situation this year, it is probable that the democratic candidate will be elected so that no unusual complication such as that here suggested will arise.

LOWER TAXES

According to Capper's Weekly, the people of this country now enjoy the lowest rate of taxation since the war. That comes as a result of the tax reduction bill framed by the democrats in congress and forced through, despite the protests of the republican party, which stood for the Mellon bill. Even when President Coolidge signed the bill he expressed his disapproval something after the manner of the well known Scotch verdict.

THE NATIONAL DEBT

If we all chipped in $200 apiece we could pay off the entire national debt. Every one has not the $200, however. So the debt remains and the public, by taxes, pays interest on the debt the same as if the debt money were a bank loan.

National debt now is around 21,343 million dollars, after deducting cash in the treasury. The total has been reduced over 4000 million dollars since its peak in 1919. Salvaged war materials account for considerable of the cut. From now on, the debt probably will drop less slowly. The public will have less money for taxes.

DEAF PHONES

A talkless phone for deaf mutes is invented by William E. Shaw of Cambridge, Mass. It is worked by a typewriter at one end of the line making lamps light at the other end. There is an elgctric bulb for every letter of the alphabet.

When two people, who can neither speak nor hear, can communicate by "phone," it is time to ask if anything is impossible.

LIFE'S SNAPSHOTS

Many of our young people have acquired the "moving picture mind." All life to them is a series of snapshots, with no chance for a time exposure. Hence they cannot think straight on any subject. They are a bundle of transient impressions and confused ideas.

President Faunce of Brown university says this. It is a new idea, vivid and correct. Modern life is a kaleidoscope of fleeting impressions. The old-timers had fewer things of interest and got closer to things basic. Ours is a generation of surface thinkers.

Rev. Charles T. Billings who returned to preach at All Souls church on Sunday was formerly very active in community affairs as pastor of the First Unitarian church. He was quite popular throughout the city while he served here as pastor, because of his outspoken advocacy of civic righteousness and uplift.

Thus far it does not seem that the choice of the democratic convention for president merits the approval of the republican party. There were so many weaker candidates, the G. O. P. is astounded that the demmies did not select one less able and popular than Davis.

It is a ministerial humorist who informs us that a wife has just as good a right to smoke as has her husband. Undoubtedly, it is true that women have a right to do a great many things that they do not care to do. So have the men. It is not always so much a question of right as of duty and propriety.

Nothing is as uncertain as the weather. Despite this, various insurance companies write policies against rain interfering with such things as ball games, street fairs and circuses. But they have lost so heavily of late on account of abnormal weather that they are likely to increase their rates.

The midnight descent of a gang of young men upon a girl scout camp near Amherst, Mass., can be compared only to the descent of a pack of wolves upon a sheep fold. It was fortunate that the matron in charge had revolvers at hand with which to defend her score of young girls.

A smoking car for women is attached to one of the fast Chicago-St. Louis trains on the Illinois Central. It will be there permanently. Traffic demanded it. It is one of the changes made necessary by the demand for all the rights, privileges and conventions of man.

We are to have a rent commission which will act chiefly as an arbitrator between landlord and tenant in case of dispute over rents. While it is supposed to be a non-salaried body, it will probably result in the creation of one or more new city jobs.

In common with his Lowell constituents, The Sun wishes Congressman Rogers a speedy recovery from the effects of the surgical operation made necessary by an attack of appendicitis.

Tammany has chosen as its new leader, Judge Olvany. Perhaps that means that we are to have no more unbossed democratic conventions.

What's In a Name

It must be hard to live in a dry town that is named Champaign, Ill., and have to pass a store bearing the sign, "Beers & Beers" every day. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Doesn't Risk It

The house had been rapidly built and as rapidly occupied.

"Do you find the house substantial and satisfactory?" inquired the landlord when he called.

"Well," said the tenant, "I go outside to sneeze!"

On Their Way

"You can't get the best of those railway porters who bang your things about," said Jack.

"I labeled my trunks 'China' and thought they would handle them with unusual care."

"And did they?" inquired his friend.

"I don't know. They shipped them all the way to Shanghai, and I haven't seen them since."

How About "Trilbies?"

One of the latest additions to the language is "dogs" a slang term for feet. "Kicks" are shoes. The expressions have been in use for a number of years and are well established.

With this glossary, you will be able to understand the following sign which was recently placed by a shoe dealer over a display of ladies' footgear:

"Classy Kicks for Canning Dogs."

On the Nose to Win

"That is the favorite," said the girl's escort as the nags came out upon the tracks. As the horses paraded past the stand the escort surveyed them keenly and then registered trepidation.

"Something has happened," he declared. "The favorite has something wrong with his off hind hoof."

"With his off hind hoof?" echoed the girl. "In that case I'm glad I put my money on his nose, as you advised me."

His Appreciation

The two men went into a country tavern to obtain some refreshment.

The drinks were about to be paid for by one when the other broke in. "Look here," he exclaimed. "I've been staying at your house for three months. You've looked after me very well. You've taken me to theatres and you have always paid. Fair's fair. You mustn't pay for this drink."

"But—" began the other.

"No, no," said the second man, "we'll toss for it."

Beauty

(From the Yale Review)

If beauty is a thing of happy chance.
Good fortune without meaning, source or end,
A game to see how this and that will blend,
Without a law to mold the circumstance:
If beauty comes and passes like a dance,
Having no strength to build or power to mend,
Leaving each friend uncertain of his friend,
And thus being nothing in the world's advance,
Why does the sight of beauty move us so,
Even to silence when the twilight hour
Changes the world beyond imagining?
Why does the thought of beauty make us know
That we are kin to an immortal power,
That what we are contains a deathless thing?

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Capt. Spencer G. Hawkins of the Metropolitan police force, "won the day," as it were by declaring that he approved of spooning on Revere beach and parking along boulevards and streets, providing "the couples do not make themselves too conspicuous." "There is no harm in spooning," continues the captain in an article published yesterday. Wonder if Supt. Gardner of the water works department approves of Capt. Hawkins' statement. It is but recently that property of the water works department was damaged by loving couples who parked their machines on the grounds of the department regardless of property damage.

I wonder how many persons who pass through the square daily recognize in the stately young traffic officer who guides them on their way one of baseball's budding lights ten years ago. Few, if any, and the writer did not recognize in him the erstwhile moundsman of "Jimmie" Gray's 1914 nine until a brother officer mentioned on the matter while talking of the national sport. The officer in question, Harry Maroney, donned the uniform of the Lowell club of the New England league back in 1914 and for several months did his bit on the mound for the team. Friends of Harry say he would have made a big leaguer if he had kept at it, but his enthusiasm died and he became one of "Lowell's finest."

With the vacation period at its height and pleasant weather as an incentive, Boy Scout activities, not only locally, but throughout the country, are daily increasing and marked enthusiasm is shown by members of this great organization of boys. Camping with attendant educational and recreational exercises is at the peak of success. Last year a total of 225,000 scouts were in camp during the summer, is included in the camping curricula as compiled indicates a substantial increase. Winter camping was boomed last year and during the school vacation periods a large number of boys camped out in log cabins built by themselves. Hiking, winter and summer is included in the camping curriculum as is swimming in summer and skating in winter. Baseball and hockey games in season are also offered the boys. Fire fighting, one of the most instructive lines of life saving, is taught each member of the Boy Scout organization and the members are allowed to qualify in this art as in swimming. While encamped the boys are forwarded magazines, periodicals, fiction and non-fiction books and other forms of educational matter. An interesting department of the scout organization is that of seascouting. There is at least one seascout ship in every region, there being 88 regions. A troop or crew comprises the personnel of a seascout ship and over 200,000 miles have been covered by the seascouts. Seascouting last year was tested by rough seas and the crews sent out this year are qualified in every detail as first class seascouts. The part of 1924 offers a new program, new manual, new uniform, and a training base in each region. The scout pledge taken by every scout and which alone spells manhood and good citizenship is as follows: "On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to my God, and my country, and to obey the scout law. A scout is clean; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

REPUBLICANS BUSY ON CAMPAIGN PLANS

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Having deferred opening of the active national campaign until Aug. 14, republican leaders declared yesterday they planned to use the intervening month in building up a smoothly running party machine.

The framework of the party organization as turned over to John T. Adams, the retiring national chairman, and added to by William M. Butler, the new national chairman, is to be strengthened and rounded out under present plans; additional headquarters are to be opened; any existing factional differences will be eliminated so far as possible, and the whole situation brought to a point where the campaign can be energetically put under way immediately President Coolidge sounds the keynote at his notification ceremonies here Aug. 14.

The plans for the intervening month of work will be discussed by Mr. Coolidge with Chairman Butler before the end of the week. Mr. Butler was to arrive here today, but late yesterday word was received at the White House that because of delay in the opening of the New York headquarters he would not be able to come to Washington for probably two or three days. The New York offices when opened will be in general charge of Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman for that state.

Mr. Coolidge also will take up with Mr. Butler, the creation of an advisory committee. The advisory committee as conceived by Mr. Coolidge will be an informal body with its membership dependent largely on the problems that arise. It is not the purpose of the present republican campaign management to create a definite advisory committee as was done in 1920 when Chairman Hays settled the late A. T. Hert of Kentucky, Mr. Hilles, John W. Weeks of Massachusetts and Harry M. Daugherty of Ohio are his official advisers.

Mr. Coolidge soon will begin work on his acceptance address. He plans to devote considerable time to it—as much time as his executive duties will permit—and to prepare it in much the same manner as he did his message to congress last December. Preparatory to the notification ceremonies, invitations to the event were sent out yesterday from the offices of the national committee. They went to members of the committee, republican governors, republican members of congress and leading republicans in various parts of the country.

The notification of Charles G. Dawes, the vice presidential candidate, is expected to follow closely upon the Coolidge notification.

Republican leaders here announced yesterday they already had settled one factional dispute by bringing together for the first time in years the two wings of the party in Georgia, one headed by Henry Lincoln Johnson, negro republican national committeeman, and the other until recently led by John L. Phillips, chairman of the state committee.

"IMITATION" LABELS ON ORANGEADE BOTTLES

BOSTON, July 16.— Secretary Hugh J. McMackin of the Eastern Soda Water Bottlers' Association sought to get Deputy Health Commissioner P. H. Mullowney to permit that organization's members to substitute the phrase "artificially colored and flavored" on labels of bottles containing orangeade made from an extract of orange rind, which bottles now are labeled with what McMackin called the "ugly" word, "imitation." Dr. Mullowney flatly refused the concession.

The Food Inspection Division's annual hearing on this branch of trade, held in city hall annex yesterday, was well attended.

Dr. Mullowney reminded McMackin that the federal authorities still insist upon the use of the word "imitation" in such cases, and asserted that he will not relax the rule until they do. He expressed the hope they never will permit the change.

Dr. Mullowney added that when mothers are directed by family physicians to put orange juice in baby's milk they should get fresh oranges and not buy "orangeades" which are made from rind extracts.

Dr. Mullowney complimented the bottlers on the general cleanliness of their plants, but sternly warned those of them who put too much artificial coloring matter into their products. The bottlers praised the department's fairness toward them.

The Light That Fails

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

When you're down in a cellar that's dark as can be, and you're searchingly groping about, you just about find what you're trying to see—then the pesky old candle goes out.

A man holds a match box, there's one match within it. 'Tis struck for a pipe light, no doubt. And then while he stops just to chat for a minute—the match flickers and goes out.

You sit by a lamp and you pick up a book. Then suddenly you are disgusted. So often, before you have taken a look, the lamp globe goes black, 'cause its busted.

Old Sol sends his rays through your front window pane and it hints of a beautiful day. Then, almost in nothing, the clear turns to rain as a cloud up and gets in the way.

The lights that you light in the darkness of night and the light that turns night time to day, are fine when they're lit, but they don't make a hit when they suddenly flicker away.

SONG

My dear mistress has a heart
Soft as those kind looks she gave me,
When with love's resistless art,
And her eyes, she did enslave me.
But her constancy's so weak,
She's so wild and apt to wander,
That my jealous heart would break
Should we live one day asunder.

Melting joys about her move,
Killing pleasures, wounding blisses:
She can dress her eyes in love,
And her lips can warm with kisses.
Angels listen when she speaks,
She's my delight, all mankind's wonder;
But my jealous heart would break,
Should we live one day asunder.

—John Wilmot (Earl of Rochester).

DISCUSS HOURS FOR COFFEE HOUSES

Two hearings before the license commission last evening drew such a large attendance of proponents and opponents that it was necessary to open the district court room to accommodate them. The first hearing was on the Sunday opening hours of the coffee houses, protest being entered against their early opening by Bishop Vasilios of the Greek Orthodox church. The second was on a petition to open a lunch cart at Lawrence and Rogers street.

The coffee house proprietors opposed the bishop's petition at the hearing. The latter contended the coffee houses should not be opened Sunday until noon, instead of early in the morning as at present. As there were over 15 proprietors present and many arguments were started between the two factions, the commission ordered the proprietors to name a committee to appear at the next meeting of the board and present their cases.

The lunch cart petition met with opposition from a dozen property owners in the vicinity of Lawrence and Rogers streets and after a long hearing on Angelo Charetto's petition for this lunch cart location, the matter was taken under consideration and later the petitioner was given leave to withdraw.

The following licenses were surrendered: Sunday license, Helen Rusky of 3 Whipple street; coffee house, Constantine Vlohos of 570 Market street; ice cream license, Krakos Boyadjian of 57 Powell street, Jeffroy Cossette of 25 Common street and Kathrina Moses of 6 Liberty street.

The following renewals were granted: Coffee house, Constantine Vlohos of 412 Suffolk street; old gold, silver and platinum, Joseph Simon of 175 Central street; lodging house, Mary Killoy of 39 Elliot street.

The following applications were acted on favorably: ice cream, Edward M. Boyadjian of 57 Powell street; Joseph Jacques of 144 Rosemond avenue, Lena Picard of 849 Lakeview avenue, Armond J. Boulanger of 287 West Sixth street, Arthur J. Kiralos & Co. of 6 Liberty street, Wastia Saley of 31 Whipple street and Eva Desrosiers of 25 Common avenue.

WALL STREET PLUNGER SAYS WIRES TAPPED

NEW YORK, July 16.—Charges that private wires leading from his office in upper Fifth avenue to the offices of several brokers have been tapped lately, were made by Jesse L. Livermore, famous plunger of Wall street, in a statement appearing today in the New York World in which he denied rumors that he had suffered heavy losses recently in his speculations.

As a result of the alleged wire tapping, much information of a valuable and confidential nature has been obtained by persons for whom it was not intended, Livermore asserted. He said the rumors that he had suffered heavy losses were "laughable."

"The report that I have suffered losses, particularly in American Can Co. stock," he said, "is obviously due to certain interests that are trying to manipulate that stock. I have not lost a dollar in American Can to say nothing of several millions."

CHINA AND RUSSIA TO EXCHANGE OFFICIALS

PEKING, July 16. (By the Associated Press.)—China has accepted the proposal of the Moscow government that China and soviet Russia exchange ambassadors, the foreign office announced today. A note accepting the Moscow proposal was delivered to the soviet mission here July 14.

The foreign office is advised that L. M. Karakhan, who has been the soviet envoy to the far east in general will be the first Russian ambassador under the new arrangement. As such he will outrun the diplomatic representative of the other powers here, who are only ministers. Karakhan carried through the negotiations leading to China's recognition of the soviets.

China's choice of an ambassador to the Russian government has not yet been announced.

TO DIVIDE MANAGEMENT OF DAVIS CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, July 16—Although John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, has not committed himself publicly on the question of dividing the management of his contest for the presidency it was said today by persons high in democratic councils that the candidate is favorably inclined toward such a division of responsibility. At the end of his all-day conference with party leaders yesterday, Mr. Davis said that no decision had been reached on the matter.

The plan contemplates the sharing of the campaign directorship by the chairman of the national committee and the campaign manager. Should such an innovation be adopted it is reported that Clem Shaver, national committeeman of West Virginia, may be chosen for chairman of the national committee—this despite rumors to the contrary. One of the most seriously considered possibilities for campaign manager is said to be Thomas J. Spellacy of Connecticut, formerly an ardent McAdoo follower.

It is said that the campaign manager is almost certain to be an eastern man. As a result, there is much speculation regarding Vance McCormick of Pennsylvania and also some discussion of Daniel C. Roper, of New York, both of whom were actively identified with the Wilson campaign.

The nominee has made arrangements to leave Friday night for Islesboro, Me., the home of Charles Dana Gibson, but it is said that if a committee chief is not chosen by that time, the visit may be cancelled.

DEVICE TO ELIMINATE "LISTENING IN"

NEW YORK, July 16.—The invention of a device to eliminate "listening in" or interference in radio transmission, has been announced by John Hays Hammond, Jr., vice president of the Radio Corporation of America, who returned from Italy yesterday.

Complete isolation of sender and receiver is afforded by the invention, Mr. Hammond said, by a method of sending out rays which have curves and dents in them, similar to the rise and fall of the pulse on a nurse's chart. Only the receiver familiar with the wave type can read the message, Hammond asserted. He spent two months in Italy arranging for the use of the invention.

The new method of transmission will also make it possible to flash complete pages of print across the Atlantic ocean by radio, he predicted.

"During my stay in Rome," he said, "I had the honor of demonstrating my system to the representative of the Vatican, Commandant Manucci, who recommended its use to the Vatican observatory, where I am going to conduct some experiments in connection with radio for astronomical observance. In audience with the pope I was interested to learn of his enthusiasm over radio matters and he discussed with me the application of my work to the needs of his observatories."

GIRL SCOUTS GUESTS OF ENGLISH GUIDES

LONDON, July 16.—The American Girl Scouts and Girl Scout leaders, representing 160,000 fellow girl scouts at home, left here today for the world camp of girl guides at Foxlease, Hampshire, where 36 nationalities will be represented in a camp lasting a week.

The girl scouts are the guests of the English guides. The American contingent included Misses Emily Holbrook and Edith Morrell, chaperons of Massachusetts.

Nearly a million campers entered the national parks last year.

DECIDE LIQUOR ISSUE

Voters of Saskatchewan Register Choice — Two Questions on Ballot

REGINA, Sask., July 16.—Voters of Saskatchewan in an election today were registering their choice as to whether they desire to remain "bone dry" or to permit liquor to be sold for beverage purposes, under government control.

Two questions appeared on the referendum ballot, one of them subdivided. Every voter must answer which of the following do you favor: "Yes" or "No" to the first question, which is: "Are you in favor of prohibition in Saskatchewan?" Those who vote in the negative on this question will be expected to answer the following:

"If a liquor system under government control could be established, which of the following do you favor: (a) Sale by government vendors in sealed packages of all spirituous and malt liquors; or (b) Sale by government vendors in sealed packages of all spirituous and malt liquors, and also sale of beer on licensed premises."

The province has been dry since December, 1916, which was the first time women exercised the franchise. The vote put the then existing system of sale under government control out of business by a large majority.

IMPROVEMENT IN N. E. APPLE CROP

WAKEFIELD, July 16.—Conditions up to July 1, were much more favorable than the average for the apple crop, the New England Crop Reporting Service announced today and 13 per cent better than last year. The percentage of normal condition on July 1 by states was:

Maine 88, New Hampshire 88, Vermont 87, Massachusetts 82, Rhode Island 84, Connecticut 82; all New England 85.2.

Earlier varieties were reported better than later ones, with Baldwin and McIntosh mostly a moderate crop. The report pointed out that the crop "is yet subject to several unmeasured influences which may alter the present outlook very much."

Peaches were reported a good crop in Connecticut and Rhode Island but light in Mississippi and virtually none in New Hampshire.

a wrecking crew all by himself. Not forgetting, of course, his right-hand assistant at the same game—Fireman Edward M. Gourley.

The fact that nearly every time an accident happens to a Lowell-Framingham shuttle train, no wrecking outfits have to be summoned before service can be resumed, was demonstrated anew on a level stretch of the "Old Colony" line this morning, at a point between North Acton and Carlisle stations.

Only a few passengers were on the morning local that left Concord Junction at 8.15, bound far and due in Lowell at 8.55 a. m. The "grasshopper," No. 447, is one of the older "locos" of the New Haven equipment, but not so old. Whittier has a pet pride in the big fellow and it is always in condition A 1.

This morning, before the usual run with the baggage car and combination passenger and smoking car, Whittier made his usual "once over." Everything looked O. K., and nary a thing looked suspicious about the mechanism of No. 447 or the coal tender, which also gets the "all right" verdict before the scooter rolls north for Lowell and way stations.

Nothing happened until after the jitney train left North Acton station. About a mile and one-half beyond and less than a mile from Carlisle station, the dozen or more passengers felt a sudden shock that appeared to have been made by the car wheels rumbling over something on the track or hitting something between the rails. The train was moving at fair speed between stations, but Whittier on the throttle up ahead, jammed on the air and brought the scooter to a quick halt. Before the train came to a stop, the continual pounding on the wooden sleepers could be heard by the puzzled commuters distinctly.

The trainmen's investigation resulted in the discovery that two brake beams on the locomotive tender had dropped from their positions onto the road bed. The movement of the train, scraping the beams and steel frames and attachments along the wooden sleepers, jammed and twisted the irons in amazing fashion. Long iron braces, more than an inch in thickness, were twisted like molasses candy. Thick iron braces and "blocks" were ripped and torn if it were made of tin.

The sleepers for several hundred yards were gouged by the broken brake beam irons, the wooden slabs in some instances looking as if axe-hewn.

The real mystery of this story lies in the fact that two brake beams dropped on of position on a single piece of railroad transportation equipment. Single beams have become disconnected in the same way in the past, it being an accident not out of the ordinary, but the dropping of two at the same time surprised the railroad huskies this morning, who cannot understand it at all.

The best part of this story is yet to come. Accidents of this kind generally delay train service for hours, and sometimes wrecking crews from the railroad repair shops have to be summoned. This morning, Engineer Whittier and Fireman Gourley, aided by Conductor Frank S. Boyle, who missed a good breakfast waiting for him at the old mansion home at 110 Congress street, grabbed wrenches and bars and chains from the train and locomotive emergency tool boxes, and in just 40 minutes from the time the broken brake beams were discovered, the debris had been removed after the hardest kind of manual labor.

The Framingham scooter rolled proudly into Middlesex street station with everybody praising those fellers in the blue overalls and cap up front, who did a dandy job that everybody wondering why that train was late this morning, ought to know about.

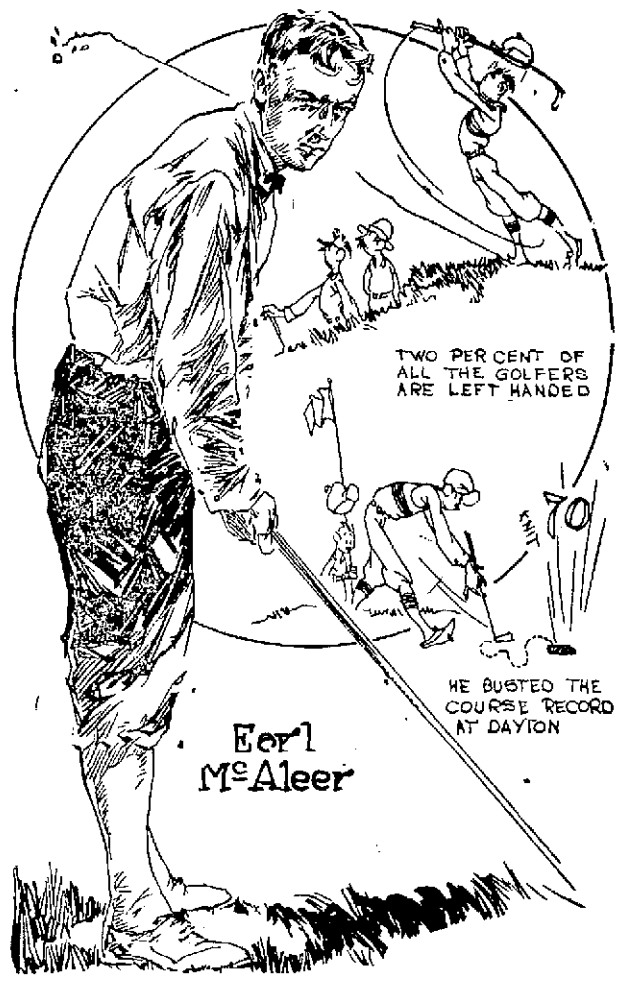
Expert Predicts Al Mello of Lowell Will Win World's Welterweight Championship

No Left Hander Has Ever Won Golf Title in America



BY JOE WILLIAMS

Left-handed golf champions are scarcer than swamp frogs with pink beards. No left-hander has ever held a national title in this country. Earl McAleer, a youngster in Washington, may prove to be the first.

McAleer outstroked all competitors in the medal round in the recent public links tournament at Dayton, carrying off top honors with a card of 150. On the top of that he cracked the course record with a 70.

A rather widely accepted belief seems to exist that a left-handed golfer is physically handicapped, and for that reason can never hope to compete on even terms with grade A right handers.

Doctors who golf tell you that the heart being on the left side—where self-respecting hearts are supposed to be—induces a flat swing, with the result that the backward movement of the drive lacks the freedom and ease the right-handed player enjoys.

There may be, as the village half-wit said, peering down the mouth of the musket, something in that too.

Here's the Real Answer

Statisticians in the employ of manufacturers of golf supplies report that less than 2 per cent of the total golfing population of the world is left-handed.

Do you wonder then that right-handers predominate?

Nevertheless there have been and still are quite a few outstanding left-handers in the game. We recall that Fritz Martin, a left-hander, twice won the amateur championship of Canada. Moreover, he was good enough, in his day, to beat Bob Gardner in an international match at Hamilton.

Chick Evans has reason to remember a left-handed player from South Australia, one Bruce Pearse. The American was well on his way to possible championship in the British amateur in 1911 when he ran afoul of Pearse in the fifth round and was bowled over flat.

Southpaw Beats Evans

Cecil Leitch's sister May is a left-hander and no chivalrous gent will deny her skill. The English girl has gone to the semi-finals in the French championship and on two occasions at least has led open tournaments in stroke play.

The main handicap of the left hander is that he is tremendously outnumbered.

We wonder how many right-handers would be holding titles if the 2 per cent ratio was reversed?

Spike Webb, Director and Trainer of U. S. Olympic Team, Pays Tribute to Lowell Boy

SUN MAN AT RINGSIDE

Says Mello Confident on Eve of Great Battle in Colombes Stadium

Al Mello, Lowell's sensational amateur boxer, now in Paris as a member of the United States Olympic team, an honor he won by capturing the national title in the 147 pound class, is fit, confident and happy, as the time arrives for him to step into the ring in the great stadium at Colombes, near Paris, to do his bit to uphold the prestige of America in the great international games, according to word received today in letters from Raymond E. Dowd of The Sun, now at the ringside "over there."

Mello's stock took a great boost, says Mr. Dowd, when he came down from his hut and set his eyes on John Souza, his life long friend, trainer and manager; the man more responsible than any one else for his development into a national champion and a contender for the world title.

The meeting between Mello and Souza was one that will long be remembered by Mr. Dowd. They took each other into their arms and remained embraced for several minutes. Mello was also glad to see The Sun man, though modesty prevented Mr. Dowd from making much comment on his reception.

Spike Webb of Baltimore, Md., former professional boxer and at present physical instructor at Annapolis, has complete charge of the American boxing team. He is well qualified for the task and is regarded as one of the leading trainers of boxers in the world. He took an active part in the training of the doughboys during the war and his success at that time brought him due recognition from the government and his present appointment at Annapolis.

Picks Mello to Win Title

Naturally all look upon "Spike" as an authority and expert on the boxing game. His opinion on Mello was sought by Mr. Dowd and this is the reply he gave to the Lowell man's query: "Mello looks to me like the best amateur welterweight I have ever handled and if he doesn't win the world's title, I shall be very much surprised."

Webb's high regard for the Lowell boy is further attested by his decision to permit John Souza to appear in Mello's corner during the bouts. Ordinarily the Olympic officials handle the boxers, but realizing the close bond between Souza and Mello, and the advantage to be gained by having such a capable and interested man as Souza on hand, Spike made John an "official" for the bouts. The action brought words of praise from the Lowell trio —Mello, Souza and Dowd. Further courtesies were also extended by Mr. Webb as well as William C. Prout of Boston, head of the A.A.A., to whom Mr. Dowd presented a letter of introduction and recommendation from "Charlie" Landers of Lowell.

In all, three letters came to The Sun last night and this morning from Mr. Dowd. They contain interesting and picturesque impressions of the impending battles. They are presented in chronological order:

Paris, France
July, 1924

Editor of The Sun.
Dear Sir:

So this is Paris!

After an all night's ride from Cherbourg to Paris, from 10.30 o'clock to 6 in the morning, we finally arrived at the well-known spot, familiar to all globe-trotting folks the world over.

We sighted the suburbs of Paris shortly after dawn and as we drew closer we distinguished the famous Eiffel tower standing majestically out on the dim horizon, a pretty setting for an artist to paint.

As soon as we were ushered into the street by the way of the St. Lazaire station, we started to hunt some place to make our headquarters. After a brief search we were rewarded, securing a nice hotel. The next task was to locate the American Olympic team, mainly to find our fellow townsman, Al. Mello. After a vain search for information we secured a taxi driver who knew where the boys were located. The place where the main body of athletes is stationed is near a town called Rocquencourt, (Seine and Oisne.) It is about six miles out of Paris and about one mile and a half past the stadium at Colombes.

We halted outside the massive iron gates, over which waves a huge American flag, between the tri-color of France and the Olympic flag. Going inside we discovered ourselves on a huge estate. About one hundred yards beyond the gate lies the Chateau de Rocquencourt, a beautiful mansion of white stone. This estate was formally owned by the Prince Rocquencourt.

Going up a long winding road until we reached the summit of the hill, there on a level stretch beyond was the object of our quest, the bearer of our hopes in the Olympics. He was just coming down the lane that led from his hut to the wash room. He sighted his lifelong friend John Souza and he came tearing down on us. What a reception they both had!

Al looks the picture of health. He is bigger and stronger than ever and seems to be enjoying himself immensely.

Of course Al had all the usual questions to shoot at the newcomers. He confessed being a trifle homesick at first, but he has changed now for the better, and with Souza cheering him up he looks forward with confidence to the big bouts.

Title Bout July 20th

Al fights on the 15th of the month and if he goes through the preliminary contests will be fighting for the title about the 20th of July.

JOHN SOUZA

Following is a list of the training life Al goes through. He rises at 7.30, has breakfast at 8 o'clock. At 9 o'clock he goes on the road for at least two or three miles. He goes to work on the chest weights, using them for 15 minutes, then he punches the bag for about 15 minutes; following this he has a nice shower bath and that finishes the morning workout.

He has dinner at 12 and after dinner rests up until 4 o'clock. Starting with boxing. He boxes with many different sparring partners, generally two or three rounds a day, then comes shadow boxing which lasts until he figures he has had sufficient, sometimes 10 minutes, sometimes 15 or 20 minutes. Another shower bath and then wait for supper which is at seven.

All athletes must be in bed before 10.30 o'clock and all lights are extiguished at 10.45. Very few of the athletes can get permission to go to Paris and it will be that way until after the event in which they are entered takes place.

The sleeping quarters are in portable buildings of heavy cardboard construction and are 11 in number. Each hut consists of 10 rooms, 5 on each side, each room has plenty of space and two men occupy a room.

Mello's roommate is Harry Wallach of New York, a brother of the famous Leach Cross. Wallach is a 126 pounder and was runner up in the 126-pound national championship this year. Also in Al's hut are the following boxers: John Rini, last year's 147 pound national champion, Hugh Haggerty of Pittsburg, another 147 pounder, Fred Boylstein, 135 pound national champion, Harry Marcus, 112 pounder, Jackie Fields, 126 pounds, Ben Funk, Yale student who won the title this year at Boston in the 160 pound class, Al Allergini another 160 pound boxer, George Mulholland, light heavyweight and Eddie Greathouse, a heavyweight.

The boys are a merry bunch and make lots of noise around camp. It is a good sign as it shows the spirit of our athletes, upon whom the United States is depending to uphold her prestige in the international games.

The dining room is a large roomy wooden building with a dozen tables, seating about 20 men to a table. The cooks and waiters are French. The team drinks water, carried over from the states, as the committee felt the change of water might be dangerous and hence an ample supply of good old water, the popular drink? In the U. S. now, is on hand for the mitt wielders.

Webb Directs Boxers

The folks back in Lowell, of course, are naturally interested in the officials in charge of the American boxing team. Spike Webb of Baltimore, Maryland, has charge of the entire boxing team, representing the United States.

Webb's word is final and the boys respect him for it. If the men persisted in disobeying orders it would mean that they would forfeit their right to compete for the United States. Several of the team are liable to miss an opportunity to box because they thought they could beat the game and Spike discovered it.

When the boxers are working out, Webb is always stepping around correcting faults here and there, showing how it should be done and results will demonstrate the care and attention when they step into the ring at the cirque of Paris, the first events coming on the fifteenth of the month. Webb is eminently qualified to instruct as he has piloted eight international boxing teams, including one inter-allied team and two Olympic teams. His presence on the Olympic team assures the American public of best coach of boxers in the business.

Taught By Joe Gans

Spike Webb was a professional boxer of prominence some years ago, in fact he has been boxing since he was 14 years old. He is now 35 years old and looks and acts many years younger. Spike was taught the boxing game by the famous Joe Gans, in his home town of Baltimore, Md.

During his professional career Webb boxed a no-decision battle with ex-featherweight champion, Johnny Kilbane, at Baltimore. He has defeated Eugene Crique, who won the title from Kilbane; he also has beaten Grassi, who was featherweight champion of Europe.

Spike in the past few years has not done any professional fighting; he met Kilbane in 1916, Crique and Grassi in 1919, during the war in France.

He had charge of all the American boxers of the United States A.E.F. in France during the World war, coming from Camp McClelland, where he was physical instructor. Webb came overseas with the 29th Division and saw service for nearly two years.

Congress offered him a position when the war finished as physical instructor at either West Point or Annapolis. He chose the latter, and has been there since. His classes number over 200 all year round. Boxing is compulsory at the academy. Webb has five assistant coaches.

Al Lacy of Boston is Webb's Olympic assistant, and Lacy knows his business also. Lacy is a familiar name to boxing and boxers in Boston, where he has handled many pugilists in long and successful careers. Al is also very popular with the boys, for they know he is with them all the way, and he sure is.

Webb Praises Mello

When asked about Al Mello, Mr. Webb had the following to say: "When Mello first came to me, he had several faults regarding his boxing form, one was his guard against right hand punching. Now he blocks that form of attack perfectly. Al looks to me the best amateur welterweight I have ever handled and if he doesn't win the world's title I shall be very much surprised."

Mello has a pair of punching bag gloves autographed by all the leading athletes. He prizes them highly as a priceless souvenir of the great event. Jole Ray, Charley Paddock and Jackson Scholz are some of the signatures.

Jackie Fields of Los Angeles, Cal., will bear a lot of watching in the 126 pound class, he is fast, clever and a good puncher. This lad has the goods.

Eddie Eagan, former Yale man, winner of the light heavyweight class in the Olympic games in Antwerp in 1920 is one of the busiest men in the camp. He is an ardent worker and has to be told to call a halt.

The lightweight class has three crackerjack entries, Fred Boylstein, Pittsburgh National champ; Ben Rothwell, New York, and Royal Coffman, Omaha. Each is capable of winning the big prize.

In the featherweight class, Jackie Williams of Hollywood club, New York, National champion; Jackie Fields, Joe Lazarus of Cornell University, and Harry Wallach are the banner-bearers. As only three men can be entered and Spike Webb will pick the likely trio just before the bouts.

The bantamweight class will have two California boys, Fidel Gabara and Ray Fee, also Pete Sarron of Alabama; this is surely a busy trio and all continue to show improvement.

The heavyweights shape up well with George Greathouse, Lester Mayle, Joe Madden and "Rags" Maderia.

Three entries in the 147 pound class, include the champion, Al Mello, John Rini of Cleveland, and Hugh Haggerty of Pittsburgh. These will take care of themselves in any company.

Light heavyweight division is headed by Eddie Eagan, of Oxford University, England, formerly of Yale; Tom Kirby of Boston, this year's national champion; Murray Gillitz of New Haven, Conn., and George Mulholland of Virginia.

The middleweight class is also a strong one, headed by Ben Funk, Yale, national champion, and Allergini of California and Harry Marcus of Philadelphia.

Entertained by "Bill" Prout

Tell my friend Charlie Landers that his letter put me in right with W. C. "Bill" Prout. The latter is one of the most prominent and important officials here and to meet him is to enjoy a most pleasant time. He entertained my "buddy" and constant companion, John Souza, and myself lavishly and saw to it that we didn't want for anything. My credentials from The Sun have given me access to virtually every place of interest, and also to the headquarters of the officials as well as the principals in the various events. In fact, since arriving at Paris, Souza and I have been practically living with the athletes. We have rooms at a hotel, but we eat with the athletes. And the menu is some different from that "enjoyed" on my last visit to this section. (Mr. Dowd served overseas for 22 months as a member of the Y.D. during the war.)

Everything is O.K. with the Lowell party and we all look forward with confidence and anticipation to the great goal, the winning by Mello of the world title. If condition, confidence, cleverness and happiness count for anything, Al will reach the objective, and will return to the good old Spindle City with the world welterweight championship dangling from his belt.

Regards to all.
RAYMOND E. DOWD.

MELLO WINS HIS FIRST BOUT

PARIS, July 16 (By the Associated Press)—In the Olympic welterweight boxing yesterday, Al Mello, Lowell, Mass., won from Doussot of France on points. Mello had the better of the first two rounds. The third round was about even. The crowd hooed the decision giving the event to Mello.

ALL AMERICANS WIN PRELIMS.

PARIS, July 16.—(By the Associated Press) All seven Americans in the Olympic boxing trials at the Velodrome d'Hiver came through victoriously yesterday afternoon and evening. The victory of Ben Funk, the Yale champion, over the lanky Australian Jones, who surpassed him in height and reach, was a feature of the evening session. He boxed masterfully, saving his strength for the pinches.

Old Loyal W Tries Comeback on Turf

LOYAL W

(By N.E.A. Service))

CLEVELAND, July 16.—Entered in some of the notable events of the current harness race season is one of the old-timers of the game, Loyal W, with a mark of 2.04¾.

To a large number of present day racegoers, whose memories are none too retentive, this probably does not mean much, but to the hardened fan, who follows the game, it conjures up memories of bygone days.

Loyal W at one time was a Grand Circuit king, pacing with the very elite on the Big Time. No field was too speedy, no route too far. Frank Hedrick, we believe, campaigned the old warrior.

Then suddenly one day his speed went back on him. As they would say on a running horse track, "He couldn't raise a respectable gallop." Then he disappeared from the turf. Occasionally some fan would inquire what had become of old Loyal W, but none seemed to know.

His name appearing in the season's big entry lists was like a voice from the grave and horsemen everywhere began asking each other, "Can Hedrick's old hoss came back after all these years? Can he compete with his younger and sturdier rivals?"

On occasion of his last appearance on the big tracks he sold for $800, a smash in the auction betting, so strong a favorite was he.

Billy Evans SAYS

One year often makes a lot of difference in the career of a ball player. Often some seemingly minor happening plays a prominent part in shaping the destiny of a player's future.

The case of Pitcher Rallie Naylor, late of the Philadelphia Athletics, is a striking example of such a truth.

A year ago at this time Naylor was the one best pitching bet of the Athletics, not excepting the brilliant Eddie Rommel. Today he is back in the minors.

For years Connie Mack carried Naylor in the belief that he had the makings of a great pitcher. Year after year Naylor showed flashes of greatness, but lacked a certain something that kept him from reaching the realms of stardom.

Last season, in the early spurt that carried the Athletics to the top of the race, Naylor did his part by winning seven straight games.

"Naylor has finally arrived," remarked Connie Mack to me after the pitcher had turned in one of his good games. "He's overdue but it was worth waiting for."

A few days later Naylor was the victim of an accident that probably was the cause of his passing from the majors. Incidentally it started the Athletics on the road to ruin.

With seven straight wins to his credit Naylor, anxious to keep it, spent his offdays working in the outfield during batting practice.

With an overflow crowd in attendance, watching a double header with New York, Naylor suffered a serious knee injury during the preliminary work.

Chasing a fly ball, he saw he was about to come into contact with a low rope that had been stretched to keep the fans on the field in check. He tried to jump the rope, failed, took a bad fall and injured his knee.

It was necessary to carry him from the field. Later it was learned that he was badly injured and wouldn't play for weeks.

I was sitting on the Athletics' bench, next to Connie Mack, when the news was brought to him. His face became serious and he remarked to me.

"That is probably the beginning of the end for Naylor and my ball club. He's my one best pitching bet right now. The club is going to suffer. If he is as badly hurt as they think, it may ruin him as a pitcher."

Naylor came back after a long rest of perhaps eight weeks, but he was never quite the Naylor of old. During the remainder of the season he managed to win five and lose seven games.

One year has passed and Naylor, the pitching sensation of the early stages of the last year's race in the American League, has been shunted to the minors.

Too much enthusiasm resulted in an injury that ruined his career.

A lot of things can happen in one year in baseball.

PINCH SWATTERS COME IN HANDY

By N.E.A. Service

DETROIT, July 15.—It is an unusual spectacle to see a champion batsman taken out for a pinch hitter, yet it has happened twice in the American League this year. Both times in this city.

Harry Heilmann led the American League in 1921 and after losing the title to Sisler in 1922 regained the honors last season.

Sisler, in 1922, the year he led the American League, was voted the most valuable player in that organization.

American League pitchers will tell you they fear no two hitters in the league more than Heilmann or Sisler.

Despite this, Sisler removed himself to let a pinch hitter bat for him. Recently Manager Cobb removed Heilmann for a substitute batter.

It so happened that both Sisler and Heilmann were in the throes of a protracted slump at the time.

ABBOT WORSTED AND NO. CAMBRIDGE IN TIE

Darkness necessitated the calling of the Abbot Worsted-North Cambridge game at Russell field, North Cambridge, last night, at the end of the ninth inning with the score tied at 3-3.

North Cambridge scored three runs in the second inning and was held to two hits in the remaining eight innings by Purcell, a new acquisition of the Cranitevile aggregation. Abbots scored one in the second, one in the third, and tied the score in the eighth.

TINY MITES CARRY OFF GOLF LAURELS

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Heft never has meant a whole lot in golf. This year it appears to mean less than ever. Cyril Walker won the open championship of America. Cyril is hardly bigger than a quick breath.

At the start of the championship he weighed 120 pounds. A few moments after he finished the second day's play the winner, he stepped on the scales in the bath room and registered 116 pounds. A bantamweight triumphant among a field of Goliaths!

Walker won because he had mastered the two essentials in golf, namely, perfect timing and a smooth body rhythm. Whether it is easier for a midget to master these details than a man of extraordinary size is hard to say.

Bob MacDonald of Chicago is probably the tallest professional in the game, and is big proportionately. It was MacDonald who set the craze for long distance hitting.

Even now he is one of the longest hitters in the game. And in every other respect he is a capable golfer. For two straight years he has been the Metropolitan open champion. The first year he won it he led Jim Barnes, runner up, by 10 strokes.

Ted Ray, the Briton, is even bigger than MacDonald, and Ray was good enough to win the American open in 1920. But size has had nothing to do with the success of MacDonald or Ray or any of the other big 'uns. It has not in any way been an asset.

The diminutive Walker drove right along with the slugs gunners at Detroit. Even the fierce gales that blew down on him did not take the pep out of his swats. Walker was hitting the ball correctly and timing his shots perfectly—and that's all the golf masters ask of you.

Another golfer, no bigger than Walker, has just won an important championship. Jimmy Manion, St. Louis amateur, who finished first in the Trans-Mississippi, is smaller than a hangnail, and twice as troublesome to opposing golfers.

And Jack Wenzler, now southern champion, can probably make the featherweight limit without doing more than five or ten minutes' road work.

Death by boiling was a favorite method of execution in the time of Henry VIII.

MACK SAYS MATTHEWS WILL BLOW

By N. E. A. Service

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Connie Mack is not at all excited or irritated over the showing that "Sparkplug" Matthews has made with the Washington club.

Mack had Matthews last season. In the early stages of the race he was a sensation. Later he slumped and was benched. At the close of the season he was sent to the minors.

Recently when the Mackmen met the Nationals, attention of Mack was called to the timely hitting of Matthews.

"That's fine," replied Connie, "but Matthews is not a consistently good hitter. He hits in spots.

"My pitchers will stop him. He can be slowed up if properly pitched to.

"This is not a case of sour grapes. I released Matthews because I believed he couldn't hit up to the standard that must be maintained by a major league outfielder.

"He has the winning spirit and would be a sensation if able to hit around the .300 mark."

Mack's pitchers then proceeded to make good the claims of their manager. In four games he got only one hit against his former teammates.

Against Boston pitchers, who followed the Mackmen, Matthews had no better success. After Mack gave out his opinion as to Matthews' hitting ability "Sparkplug" went eight consecutive games without getting a hit.

GOLDSTEIN MEETS LEDOUX TONIGHT

NEW YORK, July 16.—Abe Goldstein, world bantamweight champion will defend his crown against Charlie Ledoux, veteran French contender, in a 15-round bout at the New York Velodrome tonight. Although Goldstein will enter the ring a strong favorite, the Frenchman is expected to furnish stiff opposition. This is Ledoux's third trip to America in quest of the title.

TED MOORE DEFEATS MORRIE SCHLAIFER

KEEN COMPETITION IN THREE SPORTS AT OLYMPICS TODAY

Americans All Set to Carry a Determined Battle to Their Rivals in Tennis, Swimming and Boxing—Helen Wills Favored to Win

PARIS, July 16 (by the Associated Press).—Now that the fields are narrowing down in all branches of the Olympic championships, competition promises to be keener today with the Americans all set to carry a determined battle to their rivals in at least three sports—tennis, swimming and boxing. Miss Helen Wills, American woman tennis champion, demonstrated by eliminating Mrs. Satterthwaite of England in the singles yesterday that she will make a strong bid for the Olympic title. She is among three American women in the last 16 of the championship contestants, the others being Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup. The men survivors are R. Norris Williams, Watson M. Washburn and Vincent Richards.

Francis T. Hunter, who was put out of the running yesterday by Jean Washer, the Belgian star, remains in the doubles with Richards, along with Williams and Washburn, among the men, while Miss Wills and Mrs. George Wightman are the sole surviving women's pair.

Today, Johnny Weissmuller, holder of some 50-odd world's swimming records and whose renown in France as a champion natator, equals that of Charley Paddock as a sprinter, makes his debut at the Les Tourelles pool in the Olympic competition. Also starting in this event are Arne Borg, Frank Beaurepaire and Andrew Charlton.

The boxers from the United States who got off to a good start in the first eliminations yesterday will carry on in the ring battles today. A contest between American and Ireland loomed up this morning when Ben Rothwell, lightweight, from the United States, meets Kelleher in the 12th bout on the program.

Today's rowing schedule consists in final eliminations in three events—the four-oared, with coxswains; the single sculls and the eight-oared shell.

BRAVES PLAYERS FIGHT IN HOTEL

CINCINNATI, July 16.—The Braves did so much fighting in their hotel early yesterday morning that they had little pep left with which to attack the Reds in the last game of the series and so were shut out, 7 to 0, for the second consecutive time. Carl Mays pitched a careful and steady game, while Lucas lasted less than five rounds and Cooney was also hit freely.

The Braves played listlessly and without ginger, evidently owing to the slumbering embers of the internecine strife which had occupied their attention so short a time before. They tried to be very quiet and secretive about the details of the big battle among the members of the team, but several of the players carried marks of the fray on their persons which could not be disguised.

It was reported that the combat took place in the early morning hours at the end of a prolonged party in which Boston athletes had indulged in the absence of their manager, Dave Bancroft. Five or six of the players took part in the free for all, but only two were seriously damaged. Mickey O'Neil was wearing a bandage on a badly puffed and discolored chin, and Jess Barnes was nursing a sprained thumb which kept him out of action.

Suspensions to Follow

CINCINNATI, July 16.—A fight among members of the Boston National League club, alleged to have been the final result of an all-night party in the team's hotel here, probably will have an echo within the next few days. Dick Rudolph, acting manager, who is handling the team during the absence of Manager Bancroft, was reported as being ready to take action in suspending the principals in the fight. The Braves play at St. Louis today.

Do you know Baseball?

If you want the final decision on any baseball dispute, write Billy Evans, N.E.A. Service, 1200 W. Third street, Cleveland, O.

Question

1. Is it permissible for the manager of a team sitting on the bench to signal either to the pitcher or catcher the kind of ball that should be pitched? My contention is that the playing of the game should be confined exclusively to the active players.—G. C.

2. Pitcher starts his delivery to pitch as stray ball is returned to the infield. Umpire noticing it rolling on the ground, calls time. Pitcher delivers ball, not hearing the umpire's ruling, and batsman hits ball into the left field stand for a home run. What is the proper ruling?—O. C. K.

3. Two players are of equal speed, one is a left-handed batter, the other a right-hander. Which can get to first base in the quickest time?—R. D. E.

Answers

1. Your contention is well put, but baseball precedent gives the manager the right to signal from the bench to pitcher or catcher. Manager McGraw of the New York Giants is credited with running his club along such lines.

2. It is an unfortunate situation, but if the umpire has called time because of the stray ball that has rolled on the field, he suspends play and renders void the home run made by batsman, who must hit over.

3. The left-hander, because his position at the plate shortens the distance to first base a few feet.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Lowell Junior Twilight league managers meeting will be held Thursday night after the game instead of Friday because of the important business to be settled.

There will be an extra game on the North common tonight when the Emeralds will meet the Mysteries of Centralville to break the 6 to 6 tie game held over from last week.

The Victorias challenge the Hudson A. A. or any team from 18 to 20 years old. The Victorias will cross bats with the strong Pawtucket Blues of the Junior Twilight league next Thursday. The Victorias lineup is Koscrolek lf, Huot rf, Dupont 1b, Monshy 3b, White c, Lemieux 2b, Hamel ss, Ballemar cf, Noel p, Ducharme p.

The Lawrence A. A. would like to hear from the C. Y. M. L., St. Peter's Cadets or any other team for a game on Saturday or Sunday. Answer through this paper, or call 1979-Y between 5 and 6 p. m.

The Crystals in last night's Sun issued a challenge to the Dixon Shoe Fix team, but failed to put in any address or phone number. Now if they will call 6740 the Dixons will accommodate them. The Dixons have several open dates on their schedule for next week and will play any team in the city, first come, first served.

The C.Y.M.L. will clash with the dangerous Lawrence A.A. team Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, on the North common. The battery for the C.M.A.C. will be Mullin and Sexton.

The C.Y.M.L. team will be selected from the following men, and all are requested to report for practice Wednesday evening, on the North common: Twomey, Walters, Rogers, O'Connor, Davis, St. John, Paquin, Ashe, Stapleton and Lockwood. Puck Connors will be back on third after two weeks' absence.

After a short lay-off the Crystals have resumed playing and challenge the Lawrence A.A. or the Dixon Shu-Fix for a game on Sunday. On Friday the Crystals will take a trip to Pelham to play the town team. All players are requested to report for practice.

The C.Y.M.L. had an easy time defeating the Saginaws last Saturday on the North common. Score 10-4. Mullin's fielding and the battery work of Richards and Sexton were the features of the game.

Sunday, on the North common, the C.Y.M.L. will meet the Lawrence A.A. As both teams are playing winning ball, a great game is expected.

Jimmy Mullin will toe the slab while Joe Sexton will be on the receiving end, also "Peck" Connors will be back at his old position at third base after an absence of two weeks.

AMERICANS COME FROM BEHIND TO WIN

Entering the final inning four runs behind their opponents, Marie's Americans staged a thrilling rally and piled up five runs, defeating the Pawtucket A. A. nine by the score of 7 to 6, in the City league series on the South common last night.

The Pawtuckets scored two in the first and four in the second, while the Americans made two in the second. The third, fourth, fifth and sixth innings were scoreless and it appeared to be a victory for the Pawtucket aggregation. But the Americans were not to be defeated. Mulno, first up in the final stanza, grounded out. Ennis singled, Gleason singled, Crowe was hit by a pitched ball and took first. Three on, one out. Daly popped out. Two out. Barron walked and a run was forced in.

With the score 6 to 3 in favor of the Pawtuckets, Onanian chose one to his liking and drove it out between centre and right field for three bases, scoring three runs. Score 6-6. Sullivan singled, scoring Onanian and the game was won. The score::

HUGGINS SAYS YANKEES ARE ABOUT "SHOT"

By N. E. A. Service

NEW YORK, July 16—"The season of 1925 will mark the end of my career as a major league manager," says Miller Huggins of the New York Americans, three-time pennant winner.

"I intended to retire at the close of this year. Possibly would if my club was going as well as it was a year ago, but it isn't.

"The Yankee team is beginning to break. I don't like to get out while it is slipping. I would much prefer to hand over a strong club to my successor.

"In several departments of the game the club must be rebuilt, notably in the pitching.

"Good pitching has made the Yankees, been a big asset in winning three pennants, but pitchers cannot go on forever.

"The veteran members of the all-star pitching staff that has done big things for my club are beginning to slip. The fact that a couple of the vets are going back is very pronounced.

Pitchers Have Run Their Race

"Hoyt alone of the Yankees' staff, is a young man, and he is a veteran in the point of pitching experience.

"My club has not been very fortunate with the young material that has been picked up. Conditions have reached the point where the owner of the club must go out and buy up the best pitchers the minor league market affords. The pitching staff of the Yankees must be overhauled.

"Thought must also be given to the position of shortstop. Everett Scott, one of the greatest infielders of all time, is fast slowing up. His great endurance record has exacted a certain toll.

Everett Scott on His Last Legs

"Looking to the future, shortstop is one position that must be considered. A successor to Scott, who can step right in and fill the bill, is very necessary if the club is to continue a pennant contender.

"As a matter of fact, the Yankees as a team are aging and must be given an infusion of new blood to carry on. "It is going to be a tough battle to win this year. If my club goes over, the great strain isn't going to help the condition of the veterans, particularly the pitchers.

"The Yankees are liable to be staggering at the close of the present race. I don't want to quit a club when it's groggy and on the ropes, otherwise it would be curtains for me at the finish of 1924."

BRAINS DEFEAT BRAWN

Sun "Pencil Pushers" Win Over "Struggling Printers" in Ball Game

We met the enemy and they are ours, but the attending casualties exacted a tremendous toll.

Nimbleness of foot, quick thinking, an impenetrable defense and a terrific attack combined to send the banner of The Sun editorial room and business office to the peak of Alumni Field flag pole last night as glorious proof of victory over the baseball team representing the composing room and other allied branches of the paper.

According to chief tabular and statistician, "Doc" Collins and his corps of able assistants the score of the game approximated 25 to 17. There was absolutely no doubt in the minds of the spectators or the players for the "Comps" that the pencil-pushers were their masters and not a single expression of criticism was heard when the final tally was broadcasted. "Cap" Reilly didn't care much about Mike Mahoney's last decision on a called third strike, but there was not one of the Editors who did not feel it was a just, honest and right one.

Runs were as prolific as pre-election promises and were made just as easily. They came over the rubber in twos and threes and even fours and fives, especially in the third frame when "Buncher" Keyes tried a dawn-to dusk flight and missed his landing field completely. But the copy-producers whittled away at this prodigious lead and had the galley-luggers dizzy ere the seventh inning rolled around.

Rodolph Lester, following Cheerful Charlie to the mound, broke the world's record for the shot put, but soon gave in to a muscle-bound condition that made further hurling attempts quite out of the question. "Boots" Flannagan followed him and by the judicious mixing of smiles and jobs, succeeded in holding the enemy at bay.

For the Comps, there were Pitchers Brown and Cogger, both of whom were harshly treated in addition to their own philanthropies. The old plate was swinging in front of them most of the time and when it wasn't, Editorial bats picked up the tune.

"Dempsey" Lawler, out of disguise, thundered around the first sack with rejuvenated youth and the outfielding of "Digger" Deignan and Henri Multcartier was beautiful to watch. They were everywhere the ball wasn't.

The hardest worked man on the lot was the kid who backed-up in back of the catchers. He had more assists than Everett Scott piled up all last season. The uniforms were lovely, many of them being the latest shades, mostly sand and grass-green.

After a week at Lake George, the first-string Sun team will be r-ar out-last anything the sheet across the way is able to muster.

JACK SHARKEY WINS OVER HOMER SMITH

BOSTON, July 16.—Luis Firpo couldn't stop Homer Smith, the Kalamazoo, Mich., heavyweight, when they met last year, but Jack Sharkey, Boston's newest fistic sensation came within an ace of performing that stunt last night, which stunt crowned a perfect night of heavyweight milling, the show of the Suffolk A. C. at Braves field. Sharkey won the decision after the final bell had tolled, but if there had been another round to go, he'd have added one more knockout to his record.

12,000 Watch Bouts

It was the opening outdoor boxing show of the season, the first to be seen in a couple of years, in fact, and a crowd estimated as being 10,000 to 12,000 took advantage of the perfect weather setting and saw a show that was entirely satisfactory.

The program had four 10-rounders scheduled. Only two of them went the distance. Wolf Larsen, the "Swinging Swede," hit altogether too hard and often for Dan Lucas of Camp Devens, and that bout, the opener, ended in the third by consent of the Lucas handlers.

Jim Maloney of South Boston was pitted against the walloping Honolulu Kid, home district, Roxbury, in the next mill. It lasted one minute and 42 seconds, a bone-crushing right-hand Maloney swing landing flush on the point of the Kid's chin, sending him sprawling.

Too Persistent for Gates

Battling McCreary of Boston and Lee Gates of North Adams were the third pair. McCreary won the decision. He proved entirely too tireless for Gates. That lanky performer might appear to better advantage against a less persistent battler than McCreary, as he showed signs at times that he could battle in slick style.

Coming after such an active list as had preceded it, the feature mill, the battle between Sharkey and Smith threatened to be less interesting for a while.

Smith gets a long way on his reputation of having been against many star heavyweights who couldn't topple him over for the count. But after seeing him last night, it didn't take the fans long to understand why he has evaded Hayoes as he has.

Smith is a safety first heavyweight. In the first place, he is a big broad shouldered raw boned gent who has seen many a summer go by. When he gets into action, he is just as awkward as he looks. Crawling into a shell and pulling his head in behind his shoulder kept him out of lots of trouble even if it didn't aid the bout.

Star at Clinching

Smith's specialty was holding. If he'd lead, his next move would be to grab with his left and hold for dear life. If Sharkey hit him, Homer would grab and hang on. So that only Sharkey's natural fighting instinct made the battle come up to scratch and kept it interesting to the crowd.

Only because Smith was such a star at holding did Sharkey fail to knock him out. In the 10th and final round, Smith was knocked down twice. Halfway through the round a right-hander to the heart region floored him. Smith was very wobbly when he got to his feet but still knew enough to encircle his arms around Sharkey and resist the efforts of Referee Jack Sheehan to separate them.

When finally Sharkey did get away from him, he belted the westerner until again he toppled over, this time from a punch to the head.

CHELMSFORD A. A. TAKES NO. ENDS, 4-3

The Chelmsford A.A. barely nosed out by the score of 4 to 3, the North Ends last night in a testimonial game to "Stilly" Kneeland at Chelmsford.

The visitors tallied first when Bernier drove a hot one through Dryden and Gendron brought him in on a double. In the fourth L. McElroy got by on a pitcher's error and slipped home on Desmarais' two-bagger. In the fifth the North Enders tallied two runs when Gendron walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and got home on Dupont's single. Dupont went to second and then to third on a pair of wild ones from Kneeland. He came in on a single by Boisvert. In Chelmsford's half the score was tied when Belleville was hit and came home on a double by Pickard.

In the eighth Pickard walked, McElroy popped and Desmarais was hit. Paquette tossed a wild one to catch Pickard stealing third, and the latter scored the winning run.

ST. JOSEPH'S CADETS HAVE EASY WIN

The St. Joseph's Cadets completely swamped the much touted Mysteries of Centralville on the North common last night in the regular Junior Twilight league game. The score was 16 to 3.

The soldier boys played a fine brand of ball, slugging the pill all over the lot.

The score was 16 to 0 in the end of the fifth, and Pitcher Richards then left the box and Desaulnier took his place. The Mysteries managed to gather three hits from him and changed them into runs. The score:

ALL FIRST DIVISION CLUBS IN AMERICAN LEAGUE WIN GAMES

New York, Washington, Detroit and Chicago Score Victories—Disagreement Between Umpires Has Important Bearing on New York-St. Louis Game

NEW YORK, July 16.—Second division clubs in the American league today are in the throes of an inferiority complex as they ponder the results of their latest clash with the four pacemakers, New York, Washington, Detroit and Chicago, while maintaining their own relative standing intact, widened the gap by a full game between themselves and their trailers by defeating St. Louis, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Boston, respectively.

Shocker, who attempted to redeem himself for his trouncing in the first game of the series, again faltered and lost a 5 to 4 decision to the Yankees. The Browns' defeat was embittered by an unfortunate break in the eighth inning, which put their opponents in a positon to score the winning run. Umpires Evans and Owens disagreed as to whether Meusel's liner to left with Dugan on third, and Ruth on first, had been caught by Outfielder Bennett. Bennett threw to first, thinking to double up Ruth. Evans sustained the claim of a double play, but Owens, with who mthe final decision rested, permitted Dugan to score and ordered Ruth to second and Meusel to first. Ruth subsequently recistered the deciding run. Jacobson hit his 13th homer of the season.

Behind the kind of pitching that has made Walter Johnson one of the greatest boxmen of all time, Washington scored a comparatively easy victory over Cleveland, 4 to 2.

Detroit won a lurid slugging match from Philadelphia, in which seven pitchers were used, by an 11 to 9 score. Manush was the leading sticker with four hits out of six efforts.

Chicago made it three in a row from Boston with an 8 to 6 triumph. Both Leverette and Fuhr were hit hard.

The Giants increased their lead over the cousting Cubs to nine games and a half cleaned up the four game series with a 9 to 4 win. Kelly hit his sixth homer in five contests and his 13th of the season. Hartnett hung up his 10th circuit wallop.

Rogers Hornsby's tenth and eleventh home runs of the year relieved the monotony of St. Louis defeats as the Cardinals dropped another to Brooklyn, 7 to 4. Jim Roberts, Manager Robinson's new right hander, pitched his first game for the Dodgers.

With Earl Smith, recently purchased by Pittsburgh from Boston, behind the plate, the Pirates won a 3 to 1 decision over the Phillies.

Cincinnati whitewashed Boston for the second time in succession, this time by a score of 7 to 0. The Reds pounded both Lucas and Cooney freely.

WESTERLY POLICE HALT RUM-RUNNING PARTY

WESTERLY, R. I., July 16.—Westerly police and one Pawcatuck, Conn., officer interrupted a rum landing party after 4 o'clock this morning on the Westerly side of the Pawcatuck river at Thompson's Cove, near the Watch Hill road, capturing three New Haven men, a truck, two touring cars, and 200 cases of rye whisky, champagne and brandy.

Half a dozen other men, the police say, escaped overland in the darkness after an exchange of shots between the officers and fugitives, while the remainder of the landing crew made off in a fast motor boat, which had landed the liquor on an old dock near the river.

Police believe it was the intention of the men to take the liquor to Providence.

Held for Superior Court On Charge of Manslaughter

slaughter, drunkenness and operating a motor vehicle while drunk. After reading the inquest report, Judge Fisher ordered defendant held in $2000 bonds on the manslaughter charge for the September term of the superior court, and continued the other two complaints to September 17.

The accident resulting in the death of Richard Maynard occurred at the junction of First street and the Lawrence boulevard, almost opposite Read street, at 9 o'clock on the evening of June 17. An automobile driven by MacKenzie collided with one driven by Joseph Maynard, father of the victim. The Maynard child, aged three years, was in his mother's arms in the automobile and was thrown by the impact and received injuries which resulted in his death a short while afterwards. MacKenzie was arrested on the above charges and arraigned in district court the day following, the case being continued to today awaiting the inquest report.

U. S. World Fliers Land at Croydon, Eng.

Continued

American expeditionary forces were able to supply the British aviator in India last month.

Immediately following the flagship Chicago, in which Lieut. Leslie P. Arnold accompanied Lieut. Smith, were Lieut. Erle Nilson and Lieut. John Harding, Jr., in the New Orleans and Lieut. Leigh Wade and Sergeant A. M. Ogden in the Boston. As the three planes swept up the field, the crowd, which had gradually increased from a score or so to several hundred, burst into loud applause.

"We are all well and feeling fine," Lieut. Smith said on landing.

The aviators tanned by the sun, were lean and brown but in splendid health after their 18,000 mile flight two-thirds the way around the world. "It is an experience I wouldn't start again for a million," Lieut. Arnold said.

There was an informal reception when the aviators landed. Frederick A. Sterling, counsellor of the American embassy and Major Howard C. Davidson, assistant military attache, represented the embassy; Air Commodore C. A. H. Lonniecroft represented the British air ministry and Air Commodore R. Webb-Borne, the Royal Air force. These officers and many others of military and civil prominence congratulated the airmen upon their successful flight and wished them luck in their long stag across the Atlantic.

Ambassador Kellogg was unable to be present because of the opening of the reparation conference, but Mr. Sterling presented a letter of welcome from the ambassador.

The machines will remain at the Croydon airdrome overnight and possibly until Friday when they hop off for Brough, where they will be overhauled and new engines installed preparatory to the jumps to Iceland and Greenland, then home.

Left France in High Spirits

LE BOURGET, France, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The American army round-the-world fliers hopped off from the airdrome here at 11.05 o'clock this morning for England.

A French commercial airliner accompanied the three United States airplanes to point out the way to the channel. They were followed by a French military escort of three planes which will take them to the coast. On the British side of the channel another air escort will meet them.

The world girdlers had fairly good weather for their farewell to France. There was a slight breeze and a hazy sky, but official reports were for satisfactory flying conditions.

The American airmen were the objects of all sorts of attention up to the minute of their departure, showing what a stronghold their enterprise had taken on the imaginations of French people. Scores of photographs and more scores of postcards were presented to them at the last minute for autographing, with many requests for them to do, errands impossible of execution. The fliers looked as weary on leaving from their recreation in Paris as they did from their flight on their arrival.

Lieuts. Smith, Wade and Nelson, together with their mechanicians, Lieuts. Arnold and John Harding, Jr., and Sergeant Ogden went away in high spirits, confident they would be able to make up considerable time on their schedule if their supplies reached them in Greenland promptly. Aside from this they have no worries, as they look upon the remainder of the flying route as easy compared with the spots in the Pacific that gave them trouble.

Colonel De Goyes, chief of staff to Laurent Eynac, under-secretary for aviation, and Major Carlyle H. Wash, assistant military attache representing the American embassy were on hand to see the airmen off, along with a crowd of admirers who spent all the forenoon watching the evolutions of the French military airplane while waiting for the Americans to take off. The camp was in a state of great activity about the time the world girdlers were ready to start with passenger machines taking off. One of these had just risen above the housetops when Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the expedition, cried: "All right, boys, we're off," and the Chicago taxied across the field followed by the Boston and the New Orleans.

Dull Day For Crossing

CROYDON, England, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The American army world fliers, moving across the English channel today from Paris for a final rest and overhauling of their planes before the long distance flight across the Atlantic, had a dull day for crossing. There was a hint of rain but the fog was absent.

A crowd gathered at the aerodrome here before the scheduled time for the arrival of the airmen. Many Americans were present, anxious to greet their countrymen to congratulate them on their record-breaking 18,000-mile trip. Officials of the British air ministry and attaches of the American embassy were also on hand.

Shortly before 11 a. m., a British airplane set out for the channel to escort the Americans to the landing here.

ROTARY OUTING PLANS

782 Boys and Girls of Lowell Orphanages Will Have Gala Day July 22

Rotarians were not present in record-breaking numbers at yesterday's weekly dinner and social at the Boys' club on Dutton street, but what they lacked in numbers, was made up in enthusiasm when the committee on the coming orphans' outing made its next-to-the-last report and created a sensation.

Seven hundred and 82 boys and girls, representing St. Peter's orphanage, French-American orphanage, Lowell Day Nursery, Ayer Home, The Children's Home and Faith Home for Children, are to be guests of Lowell Rotary club men next Tuesday morning and afternoon, at the Martin Luther grounds in Tyngsboro—the fourth annual outing provided by warm hearts and ready purses.

It is to be a day of carefree youthful romping in the green fields, ice cream and candy, games of the kind children delight to play, more ice cream, box luncheons, a real circus, still more ice cream, games, sports, etc., community singing, vari-colored balloons on the strings, fancy colored paper caps and more ice cream if necessary.

Local men of substantial estate and reputation when it comes to mingling with children and catering to their comforts en regale, winter and summer, wherever they may be, are planning to enjoy the orphans' outing this year, and partake of all the good things on the program prepared for the happiest outing ever conducted by Rotarian big hearts.

Lieut. Gov. Alvan H. Fuller sent word this morning that he would be there, rain or shine. Only, of course, if it rains next Tuesday, the outing will be postponed until the next fair day. The mayor and members of the city government are also to be present during the afternoon.

Today's meeting of the Rotarians, presided over by Benjamin Pouzzner, always handy for filling in as temporary chairman when the rest of the folks usually occupying the head table are on vacations, brought as chief guest and speaker, Warren P. Riordan, city sealer of weights and measures. His address was filled with statistics relating to the work of his municipal department, and some of the figures presented proved a revelation to the Rotarians.

The speaker described at length some of the queer methods used by sellers of gasolene, kerosene and other liquids, as well as other commodities in popular demand in other marts of trade in Lowell and vicinity. That some dealers in various articles of trading give short weights, perhaps unintentionally, was brought out by the list of figures given by Sealer Riordan today. Constant supervision, he added, kept tabs on the short-weight men, yet methodical visitations to places of business do not always prevent bad practices. The sealer's office had 620 calls for advice about scales from dealers in different merchandise by weight, during the past year.

The Outing Committee

The Rotarian outing committee, announced this afternoon just before the introduction of Mr. Riordan, is as follows:

Harry G. Pollard, Ivan O. Small, Alvah H. Weaver, Clarence M. Weed, Carl B. Wenigmann, Fred Jones, Marshall L. Alling, Xavier A. Delisle, E. B. Feaster, Major Walter R. Jeyes, Paul A. Read and Richard J. Welch. Harry Pitts is chairman.

The children will be carried to the Martin Luther grounds next Tuesday by automobiles, the parade to start from the Ayer Home about 8.30, moving through the heart of the city via Pawtucket street, Merrimack street, Central street, Middlesex street, Thornlike street, Dutton street, Merrimack street, Pawtucket street and thence to the picnic grounds.

Playground supervisors will have charge of the children's sports programs. An animal circus is on the way for the big event of the day, and two motorcycle policemen will be hanging around all day, providing all necessary protection to one and all.

Major Jeyes, as usual, will be big chief in preparing the grounds for the orphans, and will have charge of all arrangements for the children's comfort and happiness during their encampment at the Martin Luther grounds. The major will have an able assistant in the club's assistant instructor and physical instructor—Chas. W. Barton.

Wives of Rotarians are to accompany the excursionists and do what they can to make the children's day delightful. They will aid in serving the box luncheons, also. American flags will be distributed before the start of the parade.

The Rotarian outing committee will hold a very special business meeting at the club rooms next Thursday morning, at 11 o'clock. Every member is expected to be present.

FINAL DECISION NEAR IN BRAZILIAN REVOLT

WASHINGTON, July 15.—A final decision in the struggle between Brazilian government troops and rebel forces at Sao Paulo "should not be far away" it was said in an official communique received today by the Brazilian embassy here. Continued successes of the federal forces was reported and the situation was described as favorable to the government troops.

"Notable advance was made by our lines since yesterday," the dispatch said. "New forces have penetrated deeply into the positions occupied until yesterday by the rebels. Twenty-one additional prisoners including two cavalry officers of the state police, have arrived in Santos from Sao Paulo. The rebel artillery has not answered the fire of our batteries. On that part of our front held by the navy, our cannon mounted on trucks destroyed a rebel battery. Numerous deserters fro mthe rebels continue to arrive in the interior of the state and confirm the discouragement that exists among them."

Young Vissa was wounded in the temple. Hagan claimed he fired only one shot, but the affidavit on which he was arraigned charged that three bullets were fired.

EVERETT TRUE

COMMON SENSE

When a merchant advertises his wares in a newspaper, he does not appeal to the paper, but to its readers. He solicits the patronage of those readers whether he agrees with the policy of the paper or not.

To refrain from advertising in a paper of wide circulation simply because he does not agree with the editor on all public questions, is not using common sense. It is a form of business suicide. It has sent many short-sighted business men into bankruptcy. A dealer might as well put a sign over his store notifying all who do not think as he does that he does not want their patronage. Readers of newspaper advertisements know when and where their patronage is welcome.

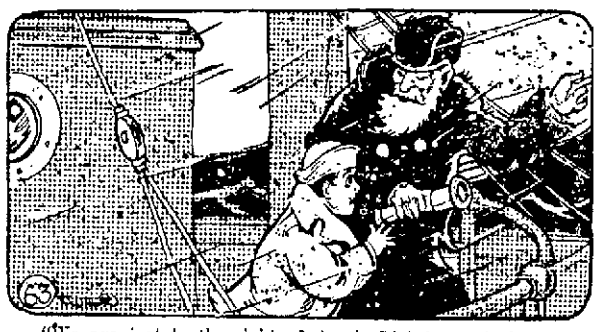
Jack Daw's Adventure. Chapter 21

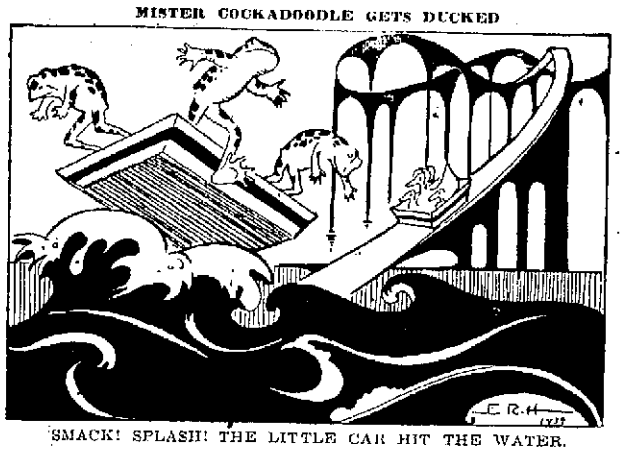
By this time the captain decided that they had best get the life saving boats ready for use. He knew that, in a blizzard, you never can tell what's going to happen. In short, snappy words he issued his orders and shortly all of the crew came rushing out on deck, into the storm.

The captain grabbed hold of the ship railing and worked his way up to the front of the boat. He lifted great field glasses to his eyes and looked out over the sea. It was hard to get a glimpse of anything because of the wind and hail but now and then a light flared out strongly.



"We are just to the right of Arctic Lighthouse," shouted the ruler of the boat. Jack became excited and scrambled up to the captain's side. "Do they have lighthouses away out here?" he asked. "Oh, this isn't a regualr lighthouse," replied the captain. Then he handed the glasses to Jack. (Continued.)

MISTER COCKADOODLE GETS DUCKED



SMACK! SPLASH! THE LITTLE CAR HIT THE WATER.

Mrs. Yellowbill and her six children all climbed into a little car on a little track in Happy Go Lucky Park, where they had come to spend the day.

They were going to "chute the chutes." A "chute the chutes" is something like a roller coaster, only at the last it dumps you into the water and you get splashed all over.

"I hope you'll have a good time," called Nick as Mister Zip started the little car off with a push.

"Sit still and don't lean out too far!" called Nancy.

"We will! We won't!" quacked all the little Yellowbills happily. "Good-by!"

Right ahead of them another little car was starting off on its track and in it sat Granddaddy Frog and his grandchildren.

He didn't know that Mrs. Yellowbill and her family were right behind him or perhaps he wouldn't gave grinned such a wide grin. He took off his glasses and put them into his waistcoat pocket and settled himself for a nice ride.

The two little cars went rattling over humpy places in the track, and dipped dips and shot around curves and really it was enough to take your breath away. For this was a very good "chute the chutes" and gave you a long ride first before it splashed you into the water.

Mrs. Yellowbill's six children got so excited that they quacked and honked until they sounded like a traffic jam on Main street.

They made so much noise that Granddaddy Frog soon heard them. "My goodness, boys!" he shouted, turning palo. "Mrs. Yellowbill and her family are right behind us. When we strike the water, swim like sixty!"

Smack! Smack! The litle car hit the water and went bouncing along like a skipping stone, and out flew the frog fmally into the lake.

The next second, splash! smack! The Yellowbill family got dumped out, too.

The first thing Mrs. Yellowbill did was to look around to see what direction Granddaddy had taken.

I don't know what would have happened if something else hadn't happened instead.

And her car came shooting down the steep place right into the water and who should it be but Mister Cockadoodle, who couldn't swim any more than your front door step.

"Help! Help!" shouted Mister Cockadoodle, flapping his wings. "Help! Save me, somebody!"

But just then he managed to grab hold of an old log floating around in the water and climbed up.

"Ho, ho, ho, ho, ho!" laughed Granddaddy Frog till he cried. "He certainly does look funny!"

"Doesn't he!" giggled Mrs. Duck. "I'd hate to be so dumb."

"So should I," agreed Granddaddy. "Come on, children, let's go again. That's lots of fun, isn't it? Mrs. Yellowbill, aren't you coming, too?"

"I should say so," said Mrs. Duck. "Come on, children."

ROMAN BEAUTIES

Here are the three prettiest maidens in Rome. So, at least, they were proclaimed by judges in a recent beauty contest. From top to bottom are: Nellie Sachetti, Bella Morani and Nora Caturza.

VICTIMS OF SLAYER LAID AT REST

SOUTH BARRE, July 16.—Salvatore Poleo and Olando Centracchio, South Barre residents, who were victims of a rifle in the hands of John Rea, a fellow townsman Sunday night, were laid in graves side by side in St. Joseph's cemetery, Barre, yesterday afternoon, after the services at St. Thomas' church, conducted by Rev. John T. Casey.

Never has the town witnessed such a tribute to two of its townspeople as took place yesterday. The funeral procession from the homes of the victims to the church was more than a mile in length, 100 automobiles, as well as the marchers, being included.

Prayers were said at the homes of the victims at 3.30, the procession first forming at Poleo's home, headed by the South Barre band and Sons of Italy and St. Anne's societies, the many mourners following. As the procession reached the Centracchio home the line was augmented by many more mourners. The procession then continued to the church.

The traffic was handled by Sergt. William Hackett of the Holden station of the state constabulary and other state patrol officers. As the time for the funeral approached, the Italian residents left their work in the mills and business was suspended.

At St. Joseph's cemetery, Rev. M. W. Mulhane offered prayer and the Sons of Italy burial ritual was used.

The town is quiet after the tragedy of Sunday, but there is much real grief evident among the hosts of friends of the two victims.

BOY OF 11 ARRESTED FOR CRACKING SAFE

WORCESTER, July 16.—John Chapulis, aged 11 years, of 119 Washington street, the youngest prisoner ever arrested here on a charge of cracking a safe, was placed on probation for a year yesterday, when he was arraigned in central district court on a charge of breaking, entering and larceny. The boy's arrest resulted from at attempt made Sunday night to crack the safe of the Union Furniture company on Green street.

Police declared that the boy, single handed, broke his way into the store and battered off the combination and top of the safe with a hatchet, and other amateur tools, but he failed to reach the section in which had been placed the money from Saturday's business.

In India, after the wedding ceremony, the bride and groom are tied together by the corners of their garments to signify that they are united for life.

COUP FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

Joseph M. Dinneen Notifies Council He is Out of Treasurer's Fight

Tabling of His Letter Blocks Nomination of John H. McNabb

A contemplated coup failed to materialize at last night's council meeting when the city fathers, surprised by a notification from Joseph M. Dinneen to the effect that he no longer desires to be considered a nominee to succeed City Treasurer Fred H. Rourk, tabled the Dinneen communication. This action made inadmissible a new nomination of the mayor, that of John H. McNabb, laundryman, for the city treasurership.

Mr. Dinneen filed his letter with the city clerk just before the closing of the city hall offices yesterday afternoon. Before the evening session of the council he and Mr. McNabb were together at the hall, Mr. Dinneen making known to individual members his desire to drop out of the race in favor of Mr. McNabb. When the letter was read at the meeting Mr. Fitzgerald moved to table it. Mr. Sadlier seconded and a chorus of ayes settled the question.

"The motion to table having been passed, the new nomination by John H. McNabb is inadmissible so will not be read," said Council President Gallagher in declaring the motion sustained. So the nomination of Mr. McNabb has yet to be formally presented to the council and as matters now stand Mr. Rourke has the field uncontested.

Apparent Pact Monday

That the whole matter was pre-arranged and carefully kept under cover was evident at the start. On Monday Mr. Dinneen, as stated in The Sun of that day, conferred with the mayor. Later in the day the mayor left the city with the city engineer and the members of the board of public service for the purpose of inspecting a street sweeping machine. This being the case, the nomination of Mr. McNabb was agreed upon at or prior to that time and those "in the know," including Mr. Dinneen, kept knowledge of the agreement from the public.

If it was intended or desired that Mr. McNabb's name be "railroaded" through at last night's session, a log slipped somewhere. Up to very near the hour of the council meeting Mr. Rourke and councilors known to be aligned with him were in the dark on the subject. Had the withdrawal letter and the new nomination been presented towards the end of the council session, for the first time, the end evidently desired might have been gained in the resultant consternation.

Three councilors were absent from the session. Messrs. Chadwick, Chretien and McPadden. Mr. McPadden is on his honeymoon trip at this time. He is the leader of the Rourke forces within the council and the time for a coup could not have been more opportune.

Formal municipal endorsement was given at the session to the so-called Concord river nuisance bill, introduced at the last session of the legislature by Rep. Owen E. Brennen and supported by the six Lowell representatives. This bill, amended before passage in the senate to provide that Chelmsford, Lowell, and Billerica should bear, either any one municipality alone or proportionately among as many as willing, the cost of a study by the state board of health with a view to abating the nuisance, was accepted by the council last night. Mr. Moriarty moved the acceptance stating that while Billerica and Chelmsford have not manifested any intention of co-operating, Lowell would be the chief beneficiary of the study and that of the maximum cost of $3,000 it is doubtful if more than $300 would be charged against the two towns.

Two Pensions Voted

Under the recently accepted law, put through the legislature session just ended by Rep. Charles H. Slowey of Lowell, a pension was granted Mrs. Bridget Donnelly, a charwoman at city hall since 1892. She will receive $660.04, payable in monthly instalments. Mrs. Donnelly is physically incapacitated for further full performance of her duties.

Patrolman Lindsey E. Ingalls, for thirty-five years a member of the police force, was also placed on the municipal pension roll. He was given an allowance of $912.50 a year, payable in monthly payments. Mr. Ingalls petitioned retirement on disability over a month ago. He has been confined to his home since last May.

Favor Bus Ordinance

Approval was voted the petition for incorporation made by Lowell Aerie, 223, Fraternal Order of Eagles, approved by the superintendent of police, and the city clerk was instructed to so notify the secretary of state.

The ordinance regulating the operation of motor busses in the city was read and ordered advertised. This ordinance was reported out by Chairman Daly of the committee on ordinances and is regarded as a preliminary step to the granting of endorsement to the franchise petition of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company which would operate busses express from this city to Boston.

Usual Tardy Start

The council was late as usual in starting its meeting, the session getting under way at 8.35 o'clock. An order for 290 feet of sewer, to be laid northerly from 213 Parkview avenue, passed second reading. Several petitions for street ollings, sewers, street repairs, edgestones and street acceptances were referred to the board of public service. Claims of James A. Laurie and Edward J. Murphy for damage done to their automobiles were referred to committee. A communication from the school board relative to the condition of Edson school was referred to the committee on public property.

S. Ella Barrett was granted permission to erect a garage at 74-76 Bellevue street. Several residents of Sheldon street objected at a public hearing on the matter, contending that the garage is to have entrance from Sheldon rather than Bellevue street and that no residents of Sheldon street endorsed the petition.

The session adjourned at 10 o'clock without any reference to the inhled nomination of Charles J. Landers to succeed Fisher H. Pearson as a member of the board of health.

MILK PRICE STANDS AT 13 CENTS TODAY

Beginning today, the price of pasteurized milk per quart, delivered to consumers, will be 13 cents, as announced in The Sun last evening. The one-cent advance was predicted several days ago and yesterday it was learned that a formal agreement would be made by the principal distributors, establishing the new price at 13 cents. The agreement was officially ratified at a "special call" mass meeting of the dealers, held last night in Odd Fellows' hall, Middlesex street.

The new price now in effect does not affect the retail price of the pint bottle, which is still seven cents. The increase will be felt only by the purchaser of the quarts.

BREV

John J. Dunigan has been elected chairman of the North Chelmsford board of water commissioners; Stewart Mackay, secretary, and William H. Quigley, treasurer. Morton B. Wright will continue as superintendent for the present.

MINOR CASES IN DISTRICT COURT

Joseph Rainey and Joseph Emond of this city were arraigned on drunkenness charges in district court this morning and fined $5 each. According to the testimony of a Lowell man camping in Dracut, the defendants were on property owned by him and he ordered them off. They, in turn, he said, threatened to kill him, and he notified Dracut police officers, who later made the arrest. The defendants were given a week to pay their fines.

A plea of "nolo" was accepted by Judge Fisher in the case of Joseph Brassard, charged with using profane language.

Harry Gostigian, charged with driving an automobile at an excessive rate of speed, was found guilty and the case placed on file.

Kaley M. Kelly was arraigned on charges of operating an automobile without a license and failure to keep to the right of the road. A state constabulary officer testified that Kelly failed to keep to the right of the Lawrence boulevard in the Kenwood section on June 22 and that when stopped by him, Kelly's license was found to have expired two days previous. Findings of guilty on both counts were made by Judge Fisher and Kelly was fined $10 on each.

George St. George, drunk and operating while drunk, was found guilty and fined $100.

the standpoint of need as existing according to the judgment of a certain head or heads of departments.

"Out of a total of 58 appropriations, there are but two departments that might possibly need an additional appropriation of any material size. I have reference to the charity and street departments.

"Of the larger departments, the various units under the control of the board of health appear to be keeping within their appropriations very nicely.

"The charity department, including such appropriations as the Chelmsford street hospital, Mothers with Dependent Children, and Outdoor Relief, have spent a total of $168,730.32 for the first six months of this year out of a total appropriation of $275,659.35. It is quite apparent that a deficit will occur in this department according to present indications.

"The Elections Department will be called upon to do more than double the usual amount of work to be covered in the next six months; therefore, it is hardly feasible to judge the outcome from the standpoint of a semi-annual statement.

"The Fire Department on July 1 of this year has $232,409.53 as against approximately $199,375.92 at the same time last year, which has every indirection.

cation of being a step in the right direction.

"The Park Department in the first six months spent $22,273.65, leaving a balance of $36,766.96 to cover the same length of time over the remainder of the year.

"It has cost the city of Lowell $164,784.12 to maintain the police department for the first six months of this year; however, a total appropriation of $355,999.68 has been provided by the city government for its maintenance.

"The various divisions of the Board of Public Service show an unexpended balance July 1 of $562,754.95 as against an unexpended balance July 1 of last year of $525,389.37. It is apparent, and the street maintenance appropriations will have a deficit for the re- however, that the sewer maintenance mainder of the year unless the Board of Public Service rearranges its schedule of activity.

"The schools general appropriation shows an expenditure under salaries and wages for the first six months of the year of $628,469, which will give an average monthly expenditure of $104,745, and allowing this figure for each month of the next school term, September to December, would necessitate $418,980 in the form of teachers' pay rolls, $31,500 for janitors and $6372 for summer school, or a total of $456,852. While this does not include all the possible expenditures under salaries and wages, yet the difference between the $455,552 as estimated, and the balance of $463,244.74 provides a fair percentage of reserve for possible contingencies.

"The water works department, being entirely dependent upon its own receipts for the maintenance of its department, presents a situation quite unparalleled by that of any other department. Last year the water department had to its credit for receipts during the year 1923, $462,160.28, and with an expenditure of $198,299.98, for the first six months of this year, it would appear that the department might be in a fair way toward cleaning up a small deficit which has existed in the department for a number of years, provided there is the usual increase in the number of consumers from year to year.

"To sum up the situation as a whole, it is my opinion that the heads of departments are to be congratulated for their efforts to maintain their departments within allotted appropriations, for it is only by the compilation of an intelligent budget that a municipality may hope to reap the benefits of its various endeavors."

DISCUSS PROBLEMS OF ADVERTISING

LONDON, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—Serious discussion of specific problems of advertising today occupied the third day of the International Advertising convention which was devoted for the most part to departmental conferences. In each conference, speakers from the United States, the dominions of Great Britain and from other countries, described the specific problem under consideration from the particular aspect it assumed in a single nation.

Leaders of the convention expressed the opinion that the conferences this year would form the basis for an immediate opening for advertising on a universal scale and would allow the United States delegates to bring to bear upon the delegates of nations not yet highly developed along advertising lines, the modern and advanced conceptions of the industry prevailing in the United States.

IRELAND IS PEACEFUL

Lowell Tourist Found it Progressing Along the Highway of Freedom

Ireland—the country beautiful and romantic—is peacefully progressing along the highway of freedom today, with honesty of purpose and fidelity to the noblest of aspirations, yet with ancient customs and historic ideals still clinging to the land of the blooming furze.

To the world of make-believe, there is no such place as Ireland, Michael J. Sharkey, Lowell real estate dealer and insurance agent, today told a Sun reporter, who called at his offices in Central street to obtain an interview with the returned traveler.

Mr. Sharkey left Lowell on May 25, last, for his first visit to the Irish homeland in 31 years. He returned last Monday noon, filled with interesting knowledge and happy memories of a journey well spent in rambles through many favorite realms, quaint and peaceful as well as vigorous and history making sections of Ireland, where many heroes in the wonderful story of that wonderful island were written in indelible fame for all time.

Mr. Sharkey had a most delightful visit to Ireland, had the pleasure of meeting blood relatives and many old-time friends, and also enjoyed traveling hours through historic regions with American friends that included former Mayor Peter F. Sullivan of Worcester. Requested to give a short account of his travels in the land of his birth, Mr. Sharkey said:

"Ireland has been divided into two British provinces, one called Ulster and the other Free State. In the northern part, the Orangeman is paid for his fidelity to the empire, and in the other part, the Free Staters are paid for their perfidy to Ireland's national traditions and ideals. Unemployed are paid 15 shillings per week, which the taxpayer in turn must pay. The system makes, or endeavors to make, supporters for the Free State government, and so it goes in other departments. A free and fair election will undoubtedly leave the Free State on the rocks. Office holders and those receiving good salaries are mainly the government supporters.

"When we arrived, the country was adorned with the picturesque bloom of the furze. Our party was led by ex-Mayor Peter F. Sullivan of Worcester, Mass., to whom the urban council of Cobh tendered a reception, which was attended by Andrew Roach of Lowell, myself and other members of the party. Arriving later at Cork, the party visited Blarney Castle and toured the southern part of Cork and Kerry, Kinsdale, Clonakilty, Skibbereen, Bantry, the famed Glengarreff with its suburb scenery, and Roach's modern hotel. From here the party proceeded over the mountains and through the glens of Cork and Kerry, where each succeeding panorama was yet more thrilling. Arriving at Killarney, where the handsome ex-mayor Sullivan hails from, a band was in readiness to welcome the conquering hero and his friends. Everybody was a cousin of Peter Sullivan's and everybody endeavored to make everybody else happy. The '400' surely ruled and rooted!

"After a tour of the lakes and Muckrass abbey, the party proceeded to Dublin in special cars provided by the railroad. I had the pleasure of seeing Glasnevin with its numerous historic graves, the zoological gardens, the zoo, the Phoenix park, the ruins of the general postoffice, where Padraic Pearse took his stand for liberty in 1916; the Four Courts, where Irishmen attacked their brothers at England's bidding in 1922. I attended the Wolf Tone memorial at Bodenstown. I saw the awe-inspiring Dargle, the Lover's Leap, Power's court waterfall, Glenmalure, Killiney, Glendalough, Clontarf, Dun Lough, Arrow, Lough Gill and Follards demesne, the home of Willie Reilly's 'Colleen Bawn.' I saw the Boyle abbey and the blood of the monk, killed by Cromwell's soldiers, miraculously still fresh. I climbed the Sheegora mountain from which the four provinces are plainly visible.

"Owing to the lateness of the season, when the thousands of workers were released from prison, there is little tillage this year. Potatoes, turf and vegetables are selling at almost prohibitive prices and the question of foods for the winter and seeds for next spring will be serious. Cattle-jobbing and grazing have become more popular as a natural consequence of the absence of tillage.

"The weather was not very pleasant, but when you visit Ireland, you must not mind the weather. If you want to carry out a program keep going.

"Troops confront you on every side with rifles, some of them nearly as big as the soldier, yet there is nothing apparently for them to do. We never locked our baggage or our rooms in any of the many hotels we visited. We saw nothing but peace and honesty amongst the people. But we also found a silent, steady reserve and determination never to submit to the oath of allegiance or the division of the nation. Even those who profess to be Free Staters, claim they want the republic. And the republic must eventually succeed."

In its length of 3143 miles, the Lincoln Highway has less than 125 miles or unfinished road.

LOWELL MAN RESCUES CHILD AT REVERE

Daniel J. Powers, manager of the local branch of the Sunshine Biscuit company, played the role of hero at Revere beach Sunday when he rescued a youngster who had been carried out beyond her depth by the tide.

Powers was swimming in deep water some distance from the beach when he espied what he believed to be a bundle of clothes floating towards him. He swam to the bundle and discovered a young girl, barely more than a baby, and swam with her to the beach where he found the child's mother running up and down the beach searching for her daughter. The child had been playing in shallow water and was drawn into deeper water by the tide. Fortunately her clothes had served as a life-buoy but she was being carried out to sea and her clothing was fast becoming water-soaked when she was rescued by Powers.

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL REPAIR FUND

LONDON (By Associated Press)—The Dean of Lincoln has just returned home from America where, for the second time in two years, he went successfully for dollars to add to the Lincoln Cathedral Repair fund.

Last year the Dean collected about $30,000 in the United States. This year he got $15,000 more, most of it along the eastern seaboard. The cathedral at Lincoln is one of the standard sights for tourists in England.

LOWELL MOOSE WILL ATTEND CONVENTION

Lowell will be well represented at the supreme national convention of the Loyal Order of Moose of the World, to be held in New York city, July 27 to July 31. Dictator John L. Sullivan, of local lodge No. 618, will lead a delegation of at least thirty-five members of the order, including every officer of the Lowell body.

The official delegate of No. 618 is Past Dictator Elmer G. Willey; alternate, Past Dictator Edward St. Leger.

The Lowell delegation will leave for New York on Saturday morning, July 26, via the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad via Framingham and Fall River, making the latter half of the journey by "ye old Fall River line" to the metropolis.

The program for the New York city national rally of members of the Mooseheart fraternity will include important business meetings, election of national and district officers, sports programs, a trip to Coney Island and Atlantic City, receptions, banquets and concerts and dances.

Interest centers for the most part, of course, in the monster street parade through the streets of little old New York, schedued for Thursday, July 31, as a grand spectacular wind-up to the national encampment of the Moose. Nearly 50,000 members of the fraternity are expected to be in line and there will be sixty bands.

A feature of the convention outside of the lodge ritual work and social sessions, will be a beauty contest, with winners to be selected from entrants from each state. Lowell lodge, No. 618, will not participate in this contest, but local Mooseheartts are prepared to pick the prettiest feminine visitor at the convention, and they never pick 'em wrong. Rodolph Valentino is to be the sole judge, and that will help, for Rodolph visited Lowell a short time ago and revelled in local beauty.

The officers of No. 618 handling the convention trip details and all preliminaries, are as follows:

LOCAL DOCTORS ARE NOT INTERESTED

In an article carried in this newspaper yesterday relative to a campaign for reduced gasoline prices, it was said that a local committee was being formed with Dr. Robert A. Donahoe and Dr. Charles M. Roughan, well known doctors, as members. The names of both men were used without their sanction or approval, and this opportunity is taken to correct the impression that they are in any way interested in the purported idea.

G. O. P. HEADQUARTERS ON FIFTH AVENUE, N. Y.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Eastern campaign headquarters for the republican national committee will be established at Fifth avenue and 46th street, William M. Butler, chairman, announced today.

"It is the purpose of the republican national committee to co-operate to the fullest extent with the senatorial and congressional nominees," said Mr. Butler. "The combined activities will be centered at the Chicago and New York headquarters of the republican national committee."

Formal notification of the presidential nominees will be held, respectively at Washington, Aug. 14, and at Evanston, Ills., Aug. 19. Mr Butler announced that the notification address to Mr. Dawes would be made by A. W. Jefferis of Nebraska, who placed Dawes in nomination at Cleveland.

ARNSTEIN AND COHEN GO BACK TO LEAVENWORTH

NEW YORK, July 16.—Jules W. ("Nicky") Arnstein, alleged engineer of a Wall street bond theft scheme which netted the perpetrators a $5,000,000 haul in 1919, and 1920, and his chief lieutenant Nick Cohen, were ordered returned to the federal prison at Leavenworth today, on their continued refusal to tell the authorities the name of a New Yorker who has a million dollars worth of the stolen securities in his possession.

Federal and state attorneys obtained an order from Federal Judge Knox for the immediate return of Arnstein and Cohen to Leavenworth to complete the two years sentences imposed on them in Washington for having transported the stolen bonds to that city.

AUDITOR GIVES OUT STATEMENT

Indications That Street and Charity Divisions Will Need Some Help

Financial Schedule Being Adhered to in Most Instances, Says He

That the street and charities departments will require more money to complete their 1924 programs was made evident this morning in the semi-annual statement of City Auditor Daniel E. Martin, forwarded to the mayor.

Mr. Martin commented upon municipal finances in the following interview to newspapermen relative to his statement:

"From the manner in which the various heads of departments have handled their appropriations, it would seem that almost without exception they are striving to adhere to the policy inaugurated last year by the mayor—namely, that the program of work for a given year should be measured by the appropriation available for that work rather than that the appropriation should be considered entirely from

TO GUARD EACH LEG OF FLIGHT

Plans for Co-operation by Navy With Army Airmen in Flight Across Atlantic

Navy Dept. Approves Plans Worked Out by Rear Admiral Magruder

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Plans worked out by Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, commanding the light cruiser squadron for co-operation by the navy with the army world fliers in the flight across the Atlantic, were approved today by the navy department. Establishment of a chain of radio communication and the placing of ships along the route and covering each leg of the flight, is provided.

The cruiser Milwaukee, Admiral Magruder, flagship, will sail from Newport, R. I., July 20 for Rosyth, England, where she will be met by the cruiser Raleigh and two destroyers from the European squadron. These four ships will guard the flight from England to the Orkney islands, scheduled to start about Aug. 1, from Houton bay Scapa Flow. Later the ships will take position between the Orkney island and Iceland to guard that leg of the flight. Sailing from New York Friday, July 18, for Halifax, N. S., the Milwaukee will take aboard an advance officer of the army air service later proceeding to points where the fliers are scheduled to stop, and distributing supplies in advance.

In addition the plans call for the despatch of five destroyers—Coughlin, Preston, Barry, Lawrence and McFarland—from Newport about July 24. They will be stationed along the line of the flight from Greenland westward, co-operating with light cruisers which probably will be assigned to the coasts of Greenland where ice conditions make navigation dangerous for small craft.

According to a tentative program for the flight from the Orkney islands to Pictou, N. S., given the navy today by the army air service headquarters the fliers will leave Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, Aug. 1; Hofn Hornnfiord, Aug. 3; Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 5; Angmagsalik, Greenland, Aug. 12; Ivigtut, Greenland, Aug. 15; Indian harbor, Labrador, Aug. 17; Hawke bay, Labrador, Aug. 19; Pictou, N. S., Aug. 21. They will arrive in Boston on the same day they leave Pictou.

ASKS FOR DRASTIC MEASURES TO REDUCE MOTOR FATALITIES

State Motor Vehicle Registrar Says Accident Situation Worse Now Than at Any Time in State's History—Addresses Letter to Chiefs of Police Urging Action

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, July 16.—Declaring that the motor vehicle accident situation is worse now than at any time in the history of the state, Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, today wrote to every police chief in Massachusetts, asking for more drastic action on the part of the police and courts.

In the first six months of this year he points out, the record of persons killed is 124 greater than last year, and with thirty already killed in this month, he expresses the opinion that the alarming increase is likely to continue unless greater penalties are meted out to offenders.

Most of the persons killed, he as-

Warren Kealoha, of Hawaii Breaks Olympic Record for 100 Metre Back Stroke in First Elimination Trial—Results in Other Events

OLYMPIC SWIMMING POOL, LES TOURELLES, France, July 16. (By the Associated Press.)—The fourth day of the Olympic swimming program was run off in more moderate weather than had been the rule all the week. The scorching sun disappeared behind clouds and the attendance was increased enormously. A crowd of 10,000 persons turned out, one of the largest of the swimming tournament, and bigger than the throngs that were witnessing even the Olympic tennis matches and the rowing events.

Warren Kealoha, of Hawaii, broke the Olympic record for the 100 metre back stroke in the first elimination trials, covering the distance in one minute 13 2-5 seconds, shattering the mark he established at Antwerp, but swimming the distance of 4-5 of a second slower than the world mark he also made at Honolulu in 1922.

Kealoha was five seconds faster than the winners of the other four heats. Barthe of Hungary, made the distance in 1 minute 18 2-5 seconds, Rawlinson of Great Britain in 1 minute 18 4-5 seconds, Thaulo of Norway in 1 minute 24 seconds flat, and Paul Wyatt of Uniontown, Pa., in 2 minutes 19 2-5 seconds.

Summaries:

200 metres, breast stroke, women, third heat: Miss Carson, Great Britain, first; Miss Topel, Sweden, second. Time 3 minutes, 30 seconds. Miss Matilda Shurich, women's swimming association, New York, finished third and was eliminated.

200 metre, breast stroke, women, second heat: Miss Morton, Great Britain, first; Miss Koster, Luxembourg, second. Time, 3 minutes, 29 2-10 seconds. Miss Eleanor Coleman, Milwaukee A. C., Milwaukee, finished fourth and was elminated.

200 metres, breast stroke, men, first, semi-finals: Robert D. Skelton, Illinois A. C., first; W. T. Kirschbaum, Hawaii, second. Time, 3 minutes, 2-10 seconds, breaking the Olympic record.

200 metre breast stroke, men, second semi-final: Decomore, Belgium, first; Linders, Sweden, second. Time, 3 minutes 2-10 seconds (equallying the new Olympic record made by Robert D. Skelton in the first semi-final.)

400 metres, free style, men, two to qualify for semi-finals Thursday:

Ralph Breyer, Northwestern university, first; Hatfield, Great Britain, second. Time, 5 minutes 32 2-5 seconds.

400 metres free style, men, third event: Johnny Weissmuller, Illinois A.C., first; Andrew Charlton, Australia, second; Peter, Great Britain, third. Time, 5 minutes 22 1-5 seconds.

200 metre breast stroke, first heat, women, two to qualify for finals tomorrow: Miss Agnes Geraghty, Women's Swimming association, New York, first; Miss Peterson, Sweden, second. Time, 5 minutes 25 2-5 seconds.

Mlle. Barond of Holland, finished first two seconds ahead of Miss Geraghty, but she was disqualified for faulty turns.

Henry Luning, Hawaii, was eliminated in the second heat, finishing fourth 20 yards behind Van Wilgenburg of Holland. Those who qualified for the semi-finals tomorrow are Warren Kealoha and Paul Wyatt, of the United States, MacDowell and Rawlinson of Great Britain, Bartha of Hungary, Thaulow, Norway; Blitze of Belgium and Zeibig, of France, Saitoh of Japan, and Skoglun of Sweden.

PARIS, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—Despite an injury to his thumb suffered in the bout yesterday in which he defeated Doyle of Ireland, 16-year-old Jack Fields, Los Angeles high school boy and American featherweight boxer, today won handily from Hansen of Norway, on points.

In the featherweight class, Joe Salas of Los Angeles, defeated Levis of Holland. It was the closest decision as yet awarded to an American boxer.

Lazarus of the United States, was disqualified in the second round of his bout with Endren of Sweden, whom he had knocked out. The judges ruled that the American boxer had failed to break when ordered to do so, and they disqualified him.

CANADIAN CREW MEETS YALE IN FINALS

ARGENTEUIL, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The Canadian eight-oared crew today won the right to compete with Yale in the finals of the Olympic competition by winning the race of crews which had finished second in the original heats.

The Argentine team finished second, a length and a half behind the Canadians, after a brilliant finish during which the South Americans the last 100 metres passed the Australian and Belgian crews, which finished third and fourth.

Canada's time of 6 minutes, 37 seconds was good considering the fact that it was made in the face of a brisk wind.

As a result of the victory today, Canada will be the fourth finalist tomorrow with the United States, Great Britain and Italy.

There were two other events today in which the winners qualified to compete in the finals tomorrow. Jack Beresford, Jr., of Great Britain defeated Peterson of Holland in the single sculls and the Swiss four with coxswain won from Great Britain, Hungary and Belgium.

HUNT SLAYER OF POLICEMAN'S SON

Entire Police Force of Staten Island Marshaled in Effort to Find Murderer

Body of Eight-Year-Old Boy Found in Hastily Constructed Grave Near Home

NEW YORK, July 16.—Virtually the entire police force of Staten Island was marshalled today in an effort to arrest the slayer of eight-year-old Francis McDonald, son of a Staten Island policeman, whose mutilated body was found late last night in a hastily constructed grave of brush and leaves near the child's home. The body was discovered by a searching party which had been seeking the boy since his disappearance Monday afternoon.

The boy's suspenders knotted tightly about the throat had been used to strangle him and the body bore evidences of fiendish assault, the police say. Nearly all the clothing had been torn from the body and was scattered about. Until late last night the police had few clews upon which to work, only one person other than the slayer, apparently, having seen the boy after he went out to play Monday afternoon. Jacob Stein, a neighbor of the McDonald family told the police he saw the lad at 4.30 o'clock Monday afternoon walking along the road toward the woods. He wore a new pair of overalls in which he had a child's pride. Just ahead of the boy was a man whom Stein described as about "50 years old." Believing the boy was directing a stranger to the trolley line, Stein gave no further heed to the pair, he said. So far as the police have been able to learn, that was the last time the boy was seen alive.

The scene of the boy's murder is only three-quarters of a mile from the spot where Mrs. Maude Bauer was shot and killed last March, after her car had stalled on a lonely road. Harry Hoffman, a motion picture operator, is now serving a 20 years' sentence for her murder.

Today his fiancee, Mlle. Stanislawa Unicuska, visited him and was so overcome at the sight of his agony that she could not resist his pitiable pleadings. She shot him in the head and he is not expected to recover.

Following the shooting, Mlle. Unicuska collapsed and officers who were summoned to make the arrest left her in the care of the sanitorium. She is only 22 years old and noted for her beauty.

Three Machines Taxied Easily Into Airdrome After Uneventful Flight From Paris—Given Enthusiastic Send-off by French People

CROYDON, England, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The American army airmen on their world flight landed here at 2.08 o'clock this afternoon.

The three machines taxied easily into the Croydon airdrome after an uneventful flight across the channel from Paris. Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, the flight commander, was the first to land, and one of the first to greet the American airmen was Mrs. Stuart MacLaren, wife of the British world flier, who asked news of her husband, now in the far east.

The aviators made the distance between Le Bourget and Croydon, estimated at 225 miles, in three hours and three minutes.

"I am sorry we missed him, but am glad we could help him," Lieut Smith replied to Mrs. Maclaren, referring to the new machine with which the

Meet at London Foreign Office for Purpose of Making Effective Dawes Plan—U. S. Ambassador Kellogg and Colonel Logan Present

LONDON, July 16. (By the Associated Press.)—The inter-allied conference for the purpose of making effective the Dawes plan for German reparations assembled at 11 o'clock today at the foreign office.

American Ambassador Kellogg was present with Col. James A. Logan, Jr., the American observer with the reparation commission. Four advisers and a number of secretaries were with the United States representatives.

Formally welcoming the delegates to the conference Prime Minister MacDonald made especial reference to the presence of the two Americans. He noted they were not present as full delegates, but he took their presence as indicating the good will and co-operation of the United States in the effort to make the Dawes plan effective.

Ambassador Kellogg, replying to Mr. MacDonald's welcome, said the American government and people believed the adoption of the Dawes report would be the first great step toward the stabilization of Europe.

The American delegates, Mr. Kellogg said, were not attending the con-

HELD FOR SUPERIOR COURT ON CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Inquest Report Finds Paul F. MacKenzie Guilty of Criminal Negligence in Connection With Death of 3-Year-Old Richard Maynard in First Street

Criminal negligence is found against Paul F. MacKenzie in connection with the death of Richard Maynard after an automobile accident, in an inquest report submitted to Judge Fisher in district court this morning.

The inquest was held by Judge Pickman several weeks ago and his finding follows: "I find that said Richard Maynard received injuries from which he died by the criminal negligence of Paul MacKenzie in his operation of an automobile at the entrance into the Lawrence boulevard, and that no other person caused or contributed to the death of said Richard Maynard."

In district court this morning, MacKenzie was called on charges of man-

Broken Brake Beams This Morning Halt Progress of Lowell Bound Local

Y., N. H. & H. railroad between Lowell and Framingham.

LAWYERS' LIPS STILL SEALED

Will Make No Comment on Restitution to Bank by Mrs. Boardman

Boardman Ready to Aid Accountants in Locating Shortages on Books

Persistent rumors that J. Harry Boardman has confessed to looting the Old Lowell National bank and that his wife has offered restitution went unconfirmed and uncontradicted today. Mr. Boardman continued to keep himself cloistered at his Clark road home and attorneys for all persons involved decline to shed any light on the matter. In the meantime the bank, completely oriented after the disclosures of Monday, continued business without embarrassment, secure in its undoubted solvency and the supreme confidence of its depositors.

James J. Kerwin, member of Kerwin & Reilly, counsel for the bank and a member of its board of directors, refused to discuss the rumors of confession and restitution. A similar attitude was taken by Albert S. Howard, member of Qua, Howard & Rogers, attorney for the accused and also counsel for the Nelson family, whose trust Boardman is alleged to have betrayed.

"All that there is to be said was said to The Sun of Monday," said Attorney Kerwin. "There is nothing to add. I have no authority to give interviews for the bank. It would seem to me the case has been fully covered in the prints and that any further continuance would not serve any purpose. The bank is solid and solvent. That is all there is to say."

Mr. Howard when approached by a reporter for The Sun and asked point blank as to the rumors of confession and proposed restitution said: "My lips are sealed. However, you may say that Mr. Boardman has been and is willing to offer any and all assistance to the bank, to government officials or to accountants, in checking his books. Further than that there is nothing I feel I can say."

Fred E. and Grace P. Nelson, mentioned in connection with the case, are at Sutton, N. H., where they have a summer estate. It became known here last night that the accused cashier visited them at their home there last Thursday, making known to them in part at least, the state of affairs at the bank. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson decline to discuss the visit or their dealings with Boardman. Mr. Howard has been their attorney for a long period and all inquiries were referred to his office. Asked to whether he complained to the bank officials, Mr. Nelson asked to be excused from any discussion of the case.

From other sources it was learned that when Mr. Nelson sold his holdings in a chain of five-and-ten-cent stores about eighteen months ago and went to California with his wife, he left with Boardman, his banker, friend and neighbor, securities in the New Haven railroad. It is the charge of the federal district attorney that these were converted by Boardman to his own use.

Federal officials say that when Boardman saw the bank examiners were likely to uncover his dealings he made a hurried trip to New Hampshire and pleaded with Nelson that he save him and told him of the disgrace that his wife and children would be obliged to bear with him. It is said that Nelson, although taken back by the startling admissions of his erring and trusted friend and neighbor, was adamant and called in his attorney. It is said that Boardman, upon his return from the Nelson estate, also consulted his attorney and that by coincidence both poured out their story into the ears of Mr. Howard, with whom they have always done their legal work.

Other than expressing confidence in the bank, Mr. Nelson would not discuss any of the phases of the case.

STEALS MILK WITH $118 IN HIS POCKETS

A most unusual larceny case was called in district court this morning, when Harry Younges was arraigned for the larceny of one quart of milk from a Middlesex street doorstep.

The arrest was made at 5 o'clock this morning by Sergt. Frank Maloney and at the time of his apprehension, the defendant had $118 on his person.

Younges' arrest followed a complaint to the station by Bernard Zager that he had been losing milk from his doorstep in Middlesex street for some time. Sergt. Maloney was detailed to the case and after watching the premises several mornings, arrested Younges this morning after he had taken a quart of milk, placed it in a bag, and started away with it.

When arraigned, Younges admitted taking the milk but said he intended to pay for it this evening. He was found guilty by Judge Fisher and fined $5.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Thy Name Is Woman" is the dramatic corset of the year. This new Fred Niblo production for Metro will open tomorrow at the Merrimack Square theatre. For the first time in his career, Ramon Navarro, the hero of many romantic roles, plays a character of his own nationality. His parents came from Spain to Mexico a short time before his birth, and he was brought up on the old traditions. He has now been summoned to play the leading part in a production which is laid in the Pyrenees, and concerns the loves and hates of a smugglers' band. The story was adapted by Bess Meredyth from Benjamin Glazer's American version of Karl Schoenherr's play. Barbara LaMarr stars with Navarro, and gives a fine impersonation of passionate emotionalism and burning Latin intensity.

Something of the speedy action of "In Fast Company," which accompanies "Thy Name Is Woman" on the new bill, can be imagined from the fact that those who have seen it call it a "serial in feature length." Every stunt performed by Richard Talmadge, star of Truart production, is possible in real life. In other words, the situations are not forced, but legitimate. But it is the speed with which the plot moves, and the fact that Talmadge produces so many daring thrillers, that give it prestige. But, unlike a serial, its speed thrills and its comedy are so interwoven that absorbing interest starts with the first scene and keeps up to the very finish. In the company, besides Talmadge, are Mildred Harris, Snitz Edwards, Douglas Gerrard, Sheldon Lewis, Jack Herrick and Charles Clary, all players of prominence.

The coolness and comfort of the Merrimack Square lend it a peculiar attraction these warm afternoons and evenings. Allow yourself to be convinced—not by the printed word, but by an hour or two spent in the thorough enjoyment which may be found there.

RIALTO THEATRE

Many an innocent man suffered under accusations for which he had no available alibi, but in the end the wheel of fate usually swung around to his number. It was that way with "Cameo Kirby," Mississippi river gambler, square shooter and gentleman beneath the surface. The story by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, remarkable for its truthful delineation of the picturesque life of the time, has been done into a dramatic photoplay by William Fox and will be shown at Loew's Rialto for three days, starting Thursday. Eugene Kirby, scapegrace son of a good old southern family, a professional gambler on Mississippi river boats and in the gambling hells of New Orleans and way towns, is known for his obsession for cameos. So marked is his weakness that he is nicknamed "Cameo." Entering a game in which Moreau, a river shark, is cracking Johnny Randall, a New Orleans trader, Kirby wins the latter's estate, intending to return it to him, saving it from the greedy clutch of Moreau. Not realizing this, Randall ends his life and "Cameo" is accused of murder. The plot weaves into an intricate pattern of tragedy, comedy and love to a climax which reveals "Cameo" in his true light. John Gilbert plays the title role, with Gertrude Olmstead opposite. A capable cast gives them notable support.

"Pep With a Kick," a novelty comedy drama with 27 noted picture stars in the added feature. The cast reads like an encyclopedia as to "Who's Who" in the film industry. The ninth round of the H. C. Witwer's "Fighting Blood" and a new Fox News round out this splendid picture bill.

7-YEAR-OLD BOY IS SAVED FROM DROWNING

The heroism and knowledge of artificial respiration methods of an unknown young man saved the life of John Bonnelle, aged 7 years, of 38 Merrill street early last evening.

Bonnelle, with several companions about his age, went swimming in the Wamesit canal near the Lawrence street fire house and after being in the water some time he either became exhausted or was seized with cramps and sank beneath the surface.

An older boy, swimming nearby, noticed the Bonnelle lad's plight and dove after him. Bringing the drowning lad to the surface, willing hands assisted in getting him out of the water and artificial respiration was resorted to by the rescuer. The police were notified and Sergt. Winn and Officers Cooney, Lynch, Graham and Hartley were despatched to the scene with the pulmotor.

Upon arrival, they found the Bonnelle boy conscious and he was taken to St. Johns' hospital in the police car. At the hospital it is reported his condition is favorable and he will be discharged within a day or two.

A Super-Clay

Brought me beauty and perennial youth

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

I look back on a glorious career. First, as a famous beauty. Then for 35 years a stage star. And now, at a grandmother's age, a beauty still, playing a beauty's part.

I owe all that to several factors, but the greatest is a new-type clay. Now I have arranged with druggists and toilet counters to supply it to every woman. I want it to bring to others what it brought to me—multiplied beauty, decades of added youth.

My White Youth Clay

Old clays were crude and muddy. Mine is white, refined and dainty. Old types had one clay—mine has two. There are eleven ingredients embodied in mine, to bring the maximum results.

I owe this clay to men who have given it many years of scientific study. It is a super-clay, amazing in its quick and lasting benefits. I have seen many plain girls become beauties with one application. I have seen older women seem to drop ten years.

Clay is a beauty essential. No girl can look her best without it, no woman keep her youth. Look at France—where girls are all beauties and women all young. That is largely due to clay.

I have no great interest in urging women to use my particular clay. But I do urge them to use some clay. I have found that mine brings multiplied results, but better the old types than none.

My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It draws out the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which so amuses and delights. Husbands tell me they hardly know their wives after they use White Youth Clay.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It wards off every sign of age.

I will gladly mail sample if you mail this coupon.

STONE ORDERS TOZER CASE APPEAL

PORTLAND, Me., July 16.—Appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals in the case of the government against Dr. Frederick W. Tozer is to be taken, Atty Gen. Stone has notified Special Assistant District Attorney John F. A. Merrill to proceed and perfect an appeal, which was taken April 7.

Dr. Tozer is charged with being an undesirable alien and suited to deportation. This case will come up for a hearing at the October term of court. Judge James A. Morton of Boston, sitting in the district court, March 27, heard the government's case and the defense, and sent in an opinion on April 5, dismissing the action and discharging the accused.

An appeal was taken, subject to the approval of the department of justice, and District Attorney Dyer as well as Judge Merrill made repeated requests for a department ruling. None was forthcoming until that of yesterday, which was not in accordance with the recommendation made by Dist. Atty. Dyer. He favored dismissal.

Dr. Tozer was the principal government witness in the trial of Ralph A. Fry and Erwin C. Ruth in the December term in 1921, which led to the conviction of Fry on the charge of extortion from physicians and dentists accused of inaccurate records of their narcotics.

SAYS LEOPOLD AND LOEB ONCE CONSIDERED LATTER'S BROTHER

Defense Attorney Says Youths Held for Kidnaping and Killing Robert Franks Once Considered Ernest Loeb as a Victim

CHICAGO, July 16.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, awaiting trial Aug. 4 on charges of kidnaping and slaying 13-year-old Robert Franks, once considered Ernest Loeb, 11-year-old brother of Richard, as a victim of their search for a thrill, according to defense attorneys.

"For this reason, there is no one who wants to see the boys freed," Clarence S. Darrow, chief of counsel for the defense, said. "The family and lawyers are actually afraid of the boys and it is for the sake of society that the parents do not want the boys freed."

The theory of the defense, it was indicated after numerous examinations by alienists and experts had been completed, will be that the killing of the Franks boy was in response to an irresistible mandate of two coincidentally insane impulses. The victim was merely a subject for an emotional experiment in the eyes of the youths, the alienists and defense attorneys say.

Inter-Allied Conference On Reparations in Session

ference with the same powers as the others at the conference table because the United States was not a party to the treaty. However, the ambassador added that the Americans were present in the same spirit of co-operation and helpfulness. He paid tribute to the members of the Dawes committee and their work.

Premier MacDonald briefly surveyed the reparation problem, urging the importance of putting the Dawes report into effect as a whole, without change.

It would be the business of the conference, said Mr. MacDonald, to create conditions for the working of the Dawes report, the first being the fiscal and economic unity of Germany, and the second, adequate security for prospective investors in the loan for Germany.

One great merit of the experts' work, continued the premier, was the businesslike methods they had adopted in preparing it, and he hoped the present conference would follow their example. He pointed out that the Dawes report was not a final solution of the reparation problem but that it was necessary to get this scheme into operation before other problems could be solved. Therefore it was his desire that the conference deal solely with the Dawes report. Responding to the British prime minister's welcome, Premier Herriot of France thanked his colleague for his "noble words." He recognized the apparent difficulties before the conference but he thought everybody was "imbued alike with love of country and love of peace." Therefore he believed the interests of the various peoples concerned could be conciliated.

M. Herriot proposed Mr. MacDonald as chairman of the conference, after which the business of organization was begun. Sir Maurice Hankey was named secretary-general and three committees were appointed to work out the agenda along the lines of the Herriot-MacDonald communique issued from Paris July 8.

This business accomplished, the conference adjourned until tomorrow.

Take Up Premier's Note

PARIS, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The reparation commission devoted all of yesterday and a good part of the night to the request made in the joint MacDonald-Herriot note of last week that it submit to the London interallied conference suggestions with the view of establishing a plan whereby the economic and fiscal unity of Germany should be re-established as soon as the commission had decided that the Dawes report was in force.

The reparation commission laid down what should in its opinion constitute "the putting into operation of the Dawes plan." These conditions, five of them, were adopted unanimously at a long day and night session. They are:

First, voting by the reichstag in a form approved by the reparation commission of laws necessary to the working of the plan and promulgation of these laws;

Second, installation with a view to their normal working of all the executive and controlling bodies provided in the plan;

Third, definite constitution in conformity with the provisions of the respective laws of the German bank and of the German railway company;

Fourth, deposit with the trustees of certificates representing railway bonds and such similar certificates for industrial debentures as may result from the report of the organization committee;

Fifth, conclusion of contracts assuring the subscription of a loan of 800,000,000 gold marks as soon as the plan has been brought into operation and all the conditions contained in the experts' report have been fulfilled.

The modern girl is an athletic girl. Even her severest critics will admit that. And "camping out" is one of her favorite pastimes. FEDERALS WIN VICTORY OVER BRAZILIAN REBELS

BUENOS AIRES, July 16 (by the Associated Press).—An official Brazilian communique from Rio Janeiro was received at La Nacion at midnight, stating that the federals "won an important action against the rebels, capturing many prisoners."

The official bulletin announces that telegrams are continuing to arrive indicating the "patriotic battalions" have been organized in nearly all cities of Sao Paulo state to battle the insurrectionists. It also states that intense feeling in other districts outside of Sao Paulo prevails against the rebels.

VERY MUCH ALIVE

Bill Anderson, one-time lieutenant of William Clarke Quantrill, noted guerrilla chieftain, was not killed in the Civil war days, as many history books have stated. At 55, he is now living on a farm near Brownwood, Tex. Anderson was believed to have been killed when a band of guerrillas were ambushed. Following his reported death, he headed south from Missouri and settled down in Texas, where he has lived ever since.

STATE AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

NEWTON, July 16.—The state amateur golf championship play was begun on the links of the Woodland golf club today, with Fred G. Jesse Guilford, former holder of state and national titles started out on the medal round today with 64 scored yesterday in practice, seven strokes under par and under the record, as indication that he was in good form. Francis Ouimet, another holder of many titles, was also entered, together with Earl Mosser, present state finalist.

TWO INQUESTS ARE HELD TODAY

Inquests were held in the second sessions court of the district court building this morning, before Judge Pickman, in connection with the deaths by accident of Mrs. Ada MacDonald and John D. Grant.

Mrs. MacDonald died of injuries received when an automobile in which she was riding was in collision with one operated by Emery Hoit at Chandlers' corner, Tewksbury, June 30. Grant died of injuries received when struck by an automobile operated by George Gardner in Thorndike street, on June 18.

Drastic Measures To Reduce Motor Fatalities

serts, have been the victims of drunken or reckless drivers.

Mr. Goodwin's letter to the chiefs reads:

"Dear Sir: The motor vehicle situation from an accident standpoint is worse than at any time in the history of the state. With 110,000 more cars on the road than last year this would naturally be so and will continue unless drastic action is taken by the police, the courts and this department.

Already this year there have been 837 persons killed up to July 1st compared with 213 last year, and with 30 persons killed in the first thirteen days of July it looks as if this tremendous increase will continue unless there is an immediate tightening-up of law enforcement and more severe penalties by the courts.

The principal increase in the fatal and all other accidents has been in the nighttime, and aside from the pedestrians who are killed in the cities, most of the accidents in which occupants are killed or injured are the result of drunken or reckless driving.

Already this year there have been 1647 convictions for operating while under the influence of liquor as compared with 977 last year, and 461 convictions for driving so as to endanger the lives of the public as compared with 243 last year.

It is suggested, therefore, that you do all you can to compel drivers to slow up in the busy streets in the cities where children and pedestrians are sure to be, and make a special effort to apprehend all crazy night riders who are making it unsafe for decent people to drive their cars on the highways at night.

I wish you would call to my attention all accidents in which drunken or reckless drivers are involved, in which persons are injured or property damaged, where the punishment is not in your opinion, such as to discourage that type of driving. It is about time to make public specific cases of failure on the part of the courts to do their share to stop this increasing slaughter.

Very truly yours,
FRANK A. GOODWIN,
Registrar."

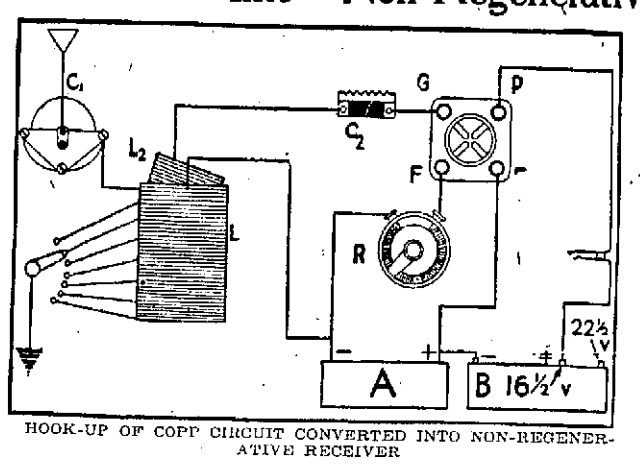
Copp Circuit Converted Into Non-Regenerative



HOOK-UP OF COPP CIRCUIT CONVERTED INTO NON-REGENERATIVE RECEIVER

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
N.E.A. Service Radio Editor

It is a simple operation to convert the Copp circuit to a non-regenerative hook-up.

The chief objection to a Copp set comes from others than those actually using the receiver—those who are annoyed by interferences by improperly tuned sets.

To please these neighbors there are two expediencies. One is to tune the set carefully, so that no oscillations will cause the set to reradiate. The other is the fool-proof method of converting the set to a non-regenerative circuit.

The set as originally hooked up causes oscillations of the tube to revert directly back into the aerial. To stop this the grid lead is taken off the aerial circuit altogether and the filament isn't grounded.

Simple Change

Instead the primary of the variocoupler, whether tuned or untuned, is grounded, while the secondary or rotor is hooked between grid and filament, instead of between plate and phones. The plate, in this case, is led directly to the phones.

The parts for this circuit are almost exactly those of the original Copp receiver, and the coils are of the same construction.

The primary consists of 70 turns of No. 16 DCC wire, with a tap off every tenth turn. It is wound on four-inch tubing six inches long. The secondary is wound on a 3½-inch rotor, with 17 turns of the same wire on each side.

Same Parts

Other parts include:

C1, a 43-plate variable condenser, .001 mfd.

C2, a grid leak and condenser, .00025 mfd.

One 6-ohm rheostat.

One tube socket.

One ¼-inch rod and dial, for the rotor.

Six binding posts.

Seven taps and switch lever.

Bus wire for connections, 8-inch by 12-inch panel, 6-inch by 12-inch wood base.

Instead of direct phone connections, a double circuit jack may be fitted into the circuit, for use of a two-stage amplifier. If this is desired, the two outside terminals of the jack should be connected to the plate and the 16½ volt, or 22½ volt terminal of the B battery, and the two inner terminals go to the first transformer, one to the plate terminal and the other to the positive B.

RECENT BROADCASTING MADE NEW FANS

Broadcasting the proceedings of the nominating conventions of the republican and democratic parties has tremendously increased the popularity of radio.

It has brought radio into the lives of thousands of people who never before felt the desire to own a receiving set. The way in which it brought the thrills and drama of the conventions to them was a revelation. From every section of the country, from cities as well as country districts, come reports of persons who listened to radio for the first time during the conventions.

Not only did persons without radio sets of their own hear the convention news on sets in their neighbors' homes, but in clubs and hotels, and in parks where sets were installed for public convenience and with powerful amplifiers so that thousands of people could hear. It is an interesting fact, too, that the candidate nominated for president by the democratic party learned of his nomination by radio.

The long broadcasting of the democratic convention, especially, did much to popularize the use of loop sets. In thousands of clubs and hotels where no convenient facilities for an outside antenna and ground connections, sets operating on a loop and a loud speaker were used. And the results were excellent.

Such sets were a pleasant surprise to thousands of people who previously thought that radio meant complicated apparatus, a long wire strung on the roof, and another wire, even more bothersome, strung from the set to the bathroom to connect with a water pipe for ground connection and always in the way to be tripped over. When they heard the convention news coming in loud and clear through a loud speaker on a set antenna, their interest of an outside antenna, their interest and delight crystalized into a desire to have a set of their own.

RADIO MAKES AIR SAFER

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
N.E.A. Service Radio Editor

Before we start flying, radio is going to make it safer than motoring.

And we're about ready to start right now.

In fact, radio is far ahead of the science of aviation in preparations for the day when flying will become as popular as motoring. Lighter machines are still being tried out, smaller airplane engines are still on the testing blocks, and the helicopter type of plane is as yet incomplete.

But radio is already doing its share in flying. It is directing the coast-to coast airmail pilots along their course, by day and by night. It is being used to keep pilots directly in touch with land wherever they may be. Conversations are held both ways, as though each pilot were at the end of a direct telephone line.

Twin Sciences

Experiments are continuing in Washington, in Dayton, O., and at other points in efforts to link radio with the airplane for their permanent and mutual benefit. At Washington, army air service flyers only recently succeeded in carrying on a lengthy conversation between pilot and ground.

Despite clouds, soaring or descending, whichever way he turned, Lieut. Burdette S. Wright, chief of the air service airways section, succeeded in talking with his comrades on land, without a break.

A similar fest at Dayton showed that clouds, changing atmospheric pressure, height, direction, distance, position of plane—none of these factors affected the conversation in the least.

Improvement Seen

Now this system needs perfecting—lighter, more compact receivers and transmitters with standard controls for the simplest form of manipulation by the pilot or anyone else in the plane. The set used in the recent Washington tests consisted of a four-tube transmitter and a super-heterodyne receiver. The receiver itself consisted of a remote control amplifier and a tuner box.

The amplifier contained two detector tubes, three stages of radio frequency and two of audio frequency amplification. The tuner box contained the tuning units and the heterodyne.

Only a few years from now this will be looked upon as crude and clumsy.

In Dayton, at Wilbur Wright Field, the army air service is going much further with its experiments linking radio to flying. Pilots have already made trips from this point to Mitchel Field on Long Island without seeing where they were going. A little instrument in the plane directed them.

Now, by a directional radio beacon on land, and a radio-ized receiver on the plane, a pilot can make any trip without seeing land, except at the start and the finish. All he has to do is listen in while his receiver keeps ticking off the letter that tells him he is on the right course or the letter that warns him he is going astray.

With the transmitter and receiver, the pilot at the same time keeps in personal touch with land.

RUM CRAFT SEIZURE WILL BE TEST CASE

BOSTON, July 16.—The British three-masted schooner, Frances Louise, with 4000 gallons of Cuban alcohol on board, seized on rum row Monday night, was towed into the harbor yesterday by the coast guard cutter Ossipee. The vessel is alleged to be the mother ship and to have supplied small rum-runners which have been engaged in transporting the contraband to the shore.

It is understood to be the first seizure under the federal law which permits the seizure of vessels engaged in running contraband at a distance from port that the suspected vessel could cover in one hour, or that a connecting vessel, working in conjunction with her, could traverse in one hour.

The Frances Louise was taken 16½ miles from Race Point. While the schooner could not cover that distance in an hour, it is understood that the speed boat, Katherine B, which was seized in the lower harbor last Friday night, while heading for the Fore River with 600 gallons of alcohol, could easily cover that distance within the time limit. The Katherine B's load is alleged to have come from the Frances Louise.

The Frances Louise is said to be an old offender and it is alleged that she has been engaged in running rum for many months. According to the last issue of the Maritime Register, the Frances Louise left Lunenburg July 1 for sea.

Upon the result of the seizure and trial of this case will depend the activities of the federal authorities in their war against rum-runners peddling booze outside the 12-mile limit.

The Frances Louise is a wooden three-masted schooner of 184 tons gross. She was built at Lunenburg in 1917 and Lloyd's Register gives the owner as H. W. Adams of Lunenburg. The vessel is 125.6 feet long and carries a crew of seven men.

SIX KILLED AND 100 WOUNDED IN RIOTING,

DELHI, British India, July 16.—Six persons were reported killed and more than 100 wounded in rioting yesterday between Mohammedans and Hindus. The disturbance was caused by what is described as the aggressive attitude of the Mohammedans who persisted in carrying cows for a sacrifice through the prohibited area where the Hindus live.

The Mohammedans are declared to have entered the Hindu streets, breaking open and setting fire to the houses and desecrating idols. The military force was called out with armored cars, and forced to fire on the mob. There were no casualties from this fire, the casualties occurring in the street disturbances. Order was restored after four hours.

K. K. K. LIQUOR RAIDER REMOVED FROM OFFICE

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ills., July 16.—S. Glenn Young, Ku Klux Klan liquor raider of Williamson county, Illinois, who in the last two months has acted as klan kleagle here, has been removed from office "because he exceeded his authority as a klan officer in publishing statement regarding an official of the United States government," according to an announcement today at klan headquarters.

"Fighting Bob" Evans who has been only slightly less conspicuous in southern Illinois klan circles, succeeded Young.

Decision to oust Young was made last week in Chicago by Charles G. Palmer, grand titan of the klan for Illinois, it was said after a protest by W. S. Potter, United States district attorney here. Potter objected to methods used by Young and to his alleged unfair attacks against himself and other federal officers, whom the klan leader charged with dereliction of duty.

NAVAL COURT REPORTS FINDING ON TURRET DISASTER ON WARSHIP

Insufficient Air Pressure Used in Cleaning Bore of Big Gun Cause of Explosion in Which 44 Men and Three Officers Were Killed

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The turret explosion aboard the battleship Mississippi, off the California coast last June 12, in which 44 men and three officers were killed, resulted from insufficient air pressure used in cleaning the bore of the big gun, according to findings of the naval court of inquiry.

The fire in the upper handling room, the court said in its findings announced yesterday, "was caused by the safety doors not being entirely closed," and casualties were increased by the presence of unofficial observers "who crowded the passageways, making exits more difficult."

The court made no recommendations, its report being confined solely to findings of fact. Secretary Wilbur and his technical staff have taken the document under study to determine whether there should be further action in connection with failure to comply with regulations requiring that safety doors in turrets be closed during firing operations and also with regard to the presence of unauthorized persons in the turret.

"The casualty in question occurred during the firing of the eighth salvo," says the summary of the report issued by the department. "Prior to that time, namely upon the completion of the load for the third salvo, the left gun of No. 2 turret fired prematurely while the gun was in loading position. As the plug was closed, no damage was done.

"As described by eye-witnesses, the main casualty occurred as follows:

"The seventh salvo had been fired, guns returned to loading position and plug opened. There appeared to be some trouble with air pressure, although not very clear just what, except that the gun captain was heard to make some remarks about air pressure; the turret captain picked up a wrench and stated he would fix it. The shell was rammed home, four bags of powder placed on the spanner-tray, and rammed into the gun, rammer withdrawn, whereupon there emerged from the breech of the gun a small grayish ball of smoke and flame followed by a large flash of flame. Flame and gases immediately filled the gun compartment, passed through the safety doors above the shell table to the other two gun compartments and through the peep-doors of the turret officers' booth. Deaths occurred as the result of ashphyxiation.

"The court was of the opinion that the premature firing of the left gun on the third salvo was due to 'foul bore' consequent to insufficient air pressure and guns not being properly cleaned of gas before loading.

"The court was of the opinion that the same cause resulted in the main casualty; the gun being fired into the wind probably made the expulsion of gases more difficult; that the number of casualties was increased by the presence of unofficial observers who crowded the passageways making exits more difficult; that the damage casualties on the left and centre guns probably resulted by the failure to keep the safety doors over the shell table closed; that the fire in the upper handling room was caused by the safety doors not being entirely closed."

IN NEW YORK

By Stephen Hannagan

NEW YORK, July 16.—One of the clerks at the hotel in which I live is an Englishman, small of stature and unusually active.

Although he has been in the hotel business many years he does everything as though he were an efficient beginner, trying to earn a raise in salary.

He is by far the most accommodating hotel clerk I have found between New York and San Francisco.

Yesterday I learned, after knowing him two years, that he is worth a fortune, made in well-chosen business transactions.

Each year he spends his vacation in Europe, spending much of his time in London, the town of his birth.

He remains in the hotel as clerk because it gives him an opportunity to meet so many people—"some of whom are interesting," he adds.

He could buy and sell the majority of guests to whom he caters.

New York is a peculiar place. In the office building in which I work one can't ride on the passenger elevator unless he has on a collar. In other words he must be dressed fit to kill before he is tendered transportation.

On a warm afternoon, while sweltering over a typewriter, I ran out of tobacco. I dashed for the elevator—fully dressed except that I had taken off my collar and tucked my neckband in.

"Take the rear elevator," commanded the dusky operator who has been getting all my spare cigars for months, "delivery boys and help ride on the employes lift. You can't ride on this car unless you are fully clad."

Back in Lafayette, Ind., my home town, you could put your bathing suit on in the office and ride on the elevator to and from your swimming lesson and nobody appeared distressed.

"Before you make your will," advertises a New York bank in the Fifth avenue busses, "be sure to consult us."

A few years ago—in the pioneering days of automotive transportation—that sign would have stricken terror in the minds of nervous people, just as it might if it were posted in the cabin of a passenger airplane today.

But the busses are safe.

PRE-NATAL DIET

When Mrs. Mann of Anytown was anticipating her first baby, she had a long consultation with the family doctor on diet, exercise and other questions.

"One thing is certain," the doctor told her, "and that is the necessity of a well-balanced and mixed diet. The diet should contain a mixture of fats, proteins, minerals and carbohydrates. By all means, drink plenty of water.

"In the early days, when nausea is likely to be a disturbing factor, it is best to dispense with three large meals a day and substitute a half-dozen small ones. The medical world has disproved the old saying that an expectant mother has to eat for two. She has to do nothing of the sort, and eating foods that would be likely to disturb the stomach is silly.

"In the later days, when motherhood is near, red meats should be eaten not more than once a day, while fish, eggs and meat should not be eaten every day, due to the protein content.

"On the other hand, fruits, vegetables—particularly vegetables of the leafy variety—help build up the mineral supply which is needed."

BOOKS

George Putnam Recalls Civil War Days

BY THE N.E.A. BOOK SURVEY

Even the World war has not taken from the Civil war the doubtful honor of being the more interesting to read about.

The number of books about the war of '61 is legion. Even so, one more will be welcome.

The latest to come from the press is "Some Memories of the Civil War," by Major George Haven Putnam. It is chock-full of color and romance. Besides telling of his own experiences as captain and adjutant, Putnam includes some incidents that, even if told before, are little known.

One is about Abram S. Hewitt, the iron founder. Hewitt was one of New York's greatest philanthropists and is known as probably the ablest man who ever occupied the city's mayoralty chair.

General Grant once made an urgent call for 30 mortar beds to be used at Fort Donelson. The contractors said they would require 90 days to build. But Hewitt, at a cost of $30,000, and without profit, delivered them in 28 days.

Each car left the factory with this inscription: "U. S. Grant, Cairo. Not to be switched under penalty of death."

Although Hewitt didn't take a cent profit and sidetracked all his orders, he didn't get paid the $30,000. On a trip to Washington, he went to see President Lincoln. Lincoln greeted him cordially, and when told about the money which had not been forthcoming, he became angry and sent for Stanton. Lincoln wrote on the bill: "Pay this bill now!" Hewitt and Stanton went to the treasury and the money was paid at once.

Major Putnam describes days spent in famous Libby prison, Virginia. The hardships of prison life are described in detail.

Probably the reason the book is so interesting is the fact that it is not a hasty collection of notes. It contains memoranda written over a long period of years. The book is the thirteenth Putnam has written.

P. G. Wodehouse, brilliant farceur, has just written the greatest tragedy of the age. It is a volume "written in blood." It is the outpouring of a soul as deeply scared by Fate's unkindness as the fairway on the dogleg of the second nine was ever seared by my iron," says the author in his "fore" word.

And the golfer, if ever he topped the ball on the very first tee, will carry on more lightly as he reads this volume on "Golf Without Tears" (Doran). It is a collection of ten short stories written over a five-year period of golf. Every good duffer should let his caddie carry a copy, for in it he may find solace when the going becomes too hard and the score passes 200.

In Afghanistan, all a man has to do to take a girl as his wife is to cut off a lock of her hair or throw a sheet over her.

A large gathering witnessed the movies on the North common last evening. SECRET OF HAPPINESS

The greatest menace on earth to happiness is the ill health with which so many women are afflicted. The young woman is subject to pain and irregularities, the mother to the torture of displacements with consequent pains, aches and nervousness,—the middle aged man to the uncomfortable conditions caused by this critical age. The one remedy to control these conditions and restore the system to a normal, healthy condition is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for fifty years has been restoring sick and ailing women to health and happiness.—Adv.

I can dance now without embarrassment

I inherited my body from ancestors built for hard work. Vigorous exercise, summer or winter, makes me perspire like a fat farmer pitching hay.

After about three dances I used to feel that it was a delicate attention to a girl to keep away from her.

Of course, I bathed. I even tried those things women use, for I was sensitive about it.

How I got rid of body odors

I was going to a dance one night with the girl. That afternoon, in a store, I picked up a cake of Lifebuoy. It smelt clean—the kind of cleanness I needed—not an affected perfume, but a good honest smell that meant business.

Before dressing, I soaked for a minute or two in hot water. Then I worked Lifebuoy into the open pores. Never saw such lather in my life. It wasn't like the stingy, sticky lather I had known, but a great creamy mass of foam with a kick in it. I could feel my skin getting clean by the minute. More dirt came off than I would have believed clean looking skin could conceal.

And positively not an odor all evening. Lifebuoy had penetrated to the root of the trouble. My pores were so antiseptically purified that no matter how much I perspired, there was no unpleasantness.

And by the way, my hot and cold Lifebuoy shower in the morning keeps me on my toes all day. I used to dread hot weather—now I like it.

Auto Business Chased State Capitol Away From Detroit

BY WILL M. CRESSY
(Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

Detroit, the city that ruined the shoe trade.

The first record we find of Detroit was in 1701, when a French automobile manufacturer, by the name of Cadillac, came there and established a Detroit branch of the Cadillac factory.

The town and the shop did real well up until 1812, when a party of English tourists, under the command of General Brock, came to town, knocked the town apart and put it together to suit themselves.

But a year later, an American patriot, Sir Henry Ford, recaptured the town, built a little shop and started making Eagle boats for the United States navy and Ford cars for the rest of the population.

By 1824 the town had grown so big that it was made the state capital. But it was not a success. The minute a legislator would get there he would throw up his job and go to work for Henry Ford. So, in 1847, they moved the capital to Lansing, where there would be nothing to disturb the deliberations of the law makers.

Detroit is a real pretty little village, with street cars, a moving picture theatre, several papier-mache hotels and 21 public parks.

Belle Isle, the largest of these parks, is on an island that it cost three and a half million dollars to get to. Just illustrating what Detroit folks are willing to pay to get out of town for an hour.

On this island is the largest flock of tame canoes on earth. It was started in 1896 with only one pair of canoes. And by letting (human) nature take its course it has grown to its present size.

In former years, during hard times, the other 20 parks were devoted to potato raising. But now they are given over entirely to fruit, peaches, pairs, prunes and night-blooming dates.

They also abound in wild life, such as squabs, goslins, ducks, dear, old bucks, sad dogs and young pups, old hens and young chickens, night hawks, chicken hawks, sparrow cops and nurse girls.

If all the automobiles made in Detroit in a year were paid for, nobody in America but automobile makers and agents would have a nickel.

Detroit makes more stoves in a year than all the countries of Europe would use in 50 years.

In addition to all the automobiles made in Detroit, Henry Ford also makes money.

For a while there was talk of putting a Ford in the White House; but it was a flivver.

Detroit is called "The Working Man's Paradise." No matter what trade, business or profession you follow, you can have your own newspaper or magazine in Detroit. For there are:

The American Elk, the Beekeepers' Review, the Bulletin of Pharmacy, the Concrete Magazine, Electrocraft, the Gleaner, the Horseshoers' Journal, the Medical Journal, the Dairy Farmer, the Investor, Motorman and Conductor, Motor News, the Retail Druggist, the Stove Mounters' Journal, the Studio, Perin's Stenographer, the Therapeutic Gazette—and, although I do not know where they get their subscribers —the Truth.

Yes, 'Brother Charley' Likes His Little Nip of Grape Juice

By N. E. A. Service

LINCOLN, Neb., July 15.—Charles Wayland Bryan, democratic nominee for vice president, is bald.

Like his famous brother, William J., he goes in for grape juice and skull caps.

But where the "Commoner" is of medium height and leaning to corpulence, "Brother Charley" is a big, upstanding man.

He's more than six feet tall, with lots of pep. He holds his head up, shoulders back and walks with swinging, vigorous stride. And he has a bristling white mustache, whereas William J. is smooth of face.

They call Charles Bryan "Brother Charley" because for more than 20 years he has lived in the shadow of his brother's greater fame.

But he has been the Bryan in Nebraska ever since his election to the governorship in 1922. He has been the acknowledged leader of the state's dry forces ever since William J. quit Nebraska for Florida.

The new Bryan in national politics is 57 and has lived in Nebraska for 31 years, coming here from Salem, Ill., where he was born.

He was a traveling cigar salesman for a time. Then when his brother got important enough to have a private secretary, "Brother Charley" got the job.

Later he was publisher of his brother's paper, the Commoner. Still later he was publisher and editor.

He was mayor of Lincoln from 1915 to 1917. He believes in municipal ownership of public utilities. In fact, he established a municipal coal yard in Lincoln and saved users $4 a ton.

"Brother Charley" is not the orator that William J. is. But he has the reputation of being a better organizer.

He has always followed and supported the political theories of his brother, and William J. is said to have more confidence in the political opinion of "Brother Charley" than of any of his other associates.

As tribute to his political shrewdness he is credited with an important part in the defeat of Champ Clark and nomination of Woodrow Wilson in the 1912 democratic convention.

The Bryans are regarded hereabouts as "plain folks," rather than "society" people.

They belong to the Presbyterian church, and "Brother Charley" is as ardent a churchman as Brother Bill.

The Bryans have two children, a son, who was a captain in the United States army, and a daughter, whose wedding plans have just been announced.

BOY GRAZED BY REVOLVER BULLET

While attempting to hide a small calibre revolver from a policeman last evening, John Marez, 15 years old, of 17 George street, accidently discharged the gun and the bullet went through his clothing and grazed his left side. He was taken to St. John's hospital and allowed to go home after the injury was treated.

The boy purchased the gun from a friend yesterday afternoon and last night showed it to several of his friends in Williams street. While engaged in displaying his purchase, Officer Patrick Bagley appeared on the street and the boy tried to hide the weapon under his coat. In doing so he accidently discharged it, the bullet passing through his clothing and barely grazing his left side. Finding the boy slightly injured the patrolman commandeered an ambulance and had him taken to St. John's hospital.

TO AID VETS' BUREAU

Appointment of Council on Medical and Hospital Affairs Announced

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Appointment of a council on medical and hospital affairs, comprised of nineteen prominent physicians, to aid the veterans' bureau in improving its service, was announced today by Director Hines. The council, which will visit various centers of the bureau throughout the country will hold its first conference with Gen. Hines and Dr. E. O. Crossman, medical director of the bureau, in Washington, July 22-24.

"In rendering advisory service to the bureau," said General Hines, "the members of the council may be asked to give opinions on some of the details which give us concern in general, and it is desired that they consider, as specialists, and as ex-service men the broad aspects of the needs of the war disabled and the best methods of extending assistance to them in line with relief legislation and the regulations now in force."

The council includes the following specialists from New England: W. C. Rappleye, New Haven, Conn.; Joel E. Goldthwaite, Boston; Frank Billings, Rhode Island; G. M. Kline, Boston, and Douglas A. Thom, Boston.

FOREST FIRES CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Eastern Washington, northern Idaho and California today were continuing their more or less unsuccessful battles against forest fires, but rains in western Washington and Oregon had nearly ended the fire menace there.

Fires in Northern Idaho and northeastern Washington last night had burned over several thousand acres of timberland, and had destroyed the surface workings of four mines, a number of ranch houses and much property of lumber companies, including several hundred thousand feet of timber. So far as known, no lives have been lost.

RICHARD CROKER'S WILL ADMITTED TO PROBATE

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., July 16.—Three children of Richard Croker, former Tammany chieftain, lost another step in their contest of his will when County Judge R. P. Robbins, admitted to probate here yesterday the will he made on Oct. 12, 1918, at Glencairn, his estate in Dublin, Ireland, bequeathing to his widow, Mrs. Bula E. Croker, his entire estate valued at $10,000,000.

Accepted as the last will and testament of the late political boss, it revokes all other such documents. The three children, Richard, Jr., Howard and Ethel, who have prosecuted a long court fight to overturn the will on grounds that Mrs. Croker, his second wife, exerted undue influence over her husband in his late years, and other charges, announced through their attorney that they would appeal the decision.

PRES. COOLIDGE TO STAY IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 16.—President Coolidge will spend the remainder of the summer in Washington unless something unforeseen develops. The summer so far has been cool—that is cool for Washington and the president has told friends he and Mrs. Coolidge have found the White House quite comfortable and have made no plans other than to remain there.

Week end trips on the Mayflower afford more real rest, in the president's opinion, than would a stay of several weeks outside the capital.

Inasmuch as Mr. Coolidge is not to be formally notified of his selection as the republican presidential nominee until Aug. 14, it is not probable he will leave Washington for any purpose before the first of September.

WARSHIP WARSPITE WINS RODMAN CUP

PLYMOUTH, England, July 16—Stokers of the crew of the British warship Warspite today won the Rodman cup, presented to the British fleet by Admiral Hugh Rodman, who commanded the American fleet operations with the British in the last war.

Each battleship in the Atlantic fleet entered one cutter and the Rodman race is the supreme test of the regatta, the winning crew being slated as champion of the fleet.

The Grand Army of the Republic, West Point Cadets, 2000 Boy Scouts, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the Revolution and other patriotic and civil organizations will participate.

Foley, chairman; Miss Lois Hamilton, treasurer; John J. Copley, collector; board of trustees, Thomas Donahue, John Speer, George Everson, Ray Leblanc and Thomas McGuane.

The committee in charge of the outing held recently was accorded a rising vote of thanks in recognizance of the excellent work accomplished.

It was voted that the meetings of the organization be held the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

RAPID ACTION BY LIQUOR SQUAD MEN

A man arrested, the case tried in district court, and sentence imposed, all in half an hour, was the record made by Sergt. Winn and Officer Leahey of the liquor squad this morning.

The two officers, armed with a search warrant, visited at 369 Moody street after 9.30 o'clock this morning. After a search Sergt. Winn discovered a cleverly concealed trapdoor in place in the bottom step of the stairs leading to the cellar. Opening the trapdoor, several pints of alleged liquor were found cached underneath and the arrest of the clerk, Joseph Harvey, followed.

In court, Harvey was arraigned on a charge of illegal keeping and fined $100.

A. F. OF L. AND LA FOLLETTE

Some of the radical labor organizations are in favor of endorsing the La Follette ticket and also of having the American Federation of Labor support his candidacy for the presidency. We do not believe that President Gompers would sanction any such proposition. He has always held that the proper policy for the A. F. of L. to pursue in politics, is to act independently, holding itself free to assist the friends of labor and punish the enemies thereof in all election contests.

It will be remembered by the older residents that the Knights of Labor, which was at one time fully as strong as the American Federation is today, was completely wrecked by the blunder of its leader and president, Terrence V. Powderly in casting its lot with the republican party in a great national contest. The organization was smashed to pieces and put out of existence, only to be succeeded by the American Federation of Labor. It is plain, therefore, that the best policy for any such labor organization is one of neutrality as between the great political parties.

President Gompers has always maintained a firm stand against socialism which is entirely to his credit. He is also opposed to every form of extreme radicalism and in the matter of political affiliation, he has always advocated a policy of independence so that labor organizations might be free at all times to vote for the candidates who showed most sympathy for the rights and interests of the laboring people. Thus far that policy has been successful, and we do not believe that President Gompers at this stage will countenance a departure that will attach the organization of which he is the head to the La Follette kite and thus identify it with a band of radicals who can never win public confidence as have the various labor organizations making up the A. F. of L. and that follow the wise counsel of President Gompers.

MR. DAVIS ON AMENDMENTS

Hon. John W. Davis, the democratic nominee for president, has put himself on record as in favor of four amendments to the constitution of the United States. In an able address as president of the American Bar association delivered at the convention of that organization last year, he declared in favor of an amendment which would call a newly elected congress into session on the first Monday in January following its election and which would inaugurate the president and the vice president on the third Monday of that month.

He also favored an amendment that would permit the president to veto separate items in an appropriation bill. Another amendment which he favored would permit the ratification of treaties by a majority instead of a two-third vote of the senate. He would also amend the constitution in reference to the process of making amendments so that ratification should be submitted directly to the people of the several states or to legislatures selected after the amendment had been proposed.

It will be seen that these amendments are very conservative and that each of them would result in a great improvement in the method of conducting the national government. Much might be said in favor of the four amendments which Mr. Davis specifically endorsed in his address.

There are petitions before congress favoring as many as 50 amendments to the constitution some being rather of a sectional nature and in the interest of a particular part of the country; but the amendments favored by Mr. Davis are of such a general character that they apply equally to the entire country, and would obviously bring about very material improvements in the methods of conducting our national government.

ELECTING A PRESIDENT

In view of the fact that Senator La Follette is to run as an independent candidate for president, it is regarded as possible that the election of president may be thrown into the house of representatives. This will result if none of the candidates secures a majority in the electoral college. Then the national house of representatives will have to elect, each state delegation having but one vote. At present the minimum required for such election would be 266 and in this event the smallest state in the Union could be as potent as the largest or most populous.

If called upon to elect a president, the house should elect one from the number of candidates not exceeding three who received the highest number of votes. A majority vote of all the states shall be required to elect.

But if no choice be made before the fourth day of March next following, then the vice president shall become president as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the president.

As to vice president, if none of the candidates receives a majority vote of the electoral college, then it will devolve upon the United States senate to select from the two candidates highest on the list, the vice president. In this case a majority of the total number of senators shall be necessary for a choice.

These possibilities are provided for in the constitution, although in spite of the unusual situation this year, it is probable that the democratic candidate will be elected so that no unusual complication such as that here suggested will arise.

LOWER TAXES

According to Capper's Weekly, the people of this country now enjoy the lowest rate of taxation since the war. That comes as a result of the tax reduction bill framed by the democrats in congress and forced through, despite the protests of the republican party, which stood for the Mellon bill. Even when President Coolidge signed the bill he expressed his disapproval something after the manner of the well known Scotch verdict.

THE NATIONAL DEBT

If we all chipped in $200 apiece we could pay off the entire national debt. Every one has not the $200, however. So the debt remains and the public, by taxes, pays interest on the debt the same as if the debt money were a bank loan.

National debt now is around 21,313 million dollars, after deducting cash in the treasury. The total has been reduced over 4000 million dollars since its peak in 1919. Salvaged war materials account for considerable of the cut. From now on, the debt probably will drop less slowly. The public will have less money for taxes.

DEAF PHONES

A talkless phone for deaf mutes is invented by William E. Shaw of Cambridge, Mass. It is worked by a typewriter at one end of the line making lamps light at the other end. There is an electric bulb for every letter of the alphabet.

When two people, who can neither speak nor hear, can communicate by "phone," it is time to ask if anything is impossible.

LIFE'S SNAPSHOTS

Many of our young people have acquired the "moving picture mind." All life to them is a series of snapshots, with no chance for a time exposure, hence they cannot think straight on any subject. They are a bundle of transient impressions and confused ideas.

President Faunce of Brown university says this. It is a new idea, vivid and correct. Modern life is a kaleidoscope of fleeting impressions. The old-timers had fewer things of interest and got closer to things basic. Ours is a generation of surface thinkers.

Rev. Charles T. Billings who returned to preach at All Souls church on Sunday was formerly very active in community affairs as pastor of the First Unitarian church. He was quite popular throughout the city while he served here as pastor, because of his outspoken advocacy of civic righteousness and uplift.

Thus far it does not seem that the choice of the democratic convention for president meets the approval of the republican party. There were so many weaker candidates, the G. O. P. is astounded that the demmies did not select one less able and popular than Davis.

It is a ministerial humorist who informs us that a wife has just as good a right to smoke as has her husband. Undoubtedly, it is true that women have a right to do a great many things that they do not care to do. So have the men. It is not always so much a question of right as of duty and propriety.

Nothing is as uncertain as the weather. Despite this, various insurance companies write policies against rain interfering with such things as ball games, street fairs and circuses. But they have lost so heavily of late on account of abnormal weather that they are likely to increase their rates.

The midnight descent of a gang of young men upon a girl scout camp near Amherst, Mass., can be compared only to the descent of a pack of wolves upon a sheep fold. It was fortunate that the matron in charge had revolvers at hand with which to defend her score of young girls.

A smoking car for women is attached to one of the fast Chicago-St. Louis trains on the Illinois Central. It will be there permanently. Traffic demanded it. It is one of the changes made necessary by the demand for all the rights, privileges and conventions of men.

We are to have a rent commission which will act chiefly as an arbitrator between landlord and tenant in case of dispute over rents. While it is supposed to be a non-salaried body, it will probably result in the creation of one or more new city jobs.

America won high honors in the Olympic track events; and little Finland proved a worthy competitor. The performance of J. Stenroos who won the Marathon, was marvelous for a man 40 years of age.

In common with his Lowell constituents, The Sun wishes Congressman Rogers a speedy recovery from the effects of the surgical operation made necessary by an attack of appendicitis.

Tammany has chosen as its new leader, Judge Olvany. Perhaps that means that we are to have no more unbossed democratic conventions.

Traffic cops who must stand their ground in all kinds of weather should be seasonably dressed.

SEEN AND HEARD

China isn't as much of a yellow peril to most of us as sunburn.

Every time taxes take a jump they land on the consumers' neck.

Evidently some of the buzzing presidential bees were considered humbugs.

We don't know who lost the war, but Europe seems to be hunting for it.

Some of the college graduates have the polish of a college education without the education.

A Thought

Nothing is more short-lived than pride.—Ben Jonson.

What's In a Name

It must be hard to live in a dry town that is named Champaign, Ill., and have to pass a store bearing the sign, "Beers & Beers" every day. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Doesn't Risk It

The house had been rapidly built and as rapidly occupied.

"Do you find the house substantial and satisfactory?" inquired the landlord when he called.

"Well," said the tenant, "I go outside to sneeze!"

On Their Way

"You can't get the best of those railway porters who bang your things about," said Jack.

"I labeled my trunks 'China' and thought they would handle them with unusual care."

"And did they?" inquired his friend.

"I don't know. They shipped them all the way to Shanghai, and I haven't seen them since."

How About "Trilbies?"

One of the latest additions to the language is "dogs" a slang term for feet. "Kicks" are shoes. The expressions have been in use for a number of years and are well established.

With this glossary, you will be able to understand the following sign which was recently placed by a shoe dealer over a display of ladies' footgear:

"Classy Kicks for Cunning Dogs."

On the Nose to Win

"That is the favorite," said the girl's escort as the nags came out upon the tracks. As the horses paraded past the stand the escort surveyed them keenly and then registered trepidation.

"Something has happened," he declared. "The favorite has something wrong with his off hind hoof."

"With his off hind hoof?" echoed the girl. "In that case I'm glad I put my money on his nose, as you advised me."

His Appreciation

The two men went into a country tavern to obtain some refreshment.

The drinks were about to be paid for by one when the other broke in.

"Look here," he exclaimed. "I've been staying at your house for three months. You've looked after me very well. You've taken me to theatres and you have always paid. Fair's fair. You mustn't pay for this drink."

"But—" began the other.

"No, no," said the second man, "we'll toss for it."

Beauty

(From the Yale Review)

If beauty is a thing of happy chance,
Good fortune without meaning, source or end,
A game to see how this and that will blend,
Without a law to mold the circumstance;
If beauty comes and passes like a dance,
Having no strength to build or power to mend,
Leaving each friend uncertain of his friend,
And thus being nothing in the world's advance,
Why does the sight of beauty move us so,
Even to silence when the twilight hour
Changes the world beyond imagining?
Why does the thought of beauty make us know
That we are kin to an immortal power,
That what we are contains a deathless thing?

—PRESTON CLARK.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Capt. Spencer G. Hawkins of the Metropolitan police force, "won the day," as it were by declaring that he approved of spooning on Revere beach and parking along boulevards and streets, providing "the couples do not make themselves too conspicuous." "There is no harm in spooning," continues the captain in an article published yesterday. Wonder if Supt. Gardner of the water works department approves of Capt. Hawkins' statement. It is but recently that property of the water works department was damaged by loving couples who parked their machines on the grounds of the department regardless of property damage.

I wonder how many persons who pass through the square daily recognize in the stately young traffic officer who guides them on their way one of baseball's budding lights ten years ago. Few, if any, and the writer did not recognize in him the erstwhile moundsman of "Jimmie" Gray's 1914 nine until a brother officer mentioned on the matter while talking of the national sport. The officer in question, Harry Maroney, donned the uniform of the Lowell club of the New England league back in 1911 and for several months did his bit on the mound for the team. Friends of Harry say he would have made a big leaguer if he had kept at it, but his enthusiasm died and he became one of "Lowell's finest."

With the vacation period at its height and pleasant weather as an incentive, Boy Scout activities, not only locally, but throughout the country, are daily increasing and marked enthusiasm is shown by members of this great organization of boys. Camping with attendant educational and recreational exercises is at the peak of success. Last year a total of 225,000 scouts were in camp during the summer, is included in the camping curricula compiled indicates a substantial increase. Winter camping was boomed last year and during the school vacation periods a large number of boys camped out in log cabins built by themselves. Hiking, winter and summer is included in the camping curriculum as is swimming in summer and skating in winter. Baseball and hockey games in season are also offered the boys. Fire fighting, one of the most instructive lines of life saving, is taught each member of the Boy Scout organization and the members are allowed to qualify in this art as in swimming. While encamped the boys are forwarded magazines, periodicals, fiction and non-fiction books and other forms of educational matter. An interesting department of the scout organization is that of seascouting. There is at least one seascout ship in every region, there being 88 regions. A troop or crew comprises the personnel of a seascout ship and over 200,000 miles have been covered by the seascouts. Seascouting last year was tested by rough seas and the crews sent out this year are qualified in every detail as first class seascouts. The port of 1924 offers a new program, new manual, new uniform, and a training base in each region. The scout pledge taken by every scout and which alone spells manhood and good citizenship is as follows: "On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to my God, and my country, and to obey the scout law. A scout is clean; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

REPUBLICANS BUSY ON CAMPAIGN PLANS

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Having deferred opening of the active national campaign until Aug. 14, republican leaders declared yesterday they planned to use the intervening month in building up a smoothly running party machine.

The framework of the party organization as turned over to John T. Adams, the retiring national chairman, and added to by William M. Butler, the new national chairman, is to be strengthened and rounded out under present plans; additional headquarters are to be opened; any existing factional differences will be eliminated so far as possible, and the whole situation brought to a point where the campaign can be energetically put under way immediately President Coolidge sounds the keynote at his notification ceremonies here Aug. 14.

The plans for the intervening month of work will be discussed by Mr. Coolidge with Chairman Butler before the end of the week. Mr. Butler was to arrive here today, but late yesterday word was received at the White House that because of delay in the opening of the New York headquarters he would not be able to come to Washington for probably two or three days. The New York offices when opened will be in general charge of Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman for that state.

Mr. Coolidge also will take up with Mr. Butler, the creation of an advisory committee. The advisory committee as conceived by Mr. Coolidge will be an informal body with its membership dependent largely on the problems that arise. It is not the purpose of the present republican campaign management to create a definite advisory committee as was done in 1920 when Chairman Hays settled the late A. T. Hert of Kentucky, Mr. Hilles, John W. Weeks of Massachusetts and Harry M. Daugherty of Ohio are his official advisers.

Mr. Coolidge soon will begin work on his acceptance address. He plans to devote considerable time to it—as much time as his executive duties will permit—and go prepare it in much the same manner as he did his message to congress last December. Preparatory to the notification ceremonies, invitations to the event were sent out yesterday from the offices of the national committee. They went to members of the committee, republican governors, republican members of congress and leading republicans in various parts of the country.

The notification of Charles G. Dawes, the vice presidential candidate, is expected to follow closely upon the Coolidge notification.

Republican leaders here announced yesterday they already had settled one factional dispute by bringing together for the first time in years the two wings of the party in Georgia, one headed by Henry Lincoln Johnson, negro republican national committeeman, and the other until recently led by John L. Phillips, chairman of the state committee.

"IMITATION" LABELS ON ORANGEADE BOTTLES

BOSTON, July 16.— Secretary Hugh J. McMackin of the Eastern Soda Water Bottlers' Association sought to get Deputy Health Commissioner P. H. Mullowney to permit that organization's members to substitute the phrase "artificially colored and flavored" on labels of bottles containing orangeade made from an extract of orange rind, which bottles now are labeled with what McMackin called the "ugly" word, "imitation." Dr. Mullowney flatly refused the concession.

The Food Inspection Division's annual hearing on this branch of trade, held in city hall annex yesterday, was well attended.

Dr. Mullowney reminded McMackin that the federal authorities still insist upon the use of the word "imitation" in such cases, and asserted that he will not relax the rule until they do. He expressed the hope they never will permit the change.

Dr. Mullowney added that when mothers are directed by family physicians to put orange juice in baby's milk they should get fresh oranges and not buy "orangeades" which are made from rind extracts.

Dr. Mullowney complimented the bottlers on the general cleanliness of their plants, but sternly warned those of them who put too much artificial coloring matter into their products. The bottlers praised the department's fairness toward them.

The Light That Fails

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

When you're down in a cellar that's dark as can be, and you're searchingly groping about, you just about find what you're trying to see—then the pesky old candle goes out.

A man holds a match box, there's one match within it. 'Tis struck for a pipe light, no doubt. And then while he stops just to chat for a minute—the match flickers and goes out.

You sit by a lamp and you pick up a book. Then suddenly you are disgusted. So often, before you have taken a look, the lamp globe goes black, 'cause its busted.

Old Sol sends his rays through your front window pane and it hints of a beautiful day. Then, almost in nothing, the clear turns to rain as a cloud up and gets in the way.

The lights that you light in the darkness of night and the light that turns night time to day, are fine when they're lit, but they don't make a hit when they suddenly flicker away.

SONG

My dear mistress has a heart
Soft as those kind looks she gave me,
When with love's resistless art,
And her eyes, she did enslave me.
But her constancy's so weak,
She's so wild and apt to wander,
That my jealous heart would break
Should we live one day asunder.

Melting joys about her move,
Killing pleasures, wounding blisses:
She can dress her eyes in love,
And her lips can warm with kisses.
Angels listen when she speaks,
She's my delight, all mankind's wonder;
But my jealous heart would break,
Should we live one day asunder.

—John Wilmot (Earl of Rochester).

DISCUSS HOURS FOR COFFEE HOUSES

Two hearings before the license commision last evening drew such a large attendance of proponents and opponents that it was necessary to open the district court room to accommodate them. The first hearing was on the Sunday opening hours of the coffee houses, protest being entered against their early opening by Bishop Vasilios of the Greek Orthodox church. The second was on a petition to open a lunch cart at Lawrence and Rogers street.

The coffee house proprietors opposed the bishop's petition at the hearing. The latter contended the coffee houses should not be opened Sunday until noon, instead of early in the morning as at present. As there were over 15 proprietors present and many arguments were started between the two factions, the commission ordered the proprietors to name a committee to appear at the next meeting of the board and present their cases.

The lunch cart petition met with opposition from a dozen property owners in the vicinity of Lawrence and Rogers streets and after a long hearing on Angelo Charetto's petition for this lunch cart location, the matter was taken under consideration and after the petitioner was given leave to withdraw.

The following licenses were surrendered: Sunday license, Helen Rusky of 3 Whipple street; coffee house, Constantine Vlohos of 570 Market street; ice cream license, Krekos Boyadjian of 57 Powell street, Jeffrey Cossette of 25 Common street and Kathrina Moses of 6 Liberty street.

The following renewals were granted: Coffee house, Constantine Vlohos of 412 Suffolk street; old gold, silver and platinum, Joseph Simon of 175 Central street; lodging house, Mary Killoy of 30 Elliot street.

The following applications were acted on favorably: ice cream, Edward M. Boyadjian of 57 Powell street; Joseph Jacques of 144 Rosamond avenue, Lena Picard of 849 Lakeview avenue, Armond J. Boulanger of 287 West Sixth street, Arthur J. Kiralos & Co. of 6 Liberty street, Wastin Saley of 31 Whipple street and Eva Desrosiers of 25 Common avenue.

WALL STREET PLUNGER SAYS WIRES TAPPED

NEW YORK, July 16.—Charges that private wires leading from his office in upper Fifth avenue to the offices of several brokers have been tapped lately, were made by Jesse L. Livermore, famous plunger of Wall street, in a statement appearing today in the New York World in which he denied rumors that he had suffered heavy losses recently in his speculations.

As a result of the alleged wire tapping, much information of a valuable and confidential nature has been obtained by persons for whom it was not intended, Livermore asserted. He said the rumors that he had suffered heavy losses were "laughable."

"The report that I have suffered losses, particularly in American Can Co. stock," he said, "is obviously due to certain interests that are trying to manipulate that stock. I have not lost a dollar in American Can to say nothing of several millions."

CHINA AND RUSSIA TO EXCHANGE OFFICIALS

PEKING, July 16. (By the Associated Press.)—China has accepted the proposal of the Moscow government that China and soviet Russia exchange ambassadors, the foreign office announced today. A note accepting the Moscow proposal was delivered to the soviet mission here July 14.

The foreign office is advised that L. M. Karakhan, who has been the soviet envoy to the far east in general will be the first Russian ambassador under the new arrangement. As such he will outrun the diplomatic representative of the other powers here, who are only ministers. Karakhan carried through the negotiations leading to China's recognition of the soviets.

China's choice of an ambassador to the Russian government has not yet been announced.

TO DIVIDE MANAGEMENT OF DAVIS CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, July 16.—Although John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, has not committed himself publicly on the question of dividing the management of his contest for the presidency it was said today by persons high in democratic councils that the candidate is favorably inclined toward such a division of responsibility. At the end of his all-day conference with party leaders yesterday, Mr. Davis said that no decision had been reached on the matter.

The plan contemplates the sharing of the campaign directorship by the chairman of the national committee and the campaign manager. Should such an innovation be adopted it is reported that Clem Shaver, national committeeman of West Virginia, may be chosen for chairman of the national committee—this despite rumors to the contrary. One of the most seriously considered possibilities for campaign manager is said to be Thomas J. Spellacy of Connecticut, formerly an ardent McAdoo follower.

It is said that the campaign manager is almost certain to be an eastern man. As a result, there is much speculation regarding Vance McCormick of Pennsylvania and also some discussion of Daniel C. Roper, of New York, both of whom were actively identified with the Wilson campaign.

The nominee has made arrangements to leave Friday night for Islesboro, Me., the home of Charles Dana Gibson, but it is said that if a committee chief is not chosen by that time, the visit may be cancelled.

DEVICE TO ELIMINATE "LISTENING IN"

NEW YORK, July 16.—The invention of a device to eliminate "listening in" or interference in radio transmission, has been announced by John Hays Hammond, Jr., vice president of the Radio Corporation of America, who returned from Italy yesterday.

Complete isolation of sender and receiver is afforded by the invention, Mr. Hammond said, by a method of sending out rays which have curves and dents in them, similar to the rise and fall of the pulse on a nurse's chart. Only the receiver familiar with the wave type can read the message, Hammond asserted. He spent two months in Italy arranging for the use of the invention.

The new method of transmission will also make it possible to flash complete pages of print across the Atlantic ocean by radio, he predicted.

"During my stay in Rome," he said, "I had the honor of demonstrating my system to the representative of the Vatican, Commandant Manuel, who recommended its use to the Vatican observatory, where I am going to conduct some experiments in connection with radio for astronomical observance. In audience with the pope I was interested to learn of his enthusiasm over radio matters and he discussed with me the application of my work to the needs of his observatories."

GIRL SCOUTS GUESTS OF ENGLISH GUIDES

LONDON, July 16.—The American Girl Scouts and Girl Scout leaders, representing 160,000 fellow girl scouts at home, left here today for the world camp of girl guides at Foxlease, Hampshire, where 35 nationalities will be represented in a camp lasting a week.

The girl scouts are the guests of the English guides. The American contingent included Misses Emily Holbrook and Edith Morrell, chaperons of Massachusetts.

Nearly a million campers entered the national parks last year.

Voters of Saskatchewan Register Choice — Two Questions on Ballot

REGINA, Sask., July 16.—Voters of Saskatchewan in an election today were registering their choice as to whether they desire to remain "bone dry" or to permit liquor to be sold for beverage purposes, under government control.

Two questions appeared on the referendum ballot, one of them subdivided. Every voter must answer which of the following do you favor: "Yes" or "No" to the first question, which is: "Are you in favor of prohibition in Saskatchewan?" Those who vote in the negative on this question will be expected to answer the following:

"If a liquor system under government control could be established, which of the following do you favor: (a) Sale by government vendors in sealed packages of all spirituous and malt liquors; or (b) Sale by government vendors in sealed packages of all spirituous and malt liquors, and also sale of beer on licensed premises."

The province has been dry since December, 1915, which was the first time women exercised the franchise. The vote put the then existing system of sale under government control out of business by a large majority.

IMPROVEMENT IN N. E. APPLE CROP

WAKEFIELD, July 16.—Conditions up to July 1, were much more favorable than the average for the apple crop, the New England Crop Reporting Service announced today and 13 per cent better than last year. The percentage of normal condition on July 1 by states was:

Maine 88, New Hampshire 88, Vermont 87, Massachusetts 82, Rhode Island 84, Connecticut 82; all New England 85.2.

Earlier varieties were reported better than later ones, with Baldwin and McIntosh mostly a moderate crop. The report pointed out that the crop "is yet subject to several unmeasured influences which may alter the present outlook very much."

Peaches were reported a good crop in Connecticut and Rhode Island but light in Mississippi and virtually none in New Hampshire.

Wreck on "Old Colony"

a wrecking crew all by himself. Not forgetting, of course, his right-hand assistant at the same game—Fireman Edward M. Gourley.

The fact that nearly every time an accident happens to a Lowell-Framingham shuttle train, no wrecking outfits have to be summoned before service can be resumed, was demonstrated anew on a level stretch of the "Old Colony" line this morning, at a point between North Acton and Carlisle stations.

Only a few passengers were on the morning local that left Concord Junction at 8.16, bound for and due in Lowell at 8.55 a. m. The "grasshopper," No. 447, is one of the older "locos" of the New Haven equipment, but not so old. Whittier has a pet pride in the big fellow and it is always in condition A 1.

This morning, before the usual run with the baggage car and combination passenger and smoking car, Whittier made his usual "once over." Everything looked O. K., and nary a thing looked suspicious about the mechanism of No. 447 or the coal tender, which also gets the "all right" verdict before the scooter rolls north for Lowell and way stations.

Nothing happened until after the jitney train left North Acton station. About a mile and one-half beyond and less than a mile from Carlisle station, the dozen or more passengers felt a sudden shock that appeared to have been made by the car wheels rumbling over something on the track or hitting something between the rails. The train was moving at fair speed between stations, but Whittier on the throttle up ahead, jammed on the air and brought the scooter to a quick halt. Before the train came to a stop, the continual pounding on the wooden sleepers could be heard by the puzzled commuters distinctly.

The trainmen's investigation resulted in the discovery that two brake beams on the locomotive tender had dropped from their positions onto the road bed. The movement of the train, scraping the beams and steel frames and attachments along the wooden sleepers, jammed and twisted the irons in amazing fashion. Long iron braces, more than an inch in thickness, were twisted like molasses candy. Thick iron braces and "blocks" were ripped and torn. If it were made of tin.

The sleepers for several hundred yards were gouged by the broken brake beam irons, the wooden slabs in some instances looking as if axe-hewn.

The real mystery of this story lies in the fact that two brake beams dropped out of position on a single piece of railroad transportation equipment. Single beams have become disconnected in the same way in the past, it being an accident not out of the ordinary, but the dropping of two at the same time surprised the railroad huskies this morning, who cannot understand it at all.

The best part of this story is yet to come. Accidents of this kind generally delay train service for hours, and sometimes wrecking crews from the railroad repair shops have to be summoned. This morning, Engineer Whittier and Fireman Gourley, aided by Conductor Frank S. Boyle, who missed a good breakfast waiting for him at the old mansion home at 110 Congress street, grabbed wrenches and bars and chains from the train and locomotive emergency tool boxes, and in just 40 minutes from the time the broken brake beams were discovered, the debris had been removed after the hardest kind of manual labor.

The Framingham scooter rolled proudly into Middlesex street station with everybody praising those fellers in the blue overalls and cap up front, who did a dandy job that everybody wondering why that train was late this morning, ought to know about.

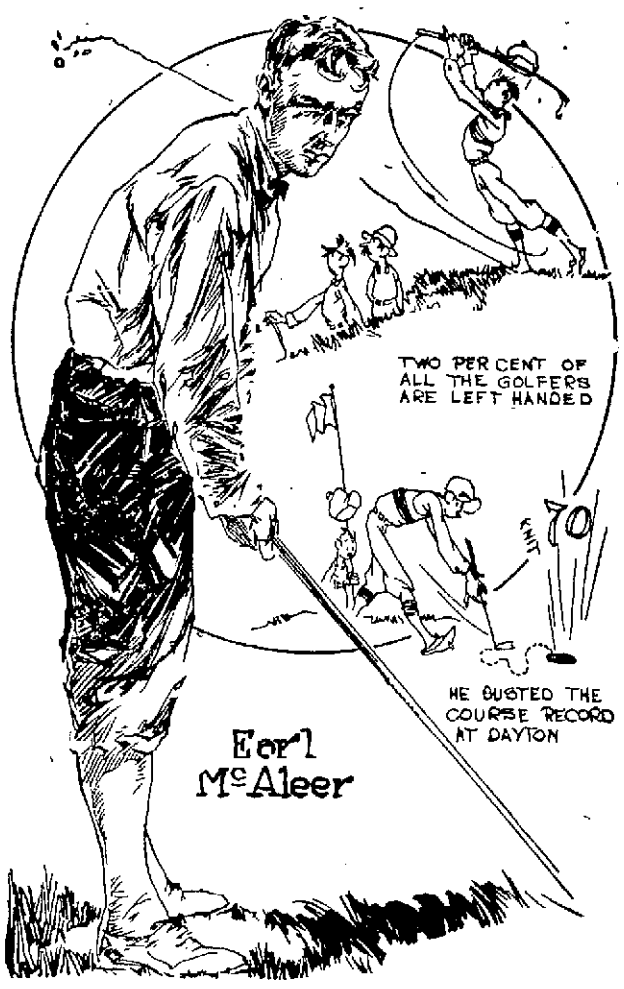
Expert Predicts Al Mello of Lowell Will Win World's Welterweight Championship

No Left Hander Has Ever Won Golf Title in America



BY JOE WILLIAMS

Left-handed golf champions are scarcer than swamp frogs with pink beards. No left-hander has ever held a national title in this country. Earl McAleer, a youngster in Washington, may prove to be the first.

McAleer outstroked all competitors in the medal round in the recent public links tournament at Dayton, carrying off top honors with a card of 150. On the top of that he cracked the course record with a 70.

A rather widely accepted belief seems to exist that a left-handed golfer is physically handicapped, and for that reason can never hope to compete on even terms with grade A right handers.

Doctors who golf tell you that the heart being on the left side—where self-respecting hearts are supposed to be—induces a flat swing, with the result that the backward movement of the drive lacks the freedom and ease the right-handed player enjoys.

There may be, as the village half-wit said, peering down the mouth of the musket, something in that too.

Here's the Real Answer

A more convincing explanation of the scarcity of left-handed stars may be found in the limited number of left handers who play the game as compared to the number of right-handers.

Statisticians in the employ of manufacturers of golf supplies report that less than 2 per cent of the total golfing population of the world is left-handed.

Do you wonder then that right-handers predominate?

Nevertheless there have been and still are quite a few outstanding left-handers in the game. We recall that Fritz Martin, a left-hander, twice won the amateur championship of Canada. Moreover, he was good enough, in his day, to beat Bob Gardner in an international match at Hamilton.

Chick Evans has reason to remember a left-handed player from South Australia, one Bruce Pearse. The American was well on his way to a possible championship in the British amateur in 1911 when he ran afoul of Pearse in the fifth round and was bowled over flat.

Southpaw Beats Evans

Cecil Leitch's sister May is a left-hander and no chivalrous gent will deny her skill. The English girl has gone to the semi-finals in the French championship and on two occasions at least has led open tournaments in stroke play.

The main handicap of the left hander is that he is tremendously outnumbered.

Spike Webb, Director and Trainer of U. S. Olympic Team, Pays Tribute to Lowell Boy

SUN MAN AT RINGSIDE

Says Mello Confident on Eve of Great Battle in Colombes Stadium

Al Mello, Lowell's sensational amateur boxer, now in Paris as a member of the United States Olympic team, an honor he won by capturing the national title in the 147 pound class, is fit, confident and happy, as the time arrives for him to step into the ring in the great stadium at Colombes, near Paris, to do his bit to uphold the prestige of America in the great international games, according to word received today in letters from Raymond E. Dowd of The Sun, now at the ringside "over there."

Mello's stock took a great boost, says Mr. Dowd, when he came down from his hut and set his eyes on John Souza, his life long friend, trainer and manager; the man more responsible than any one else for his development into a national champion and a contender for the world title.

The meeting between Mello and Souza was one that will long be remembered by Mr. Dowd. They took each other into their arms and remained embraced for several minutes. Mello was also glad to see The Sun man, though modesty prevented Mr. Dowd from making much comment on his reception.

Spike Webb of Baltimore, Md., former professional boxer and at present physical instructor at Annapolis, has complete charge of the American boxing team. He is well qualified for the task and is regarded as one of the leading trainers of boxers in the world. He took an active part in the training of the doughboys during the war and his success at that time brought him due recognition from the government and his present appointment at Annapolis.

Picks Mello to Win Title

Naturally all look upon "Spike" as an authority and expert on the boxing game. His opinion on Mello was sought by Mr. Dowd and this is the reply he gave to the Lowell man's query: "Mello looks to me like the best amateur welterweight I have ever handled and if he doesn't win the world's title, I shall be very much surprised."

Webb's high regard for the Lowell boy is further attested by his decision to permit John Souza to appear in Mello's corner during the bouts. Ordinarily the Olympic officials handle the boxers, but realizing the close bond between Souza and Mello, and the advantage to be gained by having such a capable and interested man as Souza on hand, Spike made John an "official" for the bouts. The action brought words of praise from the Lowell trio—Mello, Souza and Dowd. Further courtesies were also extended by Mr. Webb as well as William C. Prout of Boston, head of the A.A.A., to whom Mr. Dowd presented a letter of introduction and recommendation from "Charlie" Landers of Lowell.

In all, three letters came to The Sun last night and this morning from Mr. Dowd. They contain interesting and picturesque impressions of the impending battles. They are presented in chronological order:

Paris, France

Editor of The Sun.
Dear Sir:

So this is Paris!

After an all night's ride from Cherbourg to Paris, from 10.30 o'clock to 6 in the morning, we finally arrived at the well-known spot, familiar to all globe-trotting folks the world over.

We sighted the suburbs of Paris shortly after dawn and as we drew closer we distinguished the famous Eiffel tower standing majestically out on the dim horizon, a pretty setting for an artist to paint.

As soon as we were ushered into the street by the way of the St. Lazaire station, we started to hunt some place to make our headquarters. After a brief search we were rewarded, securing a nice hotel. The next task was to locate the American Olympic team, mainly to find our fellow townsman, Al. Mello. After a vain search for information we secured a taxi driver who knew where the boys were located. The place where the main body of athletes is stationed is near, a town called Rocquencourt, (Seine and Oisne.) It is about six miles out of Paris and about one mile and a half past the stadium at Colombes.

We halted outside the massive iron gates, over which waves a huge American flag, between the tri-color of France and the Olympic flag. Going inside we discovered ourselves on a huge estate. About one hundred yards beyond the gate lies the Chateau de Rocquencourt, a beautiful mansion of white stone. This estate was formally owned by the Prince Rocquencourt.

Going up a long winding road until we reached the summit of the hill, there on a level stretch beyond was the object of our quest, the bearer of our hopes in the Olympics. He was just coming down the lane that led from his hut to the wash room. He sighted his lifelong friend John Souza and he came tearing down on us. What a reception they both had!

Al looks the picture of health. He is bigger and stronger than ever and seems to be enjoying himself immensely.

Of course Al had all the usual questions to shoot at the newcomers. He confessed being a trifle homesick at first, but he has changed now for the better, and with Souza cheering him up he looks forward with confidence to the big bouts.

Title Bout July 20th

Al fights on the 15th of the month and if he goes through the preliminary contests will be fighting for the title about the 20th of July.

Following is a list of the training life Al goes through. He rises at 7.30, has breakfast at 8 o'clock. At 9 o'clock he goes on the road for at least two or three miles. He goes to work on the chest weights, using them for 15 minutes, then he punches the bag for about 15 minutes; following this he has a nice shower bath and that finishes the morning workout.

He has dinner at 12 and after dinner rests up until 4 o'clock. Starting with boxing. He boxes with many different sparring partners, generally two or three rounds a day, then comes shadow boxing which lasts until he figures he has had sufficient, sometimes 10 minutes, sometimes 15 or 20 minutes. Another shower bath and then wait for supper which is at seven.

All athletes must be in bed before 10.30 o'clock and all lights are extinguished at 10.45. Very few of the athletes can get permission to go to Paris and it will be that way until after the event in which they are entered takes place.

The sleeping quarters are in portable buildings of heavy cardboard construction and are 11 in number. Each hut consists of 10 rooms, 5 on each side, each room has plenty of space and two men occupy a room.

Mello's roommate is Harry Wallach of New York, a brother of the famous Leach Cross. Wallach is a 126 pounder and was runner up in the 126-pound national championship this year. Also in Al's hut are the following boxers: John Rini, last year's 147 pound national champion, Hugh Haggerty of Pittsburg, another 147 pounder, Fred Boylstein, 135 pound national champion, Harry Marcus, 112 pounder, Jackie Fields, 126 pounds, Ben Funk, Yale student who won the title this year at Boston in the 160 pound class. Al Allergini another 160 pound boxer, George Mulholland, light heavyweight and Eddie Greathouse, a heavyweight.

The boys are a merry bunch and make lots of noise around camp. It is a good sign as it shows the spirit of our athletes, upon whom the United States is depending to uphold her prestige in the international games.

The dining room is a large roomy wooden building with a dozen tables, seating about 20 men to a table. The cooks and waiters are French. The team drinks water, carried over from the states, as the committee felt the change of water might be dangerous and hence an ample supply of good old water, the popular drink? in the U. S. now, is on hand for the mitt wielders.

Webb Directs Boxers

The folks back in Lowell, of course, are naturally interested in the officials in charge of the American boxing team. Spike Webb of Baltimore, Maryland, has charge of the entire boxing team, representing the United States.

Webb's word is final and the boys respect him for it. If the men persisted in disobeying orders it would mean that they would forfeit their right to compete for the United States. Several of the team are liable to miss an opportunity to box because they thought they could beat the game and Spike discovered it.

When the boxers are working out, Webb is always stepping around correcting faults here and there, showing how it should be done and results will demonstrate the care and attention when they step into the ring at the cirque of Paris, the first events coming on the fifteenth of the month. Webb is eminently qualified to instruct as he has piloted eight international boxing teams, including one inter-allied team and two Olympic teams. His presence on the Olympic team assures the American public of best coach of boxers in the business.

Taught By Joe Gans

Spike Webb was a professional boxer of prominence some years ago, in fact he has been boxing since he was 14 years old. He is now 35 years old and looks and acts many years younger. Spike was taught the boxing game by the famous Joe Gans, in his home town of Baltimore, Md.

During his professional career Webb boxed a no-decision battle with ex-featherweight champion, Johnny Kilbane, at Baltimore. He has defeated Eugene Crique, who won the title from Kilbane; he also has beaten Grassi, who was featherweight champion of Europe.

Spike in the past few years has not done any professional fighting; he met Kilbane in 1916, Crique and Grassi in 1919, during the war in France.

He had charge of all the American boxers of the United States A.E.F. in France during the World war, coming from Camp McClelland, where he was physical instructor. Webb came overseas with the 29th Division and saw service for nearly two years.

Congress offered him a position when the war finished as physical instructor at either West Point or Annapolis. He chose the latter, and has been there since. His classes number over 200 all year round. Boxing is compulsory at the academy. Webb has five assistant coaches.

Al Lacy of Boston is Webb's Olympic assistant, and Lacy knows his business also. Lacy is a familiar name to boxing and boxers in Boston, where he has handled many pugilists in long and successful careers. Al is also very popular with the boys, for they know he is with them all the way, and he sure is.

JOHN SOUZA

SOUZA IN HIS CORNER

Manager of Mello Made an "Official" in Order to Handle Mello

Webb Praises Mello

When asked about Al Mello, Mr. Webb had the following to say: "When Mello first came to me, he had several faults regarding his boxing form, one was his guard against right hand punching. Now he blocks that form of attack perfectly. Al looks to me the best amateur welterweight I have ever handled and if he doesn't win the world's title I shall be very much surprised."

Mello has a pair of punching bag gloves autographed by all the leading athletes. He prizes them highly as a priceless souvenir of the great event. Joie Ray, Charley Paddock and Jackson Scholz are some of the signatures.

Jackie Fields of Los Angeles, Cal., will bear a lot of watching in the 126 pound class, he is fast, clever and a good puncher. This lad has the goods.

Eddie Eagan, former Yale man, winner of the light heavyweight class in the Olympic games in Antwerp in 1920 is one of the busiest men in the camp. He is an ardent worker and has to be told to call a halt.

The lightweight class has three crackerjack entries. Fred Boylstein, Pittsburgh National champ; Ben Rothwell, New York, and Royal Coffman, Omaha. Each is capable of winning the big prize.

In the featherweight class, Jackie Williams of Hollywood club, New York, National champion; Jackie Fields, Joe Lazarus of Cornell University, and Harry Wallach are the banner-bearers. As only three men can be entered and Spike Webb will pick the likely trio just before the bouts.

The bantamweight class will have two California boys, Fidel Gabara and Ray Fee, also Pete Sarron of Alabama; this is surely a busy trio and all continue to show improvement.

The heavyweights shape up well with George Greathouse, Lester Mayle, Joe Madden and "Rags" Maderia.

Three entries in the 147 pound class, include the champion, Al Mello, John Rini of Cleveland, and Hugh Haggerty of Pittsburgh. These will take care of themselves in any company.

Entertained by "Bill" Prout

Tell my friend Charlie Landers that his letter put me in right with W. C. "Bill" Prout. The latter is one of the most prominent and important officials here and to meet him is to enjoy a most pleasant time. He entertained my "buddy" and constant companion, John Souza, and myself lavishly and saw to it that we didn't want for anything. My credentials from The Sun have given me access to virtually every place of interest, and also to the headquarters of the officials as well as the principals in the various events. In fact, since arriving at Paris, Souza and I have been practically living with the athletes. We have rooms at a hotel, but we eat with the athletes. And the menu is some different from that "enjoyed" on my last visit to this section. (Mr. Dowd served overseas for 22 months as a member of the Y.D. during the war.)

Everything is O.K. with the Lowell party and we all look forward with confidence and anticipation to the great goal, the winning by Mello of the world title. If condition, confidence, cleverness and happiness count for anything, Al will reach the objective, and will return to the good old Spindle City with the world welterweight championship dangling from his belt.

Regards to all.
RAYMOND E. DOWD.

MELLO WINS HIS FIRST BOUT

PARIS, July 16 (By the Associated Press)—In the Olympic welterweight boxing yesterday, Al Mello, Lowell, Mass., won from Doussot of France on points. Mello had the better of the first two rounds. The third round was about even. The crowd booed the decision giving the event to Mello.

ALL AMERICANS WIN PRELIMS.

PARIS, July 16.—(By the Associated Press) All seven Americans in the Olympic boxing trials at the Velodrome d'Hiver came through victoriously yesterday afternoon and evening. The victory of Ben Funk, the Yale champion, over the lanky Australian Jones, who surpassed him in height and reach, was a feature of the evening session. He boxed masterfully, saving his strength for the pinches.

Old Loyal W Tries Comeback on Turf

LOYAL W

(By N.E.A. Service))

CLEVELAND, July 16.—Entered in some of the notable events of the current harness race season is one of the old-timers of the game, Loyal W, with a mark of 2.04¾.

To a large number of present day racegoers, whose memories are none too retentive, this probably does not mean much, but to the hardened fan, who follows the game, it conjures up memories of bygone days.

Loyal W at one time was a Grand Circuit king, pacing with the very elite on the Big Time. No field was too speedy, no route too far. Frank Hedrick, we believe, campaigned the old warrior.

Then suddenly one day his speed went back on him. As they would say on a running horse track, "He couldn't raise a respectable gallop." Then he disappeared from the turf. Occasionally some fan would inquire what had become of old Loyal W, but none seemed to know.

His name appearing in the season's big entry lists was like a voice from the grave and horsemen everywhere began asking each other, "Can Hedrick's old hoss came back after all these years? Can he compete with his younger and sturdier rivals?"

On occasion of his last appearance on the big tracks he sold for $800, a smash in the auction betting, so strong a favorite was he.

Billy Evans Says

One year often makes a lot of difference in the career of a ball player.

Often some seemingly minor happening plays a prominent part in shaping the destiny of a player's future.

The case of Pitcher Rollie Naylor, late of the Philadelphia Athletics, is a striking example of such a truth.

A year ago at this time Naylor was the one best pitching bet of the Athletics, not excepting the brilliant Eddie Rommel. Today he is back in the minors.

For years Connie Mack carried Naylor in the belief that he had the makings of a great pitcher. Year after year Naylor showed flashes of greatness, but lacked a certain something that kept him from reaching the realms of stardom.

Last season in the early spurt that carried the Athletics to the top of the race, Naylor did his part by winning seven straight games.

"Naylor has finally arrived," remarked Connie Mack to me after the pitcher had turned in one of his good games. "He's overdue but it was worth waiting for."

A few days later Naylor was the victim of an accident that probably was the cause of his passing from the majors. Incidentally it started the Athletics on the road to ruin.

With seven straight wins to his credit Naylor, anxious to keep fit, spent his offdays working in the outfield during batting practice.

With an overflow crowd in attendance, watching a double header with New York, Naylor suffered a serious knee injury during the preliminary work.

Chasing a fly ball, he saw he was about to come into contact with a low rope that had been stretched to keep the fans on the field in check. He tried to jump the rope, failed, took a bad fall and injured his knee.

It was necessary to carry him from the field. Later it was learned that he was badly injured and wouldn't play for weeks.

I was sitting on the Athletics' bench, next to Connie Mack, when the news was brought to him. His face became serious and he remarked to me.

"That is probably the beginning of the end for Naylor and my ball club. He's my one best pitching bet right now. The club is going to suffer. If he is as badly hurt as they think, it may ruin him as a pitcher."

Naylor came back after a long rest of perhaps eight weeks, but he was never quite the Naylor of old. During the remainder of the season he managed to win five and lose seven games.

One year has passed and Naylor, the pitching sensation of the early stages of the last year's race in the American League, has been shunted to the minors.

Too much enthusiasm resulted in an injury that ruined his career.

A lot of things can happen in one year in baseball.

TINY MITES CARRY OFF GOLF LAURELS

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Heft never has meant a whole lot in golf. This year it appears to mean less than ever. Cyril Walker won the open championship of America. Cyril is hardly bigger than a quick breath.

At the start of the championship he weighed 120 pounds. A few moments after he finished the second day's play the winner, he stepped on the scales in the bath room and registered 116 pounds. A bantamweight triumphant among a field of Goliaths!

Walker won because he had mastered the two essentials in golf, namely, perfect timing and a smooth body rhythm. Whether it is easier for a midget to master the details than a man of extraordinary size is hard to say.

Bob MacDonald of Chicago is probably the tallest professional in the game, and is big proportionately. It was MacDonald who set the craze for long distance hitting.

Even now he is one of the longest hitters in the game. And in every other respect he is a capable golfer. For two straight years he has been the Metropolitan open champion. The first year he won it he led Jim Barnes, runner up, by 10 strokes.

Ted Ray, the Briton, is even bigger than MacDonald, and Ray was good enough to win the American open in 1920. But size has had nothing to do with the success of MacDonald or Ray or any of the other big 'uns. It has not in any way been an asset.

The diminutive Walker drove right along with the siege gunners at Detroit. Even the fierce gales that blew down on him did not take the pep out of his swats. Walker was hitting the ball correctly and timing his shots perfectly—and that's all the golf masters ask of you.

Another golfer, no bigger than Walker, has just won an important championship, Jimmy Manion, St. Louis amateur, who finished first in the Trans-Mississippi. Is smaller than a bangnail, and twice as troublesome to opposing golfers.

And Jack Wenzler, new southern champion, can probably make the featherweight limit without doing more than five or ten minutes' road work.

Death by boiling was a favorite method of execution in the time of Henry VIII.

PINCH SWATTERS COME IN HANDY

By N.E.A. Service

DETROIT, July 15.—It is an unusual spectacle to see a champion batsman taken out for a pinch hitter, yet it has happened twice in the American League this year. Both times in this city.

Harry Heilman led the American League in 1921 and after losing the title to Sisler in 1922 regained the honors last season.

Sisler, in 1922, the year he led the American League, was voted the most valuable player in that organization.

American League pitchers will tell you they fear no two hitters in the league more than Heilmann or Sisler.

Despite this, Sisler removed himself to let a pinch hitter bat for him. Recently Manager Cobb removed Heilmann for a substitute batter.

It so happened that both Sisler and Heilmann were in the throes of a protracted slump at the time.

MACK SAYS MATTHEWS WILL BLOW

By N. E. A. Service

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Connie Mack is not at all excited or irritated over the showing that "Sparkplug" Matthews has made with the Washington club.

Mack had Matthews last season. In the early stages of the race he was a sensation. Later he slumped and was benched. At the close of the season he was sent to the minors.

Recently when the Mackmen met the Nationals, attention of Mack was called to the timely hitting of Matthews.

"That's fine," replied Connie, "but Matthews is not a consistently good hitter. He hits in spots.

"My pitchers will stop him. He can be slowed up if properly pitched to.

"This is not a case of sour grapes. I released Matthews because I believed he couldn't hit up to the standard that must be maintained by a major league outfielder.

"He has the winning spirit and would be a sensation if able to hit around the .300 mark."

Mack's pitchers then proceeded to make good the claims of their manager. In four games he got only one hit against his former teammates.

Against Boston pitchers, who followed the Mackmen, Matthews had no better success. After Mack gave out his opinion as to Matthews' hitting ability "Sparkplug" went eight consecutive games without getting a hit.

GOLDSTEIN MEETS LEDOUX TONIGHT

NEW YORK, July 16.—Abe Goldstein, world bantamweight champion will defend his crown against Charlie Ledoux, veteran French contender, in a 15-round bout at the New York Velodrome tonight. Although Goldstein will enter the ring a strong favorite, the Frenchman is expected to furnish stiff opposition. This is Ledoux's third trip to America in quest of the title.

TED MOORE DEFEATS MORRIE SCHLAIFER

KEEN COMPETITION IN THREE SPORTS AT OLYMPICS TODAY

Americans All Set to Carry a Determined Battle to Their Rivals in Tennis, Swimming and Boxing—Helen Wills Favored to Win

PARIS, July 16 (by the Associated Press).—Now that the fields are narrowing down in all branches of the Olympic championships, competition promises to be keener today with the Americans all set to carry a determined battle to their rivals in at least three sports—tennis, swimming and boxing. Miss Helen Wills, American woman tennis champion, demonstrated by eliminating Mrs. Satterthwaite of England in the singles yesterday that she will make a strong bid for the Olympic title. She is among three American women in the last 16 of the championship contestants, the others being Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup. The men survivors are R. Norris Williams, Watson M. Washburn and Vincent Richards.

Francis T. Hunter, who was put out of the running yesterday by Jean Washer, the Belgian star, remains in the doubles with Richards, along with Williams and Washburn, among the men, while Miss Wills and Mrs. George Wightman are the sole surviving women's pair.

Today, Johnny Weissmuller, holder of some 50-odd world's swimming records and whose renown in France as a champion natator, equals that of Charley Paddock as a sprinter, makes his debut at the Les Tourelles pool in the Olympic competition. Also starting in this event are Arne Borg, Frank Beaurepaire and Andrew Charlton.

The boxers from the United States who got off to a good start in the first eliminations yesterday will carry on in the ring battles today. A contest between America and Ireland loomed up this morning when Ben Rothwell, lightweight from the United States, meets Kelleher in the 12th bout on the program.

Today's rowing schedule consists in final eliminations in three events—the four-oared, with coxswains; the single sculls and the eight-oared shell.

TAKE A CANE POLE ALONG!

To many men—and some women—vacations simply meant fishing trips. Fishing is about the oldest kind of vacation. And it's still going strong. And even if the fish seem to snub your bait, you can always go back to the office and tell about the big 'un that got away.

No Nut Cracker

We never imagined we'd live to see the sultry afternoon when it would mean approximately nothing to finish ahead of Paddock in the 100-yard dash.

BRAVES PLAYERS FIGHT IN HOTEL

CINCINNATI, July 16.—The Braves did so much fighting in their hotel early yesterday morning that they had little pep left with which to attack the Reds in the last game of the series and so were shut out, 7 to 0, for the second consecutive time. Carl Mays pitched a careful and steady game, while Lucas lasted less than five rounds and Cooney was also hit freely.

The Braves played listlessly and without ginger, evidently owing to the slumbering embers of the internecine strife which had occupied their attention so short a time before. They tried to be very quiet and secretive about the details of the big battle among the members of the team, but several of the players carried marks of the fray on their persons which could not be disguised.

It was reported that the combat took place in the early morning hours at the end of a prolonged party in which Boston athletes had indulged in the absence of their manager, Dave Bancroft. Five or six of the players took part in the free for all, but only two were seriously damaged. Mickey O'Neil was wearing a bandage on a badly puffed and discolored chin, and Jess Barnes was nursing a sprained thumb which kept him out of action.

Suspensions to Follow

CINCINNATI, July 16.—A fight among members of the Boston National League club, alleged to have been the final result of an all-night party in the team's hotel here, probably will have an echo within the next few days. Dick Rudolph, acting manager, who is handling the team during the absence of Manager Bancroft, was reported as being ready to take action in suspending the principals in the fight. The Braves play at St. Louis today.

Do you know Baseball?

by Dilly Evans

If you want the final decision on any baseball dispute, write Billy Evans, N.E.A. Service, 1200 W. Third street, Cleveland, O.

Question

1. Is it permissible for the manager of a team sitting on the bench to signal either to the pitcher or catcher the kind of ball that should be pitched? My contention is that the playing of the game should be confined exclusively to the active players.—G. C.

2. Pitcher starts his delivery to pitch as stray ball is returned to the infield. Umpire noticing it rolling on the ground, calls time. Pitcher delivers ball, not hearing the umpire's ruling, and batsman hits ball into the left field stand for a home run. What is the proper ruling?—D. G. K.

3. Two players are of equal speed, one is a left-handed batter, the other a right-hander. Which can get to first base in the quickest time?—R. D. E.

Answers

1. Your contention is well put, but baseball precedent gives the manager the right to signal from the bench to pitcher or catcher. Manager McGraw of the New York Giants is credited with running his club along such lines.

2. It is an unfortunate situation, but if the umpire has called time because of the stray ball that has rolled on the field, he suspends play and renders void the home run made by batsman, who must hit over.

3. The left-hander, because his position at the plate shortens the distance to first base a few feet.

The Victorias challenge the Hudson A. A. or any team from 18 to 20 years old. The Victorias will cross bats with the strong Pawtucket Blues of the Junior Twilight league next Thursday. The Victorias lineup is Koscrolek lf, Huot rf, Dupont 1b, Monshy 3b, White c, Lemieux 2b, Hamel ss, Dellemar cf, Noel p, Ducharme p.

The Lawrence A. A. would like to hear from the C. Y. M. L. St. Peter's Cadets or any other team for a game on Saturday or Sunday. Answer through this paper, or call 1079-Y between 5 and 6 p. m.

The Crystals in last night's Sun issued a challenge to the Dixon Shoe Fix team, but failed to put in any address or phone number. Now if they will call 5740 the Dixons will accommodate them. The Dixons have several open dates on their schedule for next week and will play any team in the city, first come, first served.

The C.Y.M.L. will clash with the dangerous Lawrence A.A. team Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, on the North common. The battery for the C.M.A.C. will be Mullin and Sexton.

The C.Y.M.L. team will be selected from the following men, and all are requested to report for practice Wednesday evening, on the North common: Twomhey, Walters, Rogers, O'Connor, Davis, St. John, Paquin, Ashe, Stapleton and Lockwood. Puck Connors will be back on third after two weeks' absence.

After a short lay-off the Crystals have resumed playing and challenge the Lawrence A.A. or the Dixon Shu-Fix for a game on Sunday. On Friday the Crystals will take a trip to Pelham to play the town team. All players are requested to report for practice.

The C.Y.M.L. had an easy time defeating the Saginaws last Saturday on the North common. Score 10-4. Mullin's fielding and the battery work of Richards and Sexton were the features of the game.

Sunday, on the North common, the C.Y.M.L. will meet the Lawrence A.A. As both teams are playing winning ball, a great game is expected.

Jimmy Mullin will toe the slab while Joe Sexton will be on the receiving end, also "Peck" Connors will be back at his old position at third base after an absence of two weeks.

COAT HANGERS

Wind elastic bands about the ends of your clothes hangers and you will have no trouble with the clothes slipping from them.

Metals, it is said, suffer from fatigue. A razor, which has been in use for some time and becomes dull, can be more easily sharpened if rested for a week.

AMERICANS COME FROM BEHIND TO WIN

Entering the final inning four runs behind their opponents, Marie's Americans staged a thrilling rally and piled up five runs, defeating the Pawtucket A. A. nine by the score of 7 to 6, in the City league series on the South common last night.

The Pawtuckets scored two in the first and four in the second, while the Americans made two in the second. The third, fourth, fifth and sixth innings were scoreless and it appeared to be a victory for the Pawtucket aggregation. But the Americans were not to be defeated. Mulno, first up in the final stanza, grounded out. Ennis singled, Gleason singled, Crowe was hit by a pitched ball and took first. Three on, one out. Daly popped out. Two out. Barron walked and a run was forced in.

With the score 6 to 3 in favor of the Pawtuckets, Onanian chose one to his liking and drove it out between centre and right field for three bases, scoring three runs. Score 6-6. Sullivan singled, scoring Onanian and the game was won. The score::

HUGGINS SAYS YANKEES ARE ABOUT "SHOT"

By N. E. A. Service

NEW YORK, July 16—"The season of 1925 will mark the end of my career as a major league manager," says Miller Huggins of the New York Americans, three-time pennant winner.

"I intended to retire at the close of this year. Possibly would if my club was going as well as it was a year ago, but it isn't.

"The Yankee team is beginning to break. I don't like to get out while it is slipping. I would much prefer to hand over a strong club to my successor.

"In several departments of the game the club must be rebuilt, notably in the pitching.

"Good pitching has made the Yankees, been a big asset in winning three pennants, but pitchers cannot go on forever.

"The veteran members of the all-star pitching staff that has done big things for my club are beginning to slip. The fact that a couple of the vets are going back is very pronounced.

Pitchers Have Run Their Race

"Hoyt alone of the Yankees' staff, is a young man, and he is a veteran in the point of pitching experience.

"My club has not been very fortunate with the young material that has been picked up. Conditions have reached the point where the owner of the club must go out and buy up the best pitchers the minor league market affords. The pitching staff of the Yankees must be overhauled.

"Thought must also be given to the position of shortstop. Everett Scott, one of the greatest infielders of all time, is fast slowing up. His great endurance record has exacted a certain toll.

Everett Scott on His Last Legs

"Looking to the future, shortstop is one position that must be considered. A successor to Scott, who can step right in and fill the hill, is very necessary if the club is to continue a pennant contender.

"As a matter of fact, the Yankees as a team are aging and must be given an infusion of new blood to carry on. "It is going to be a tough battle to win this year. If my club goes over, the great strain isn't going to help the condition of the veterans, particularly the pitchers.

"The Yankees are liable to be staggering at the close of the present race. I don't want to quit a club when it's groggy and on the ropes, otherwise it would be curtains for me at the finish of 1924."

BRAINS DEFEAT BRAWN

Sun "Pencil Pushers" Win Over "Struggling Printers" in Ball Game

We met the enemy and they are ours, but the attending casualties exacted a tremendous toll.

Nimbleness of foot, quick thinking, an impenetrable defense and a terrific attack combined to send the banner of The Sun editorial room and business office to the peak of Alumni Field flag pole last night as glorious proof of victory over the baseball team representing the composing room and other allied branches of the paper.

According to chief tabular and statistician, "Doc" Collins and his corps of able assistants the score of the game approximated 26 to 17. There was absolutely no doubt in the minds of the spectators or the players for the "Comps" that the pencil-pushers were their masters and not a single expression of criticism was heard when the final tally was broadcasted. "Cap" Reilly didn't care much about Mike Mahoney's last decision on a called third strike, but there was not one of the Editors who did not feel it was a just, honest and right one.

Runs were as prolific as pre-election promises and were made just as easily. They came over the rubber in twos and threes and even fours and fives, especially in the third frame when "Buncher" Keyes tried a dawn to dusk flight and missed his landing field completely. But the copy-producers whittled away at this prodigious lead and had the galley-luggers dizzy ere the seventh inning rolled around.

Rodolph Lester, following Cheerful Charlie to the mound, broke the world's record for the shot put, but soon gave in to a muscle-bound condition that made further hurling attempts quite out of the question. "Boots" Flannagan followed him and by the judicious mixing of smiles and lobs, succeeded in holding the enemy at bay.

For the Camps, there were Pitchers Brown and Cogger, both of whom were harshly treated in addition to their own philanthropies. The old plate was swinging in front of them most of the time and when it wasn't, Editorial hats picked up the tune.

"Dempsey" Lawler, out of disguise, thundered around the first sack with rejuvenated youth and the outfielding of "Digger" Deignan and Henri Mucartier was beautiful to watch. They were everywhere the ball wasn't.

The hardest worked man on the lot was the kid who backed-up in back of the catchers. He had more assists than Everett Scott piled up all last season. The uniforms were lovely, many of them being the latest shades, mostly sand and grass-green.

After a week at Lake George, the first-string Sun team will be ready to out-last anything the sheet across the way is able to muster.

JACK SHARKEY WINS OVER HOMER SMITH

BOSTON, July 16.—Luis Firpo couldn't stop Homer Smith, the Kalamazoo, Mich., heavyweight, when they met last year, but Jack Sharkey, Boston's newest fistic sensation came within an ace of performing that stunt last night, which stunt crowned a perfect night of heavyweight milling, the show of the Suffolk A. C. at Braves field. Sharkey won the decision after the final bell had tolled, but if there had been another round to go, he'd have added one more knockout to his record.

12,000 Watch Bouts

It was the opening outdoor boxing show of the season, the first to be seen in a couple of years, in fact, and a crowd estimated as being 10,000 to 12,000 took advantage of the perfect weather setting and saw a show that was entirely satisfactory.

The program had four 10-rounders scheduled. Only two of them went the distance. Wolf Larsen, the "Swinging Swede," hit altogether too hard and often for Dan Lucas of Camp Devens, and that bout, the opener, ended in the third by consent of the Lucas handlers.

Jim Maloney of South Boston was pitted against the walloping Honolulu Kid, home district, Roxbury, in the next mill. It lasted one minute and 42 seconds, a bone-crushing right-hand Maloney swing landing flush on the point of the Kid's chin, sending him sprawling.

Too Persistent for Gates

Battling McCreary of Boston and Leo Gates of North Adams were the third pair. McCreary won the decision. He proved entirely too tireless for Gates. That lanky performer might appear to better advantage against a less persistent battler than McCreary, as he showed signs at times that he could battle in slick style.

Coming after such an active list as had preceded it, the feature mill, the battle between Sharkey and Smith threatened to be less interesting for a while.

Smith gets a long way on his reputation of having been against many star heavyweights who couldn't topple him over for the count. But after seeing him last night, it didn't take the fans long to understand why he has evaded kayoes as he has.

Smith is a safety first heavyweight. In the first place, he is a big broad shouldered raw boned gent who has seen many a summer go by. When he gets into action, he is just as awkward as he looks. Crawling into a shell and pulling his head in behind his shoulder kept him out of lots of trouble even if it didn't aid the bout.

Star at Clinching

Smith's specialty was holding. If he'd lead, his next move would be to grab with his left and hold for dear life. If Sharkey hit him, Homer would grab and hang on. So that only Sharkey's natural fighting instinct made the battle come up to scratch and kept it interesting to the crowd.

Only because Smith was such a star at holding did Sharkey fail to knock him out. In the 10th and final round, Smith was knocked down twice. Half way through the round a right-hander to the heart region floored him. Smith was very wobbly when he got to his feet but still knew enough to encircle his arms around Sharkey and resist the efforts of Referee Jack Sheehan to separate them.

When finally Sharkey did get away from him, he belted the westerner until again he toppled over, this time from a punch to the head.

CHELMSFORD A. A. TAKES NO. ENDS, 4-3

The Chelmsford A.A. barely nosed out by the score of 4 to 3, the North Ends last night in a testimonial game to "Stilly" Kneeland at Chelmsford.

The visitors tallied first when Bernier drove a hot one through Dryden and Gendron brought him in on a double. In the fourth L. McElroy got by on a pitcher's error and slipped home on Desmarais' two-bagger. In the fifth the North Enders tallied two runs when Gendron walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and got home on Dupont's single. Dupont went to second and then to third on a pair of wild ones from Kneeland. He came in on a single by Boisvert. In Chelmsford's half the score was tied when Belleville was hit and came home on a double by Pickard.

In the eighth Pickard walked, McElroy popped and Desmarais was hit. Paquette tossed a wild one to catch Pickard stealing third, and the latter scored the winning run.

ST. JOSEPH'S CADETS HAVE EASY WIN

The St. Joseph's Cadets completely swamped the much tooted Mysteries of Centralville on the North common last night in the regular Junior Twilight league game. The score was 16 to 3.

The soldier boys played a fine brand of ball, slugging the pill all over the lot.

The score was 16 to 0 in the end of the fifth, and Pitcher Richards then left the box and Desaulnier took his place. The Mysteries managed to gather three hits from him and changed them into runs. The score:

MANAGER OF JOHNNY DUNDEE SUSPENDED

NEW YORK, July 16.—Charles Johnston, manager of Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight champion, was suspended by the state athletic commission yesterday for his refusal to sign the contract submitted to him by Dennis McMahon, Louis (Kid) Kaplan's manager, for the proposed Kaplan-Dundee title match. The commission had previously approved the contract. Johnston's suspension will hold until he signs the contract.

Dundee was not suspended, but he will be unable to fight in this state until his manager is reinstated to sign a contract for him.

ALL FIRST DIVISION CLUBS IN AMERICAN LEAGUE WIN GAMES

New York, Washington, Detroit and Chicago Score Victories—Disagreement Between Umpires Has Important Bearing on New York-St. Louis Game

NEW YORK, July 16.—Second division clubs in the American league today are in the throes of an inferiority complex as they ponder the results of their latest clash with the four pacemakers, New York, Washington, Detroit and Chicago, while maintaining their own relative standing intact, widened the gap by a full game between themselves and their trailers by defeating St. Louis, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Boston, respectively.

Shocker, who attempted to redeem himself for his trouncing in the first game of the series, again faltered and lost a 5 to 4 decision to the Yankees. The Browns' defeat was embittered by an unfortunate break in the eighth inning, which put their opponents in a position to score the winning run. Umpires Evans and Owens disagreed as to whether Meusel's liner to left with Dugan on third, and Ruth on first, had been caught by Outfielder Bennett. Bennett threw to first, thinking to double up Ruth. Evans sustained the claim of a double play, but Owens, with two in the final decision rested, permitted Dugan to score and ordered Ruth to second and Meusel to first. Ruth subsequently registered the deciding run. Jacobson hit his 13th homer of the season.

Behind the kind of pitching that has made Walter Johnson one of the greatest boxmen of all time, Washington scored a comparatively easy victory over Cleveland, 4 to 2.

Detroit won a lurid slugging match from Philadelphia, in which seven pitchers were used, by an 11 to 9 score. Manush was the leading sticker with four hits out of six efforts.

Chicago made it three in a row from Boston with an 8 to 6 triumph. Both Leverette and Fuhr were hit hard.

The Giants increased their lead over the cruising Cubs to nine games and a half cleaned up the four game series with a 9 to 4 win. Kelly hit his sixth homer in five contests and his 23th of the season. Hartnett hung up his 10th circuit wallop.

Rogers Hornsby's tenth and eleventh home runs of the year relieved the monotony of St. Louis defeats as the Cardinals dropped another to Brooklyn, 7 to 4. Jim Roberts, Manager Robinson's new right hander, pitched his first game for the Dodgers.

With Earl Smith, recently purchased by Pittsburgh from Boston, behind the plate, the Pirates won a 3 to 1 decision over the Phillies.

Cincinnati whitewashed Boston for the second time in succession, this time by a score of 7 to 0. The Reds pounded both Lucas and Cooney freely.

WESTERLY POLICE HALT RUM-RUNNING PARTY

WESTERLY, R. I., July 16.—Westerly police and one Pawcatuck, Conn., officer interrupted a rum landing party after 4 o'clock this morning on the Westerly side of the Pawcatuck river at Thompson's Cove, near the Watch Hill road, capturing three New Haven men, a truck, two touring cars, and 200 cases of rye whisky, champagne and brandy.

Half a dozen other men, the police say, escaped overland in the darkness after an exchange of shots between the officers and fugitives, while the remainder of the landing crew made off in a fast motor boat, which had landed the liquor on an old dock near the river.

Police believe it was the intention of the men to take the liquor to Providence.

Held for Superior Court On Charge of Manslaughter

slaughter, drunkenness and operating a motor vehicle while drunk. After reading the inquest report, Judge Fisher ordered defendant held in $2000 bonds on the manslaughter charge for the September term of the superior court, and continued the other two complaints to September 17.

The accident resulting in the death of Richard Maynard occurred at the junction of First street and the Lawrence boulevard, almost opposite Read street, at 9 o'clock on the evening of June 17. An automobile driven by MacKenzie collided with one driven by Joseph Maynard, father of the victim. The Maynard child, aged three years, was in his mother's arms in the automobile and was thrown by the impact and received injuries which resulted in his death a short while afterwards. MacKenzie was arrested on the above charges and arraigned in district court the day following, the case being continued to today awaiting the inquest report.

U. S. World Fliers Land at Croydon, Eng.

Continued

American expeditionary forces were able to supply the British aviator in India last month.

Immediately following the flagship Chicago, in which Lieut. Leslie P. Arnold accompanied Lieut. Smith, were Lieut. Erle Nilson and Lieut. John Harding, Jr., in the New Orleans and Lieut. Leigh Wade and Sergeant A. M. Ogden in the Boston. As the three planes swept up the field, the crowd, which had gradually increased from a score or so to several hundred, burst into loud applause.

"We are all well and feeling fine," Lieut. Smith said on landing.

The aviators tanned by the sun, were lean and brown but in splendid health after their 18,000 mile flight two-thirds the way around the world.

"It is an experience I wouldn't start again for a million," Lieut. Arnold said.

There was an informal reception when the aviators landed. Frederick A. Sterling, counsellor of the American embassy and Major Howard C. Davidson, assistant military attache, represented the embassy; Air Commodore C. A. H. Lonniecroft represented the British air ministry and Air Commodore R. Webb-Borne, the Royal Air force. These officers and many others of military and civil prominence congratulated the airmen upon their successful flight and wished them luck in their long stag across the Atlantic.

Ambassador Kellogg was unable to be present because of the opening of the reparation conference, but Mr. Sterling presented a letter of welcome from the ambassador.

The machines will remain at the Croydon airdrome overnight and possibly until Friday when they hop off for Brough, where they will be overhauled and new engines installed preparatory to the jumps to Iceland and Greenland, then home.

Left France in High Spirits

LE BOURGET, France, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The American army round-the-world fliers hopped off from the airdrome here at 11.05 o'clock this morning for England.

A French commercial airliner accompanied the three United States airplanes to point out the way to the channel. They were followed by a French military escort of three planes which will take them to the coast. On the British side of the channel another air escort will meet them.

The world girdlers had fairly good weather for their farewell to France. There was a slight breeze and a hazy sky, but official reports were for satisfactory flying conditions.

The American airmen were the objects of all sorts of attention up to the minute of their departure, showing what a stronghold their enterprise had taken on the imaginations of French people. Scores of photographs and more scores of postcards were presented to them at the last minute for autographing, with many requests for them to do, errands impossible of execution. The fliers looked as weary on leaving from their recreation in Paris as they did from their flight on their arrival.

Lieuts. Smith, Wade and Nelson, together with their mechanicians, Lieuts. Arnold and John Harding, Jr., and Sergeant Ogden went away in high spirits, confident they would be able to make up considerable time on their schedule if their supplies reached them in Greenland promptly. Aside from this they have no worries, as they look upon the remainder of the flying route as easy compared with the spots in the Pacific that gave them trouble.

Colonel De Goyes, chief of staff to Laurent Eynac, under-secretary for aviation, and Major Carlyle H. Wash, assistant military attache representing the American embassy were on hand to see the airmen off, along with a crowd of admirers who spent all the forenoon watching the evolutions of the French military airplane while waiting for the Americans to take off. The camp was in a state of great activity about the time the world girdlers were ready to start with passenger machines taking off. One of these had just risen above the housetops when Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the expedition, cried: "All right, boys, we're off," and the Chicago taxied across the field followed by the Boston and the New Orleans.

Dull Day For Crossing

CROYDON, England, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The American army world fliers, moving across the English channel today from Paris for a final rest and overhauling of their planes before the long distance flight across the Atlantic, had a dull day for crossing. There was a hint of rain but the fog was absent.

A crowd gathered at the aerodrome here before the scheduled time for the arrival of the airmen. Many Americans were present, anxious to greet their countrymen to congratulate them on their record-breaking 13,000-mile trip. Officials of the British air ministry and attaches of the American embassy were also on hand.

Shortly before 11 a. m., a British airplane set out for the channel to escort the Americans to the landing here.

John W. Davis Severs All Legal and Business Connections

NEW YORK, July 16.—John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee has decided later today, to name his campaign manager and the new chairman of the democratic national committee.

This announcement was made by George White, former national chairman, who with Clem Shaver of West Virginia, spent the forenoon with Mr. Davis at the home of Frank L. Polk here.

Mr. Davis announced today that in order to give his entire undivided attention to the campaign, he had determined to sever all of his legal and business connections. His law partners, were notified accordingly of his withdrawal from the firm of Stetson, Jennings, Russell and Davis.

Among other employments surrendered by Mr. Davis, was that of general counsel for The Associated Press. He also resigned the only directorates held by him, namely in the United States Rubber Co., the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Co., and the National Bank of Commerce of New York.

Close friends of Mr. Davis maintained that as yet the candidate had offered the posts of campaign manager and national chairman to no one, although it was said his decision would be made shortly.

CASHIER WHO FLED WITH PAYROLL KILLED

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., July 16.—Clyde N. Fisher, cashier of the Gunn Quealy Coal Co., here, who disappeared yesterday at the same time the monthly payroll of the company vanished, was shot and fatally wounded today by J. Walker, mine foreman and at one time friendly to Fisher.

Fisher was making for a cache of food, water and blankets in the mountains two miles from a coal camp where he had previously worked when he was shot. He died a few hours later. The cache was discovered, with the $6000 payroll intact there.

MODIFY INJUNCTION AGAINST SAUNDERS

COLUMBUS, O., July 16—The United States circuit court of appeals today modified the injunction suit against Clarence Saunders, founder of the Piggly Wiggly chain stores corporation, and held that Saunders may make use of any improvements of patents or systems not included in the organization of the Piggly Wiggly corporation.

SAYS CALIFORNIA WITH G. O.P.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—A prediction that California would be as safely republican this year as it was in 1920, when Harding carried the state by 400,000, was made today by Raymond Benjamin of San Francisco, republican leader and former state chairman, after a conference today with the president.

"I cannot speak for Senator Johnson," he said, "but I can say that all of his leaders have enlisted in support of the republican ticket."

SAVED DROWNING LAD

William Duffy's Training in O. M. I. Cadets Served to Save a Life

The rescuer of little John Bonnelle from drowning in the Wamesit canal last evening, it became known today, was William Duffy of 23 Agawam street. Duffy not only rescued the lad from drowning in the canal, but also revived him by means of artificial respiration methods, after getting him out of the water. Duffy is a member of the O.M.I. Cadets and learned the system of artificial respiration as part of his work as a cadet.

REDUCE INTEREST RATE ON FARM LOANS

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The federal farm loan board today announced a reduction from 5½ to 5 per cent. in the rate of interest charged on direct loans to all co-operative marketing associations.

Board members declared the reduction should aid materially in the financing of this year's crop movement. The intermediate credit banks which made the loans to the co-operative marketing associations last year, loaned more than $58,000,000 and this was distributed among about 200,000 farmers.

The 5½ per cent. rates in effect since the banks were organized under the agricultural credit law passed early in 1923. Ability of the board to lower the rate, was declared by Commissioner Cooper to mean that the system was established permanently as an institution for financing the farmers. It would mean, he said, considerable savings to the takers of loans from the credit banks and at the same time, permit the banks to operate at a small profit.

4 AMERICAN DIVORCES IN PARIS COURTS

PARIS, July 16—Four American divorces were filed in Paris courts today. Mrs. Gladys Amory brought suit against Charles M. Amory, to whom she was married in Manchester, Mass., in 1917.

Royal Ransom Miller filed suit against Mrs. Pattie Chandler Day Miller, alleging refusal to recognize his authority. They were married in New York in 1916. Mrs. Geraldine Adee brought suit against Bradley Adee, to whom she was married in Tuxedo Park, N. Y., in 1920. Mrs. Dorothy Standley Matthews Harrington filed suit against James Harrington, to whom she was married in Cincinnati in 1915.

SHENANDOAH TO VISIT NEWPORT, R. I.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 16.—Word was received here this morning that the big navy dirigible Shenandoah will surely arrive here by Aug. 1 to operate with the heavier than air craft basing here with the scouting fleet. It will be the ship's first effort to operate with a fleet in scouting maneuvers and the personnel of the fleet are awaiting these operations with great interest.

The auxiliary Dakota with mooring mast which was to have been used in the proposed north pole trip has been here since Sunday and will take care of the airship in lieu of a hangar. It is not determined yet how long the maneuvers will last.

Vacation time means yachting time to scores of boat-lovers. And a ride in a craft like the one shown above is a real thrill—especially for inlanders. International yacht races in America and England have done much to further interest in the sport in recent years.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 16—Considerable irregularity developed at the opening of today's stock market. Oils continued under pressure in further reflection of the spread of gasoline price-cuts, Atlantic Refining dropping 2 points to a new 1924 low and most of the other active issues yielding fractionally on initial sales. Liggett & Myers and Interborough Rapid Transit each touched new 1924 peak prices.

Reactionary tendencies predominated during the early trading, although independent strength was shown by a few rails and public utilities. Virginia Railway and Power dropped 2¼ points; Phillips Jones, Stewart-Warner, and American Water Works common, 2 each; and International Paper, Stromberg Carburetor, General Electric and United States Cast Iron Pipe sold off a point or more. Additional new 1924 highs were recorded by Omaha, Delaware & Hudson, Illinois Central, Wheeling and Lake Erie common and preferred and Manhattan Moderate Guaranteed. Other strong spots included American Express, Pressed Steel Car, Union Tank Car and Goodyear Rubber preferred, up 1 to 2 points. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

Reactionary movements were checked temporarily by a fresh display of strength by railroad shares in which both high grade and non-dividend paying issues participated. Atchison, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Wabash preferred moved up, some of the buying being influenced by rumors of increased payments. Selling forced Atlantic Refining down more than four points, while Cuyamel Fruit dropped three points. Several rails fell a point or so from their early highs. Call money opened at 2 per cent.

Buying of the St. Pauls, shippings, Interborough Rapid Transit, and New Haven imparted a steadier tone in the afternoon, despite the pronounced weakness of certain stocks. Atlantic Refining broke to 78½, a drop of 5¾, and Woolworth lost 8¾. Sinclair got down to 15⅛.

HABITUAL MURDERER SENT TO ASYLUM

NEWARK, N. J., July 16.—John Clark, negro, called by the police a habitual murderer, after confessing to eight negro murders, was committed to the state hospital for insane at Trenton today. Clark was arrested, April 11, after he shot and killed Mrs. Ellen Nicholson, negro landlady.

After his murder confessions an investigation revealed that Clark had killed three negro men and one woman in Georgia and one negro woman in each of the cities of Richmond, Cleveland, and Chicago. He had been sentenced to an insane asylum for the Georgia murders but escaped.

Four physicians who made examinations of Clark told the court that they had found him insane.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, July 16.—Net operating income of 194 class one railroads and 16 switching and terminal companies dropped to $60,653,877 in May, compared with $90,320,875 in May, 1923. Net for the five months of 1924 totalled $325,454,850, against $358,574,467 in the corresponding period last year.

The financial district looks for a further reduction in the present 3½ per cent rediscount rate of the federal reserve bank of New York when the board meets today. Desirability of such a step has caused a division of opinion from bankers. Some hold the view that reduction in open market rates justify another federal reserve bank cut in rediscount rates.

S. S. Kresge Co. earned net income of $4,348,919 in the six months ended June 30, equivalent after preferred dividends to $17.45 a share on the common stock.

Satisfactory operations of the rediscount credit plan, whereby $25,000,000 recently was made available for the German gold discount bank, organized by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, is reflected in the report that an additional $2,000,000 in trade bills shortly will arrive here. Actual discounts so far have totalled about $1,000,000. Because of the success of the new system bankers are said to be considering its extension to other countries.

Jack Daw's Adventure. Chapter 21

By this time the captain decided that they had best get the life saving boats ready for use. He knew that, in a blizzard, you never can tell what's going to happen. In short, snappy words he issued his orders and shortly all of the crew came rushing out on deck, into the storm.

The captain grabbed hold of the ship railing and worked his way up to the front of the boat. He lifted great field glasses to his eyes and looked out over the sea. It was hard to get a glimpse of anything because of the wind and hail but now and then a light flared out strongly.

"We are just to the right of Arctic Lighthouse," shouted the ruler of the boat. Jack became excited and scrambled up to the captain's side. "Do they have lighthouses away out here?" he asked. "Oh, this isn't a regular lighthouse," replied the captain. Then he handed the glasses to Jack. (Continued.)

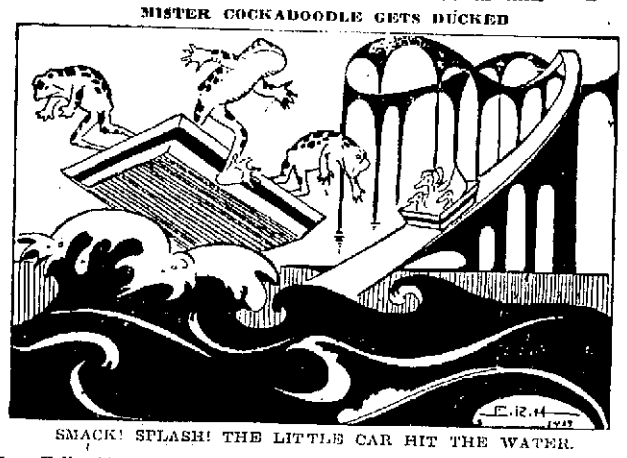
MISTER COCKADOODLE GETS DUCKED



SMACK! SPLASH! THE LITTLE CAR HIT THE WATER.

Mrs. Yellowhill and her six children all climbed into a little car on a little track in Happy Go Lucky Park, where they had come to spend the day.

They were going to "chute the chutes." A "chute the chutes" is something like a roller coaster, only at the last it dumps you into the water and you get splashed all over.

"I hope you'll have a good time," called Nick as Mister Zip started the little car off with a push.

"Sit still and don't lean out too far!" called Nancy.

"We will! We won't!" quacked all the little Yellowbills happily. "Good-by!"

Right ahead of them another little car was starting off on its track and in it sat Granddaddy Frog and his grandchildren.

He didn't know that Mrs. Yellowbill and her family were right behind him or perhaps he wouldn't gave grinned such a wide grin. He took off his glasses and put them into his waistcoat pocket and settled himself for a nice ride.

The two little cars went rattling over bumpy places in the track, and dipped dips and shot around curves and really it was enough to take your breath away. For this was a very good "chute the chutes" and gave you a long ride first before it splashed you into the water.

Mrs. Yellowhill's six children got so excited that they quacked and honked until they sounded like a traffic jam on Main street.

They made so much noise that Granddaddy Frog soon heard them. "My goodness, boys!" he shouted, turning pale. "Mrs. Yellowbill and her family are right behind us. When we strike the water, swim like sixty!"

Smack! Smack! The litle car hit the water and went bouncing along like a skipping stone, and out flew the frog finally into the lake.

The next second, splash! smack! The Yellowbill family got dumped out, too,

The first thing Mrs. Yellowbill did was to look around to see what direction Granddaddy had taken.

I don't know what would have happened if something else hadn't happened instead.

And her car came shooting down the steep place right into the water and who should it be but Mister Cockadoodle, who couldn't swim any more than your front door step.

"Help! Help!" shouted Mister Cockadoodle, flapping his wings. "Help! Save me, somebody!"

But just then he managed to grab hold of an old log floating around in the water and climbed up.

"Ho, ho, ho, ho, ho!" laughed Granddaddy Frog till he cried. "He certainly does look funny!"

"Doesn't he!" giggled Mrs. Duck. "I'd hate to be so dumb."

"So should I," agreed Granddaddy. "Come on, children, let's go again. That's lots of fun, isn't it? Mrs. Yellowbill, aren't you coming, too?"

"I should say so," said Mrs. Duck. "Come on, children."

VICTIMS OF SLAYER LAID AT REST

SOUTH BARRE, July 16.—Salvatore Poleo and Olando Centracchio, South Barre residents, who were victims of a rifle in the hands of John Rea, a fellow townsman Sunday night, were laid in graves side by side in St. Joseph's cemetery, Barre, yesterday afternoon, after the services at St. Thomas' church, conducted by Rev. John T. Casey.

Never has the town witnessed such a tribute to two of its townspeople as took place yesterday. The funeral procession from the homes of the victims to the church was more than a mile in length, 100 automobiles, as well as the marchers, being included.

Prayers were said at the homes of the victims at 3.30, the procession first forming at Poleo's home, headed by the South Barre band and Sons of Italy and St. Anne's societies, the many mourners following. As the procession reached the Centracchio home the line was augmented by many more mourners. The procession then continued to the church.

The traffic was handled by Sergt. William Hackett of the Holden station of the state constabulary and other state patrol officers. As the time for the funeral approached, the Italian residents left their work in the mills and business was suspended.

At St. Joseph's cemetery, Rev. M. W. Mulhane offered prayer and the Sons of Italy burial ritual was used.

The town is quiet after the tragedy of Sunday, but there is much real grief evident among the hosts of friends of the two victims.

BOY OF 11 ARRESTED FOR CRACKING SAFE

WORCESTER, July 16.—John Chapulis, aged 11 years, of 119 Washington street, the youngest prisoner ever arrested here on a charge of cracking a safe, was placed on probation for a year yesterday, when he was arraigned in central district court on a charge of breaking, entering and larceny. The boy's arrest resulted from an attempt made Sunday night to crack the safe of the Union Furniture company on Green street.

Police declared that the boy, single handed, broke his way into the store and battered off the combination and top of the safe with a hatchet and other amateur tools, but he failed to reach the section in which had been placed the money from Saturday's business.

COUP FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

Tabling of His Letter Blocks Nomination of John H. McNabb

A contemplated coup failed to materialize at last night's council meeting when the city fathers, surprised by a notification from Joseph M. Dinneen to the effect that he no longer desires to be considered a nominee to succeed City Treasurer Fred H. Rourke tabled the Dinneen communication. This action made inadmissible a new nomination of the mayor, that of John H. McNabb, laundryman, for the city treasurership.

Mr. Dinneen filed his letter with the city clerk just before the closing of the city hall offices yesterday afternoon. Before the evening session of the council he and Mr. McNabb were together at the hall, Mr. Dinneen making known to individual members his desire to drop out of the race in favor of Mr. McNabb. When the letter was read at the meeting Mr. Fitzgerald moved to table it. Mr. Sadlier seconded and a chorus of ayes settled the question.

"The motion to table having been passed, the new nomination by John H. McNabb is inadmissible so will not be read," said Council President Gallagher in declaring the motion sustained. So the nomination of Mr. McNabb has yet to be formally presented to the council and as matters now stand Mr. Rourke has the field uncontested.

Apparent Pact Monday

That the whole matter was pre-arranged and carefully kept under cover was evident at the start. On Monday Mr. Dinneen, as stated in The Sun of that day, conferred with the mayor. Later in the day the mayor left the city with the city engineer and the members of the board of public service for the purpose of inspecting a street sweeping machine. This being the case, the nomination of Mr. McNabb was agreed upon at or prior to that time and those "in the know," including Mr. Dinneen, kept knowledge of the agreement from the public.

If it was intended or desired that Mr. McNabb's name be "railroaded" through at last night's session, a cog slipped somewhere. Up to very near the hour of the council meeting Mr. Rourke and councilors known to be aligned with him were in the dark on the subject. Had the withdrawal letter and the new nomination been presented towards the end of the council session, for the first time, the end evidently desired might have been gained in the resultant consternation.

Three councilors were absent from the session, Messrs. Chadwick, Chretien and McPadden. Mr. McPadden is on his honeymoon trip at this time. He is the leader of the Rourke forces within the council and the time for a coup could not have been more opportune.

Formal municipal endorsement was given at the session to the so-called Concord river nuisance bill, introduced at the last session of the legislature by Rep. Owen E. Brennen and supported by the six Lowell representatives. This bill, amended before passage in the senate to provide that Chelmsford, Lowell, and Billerica should bear, either any one municipality alone or proportionately among as many as willing, the cost of a study by the state board of health with a view to abating the nuisance, was accepted by the council last night. Mr. Moriarty moved the acceptance stating that while Billerica and Chelmsford have not manifested any intention of co-operating, Lowell would be the chief beneficiary of the study and that of the maximum cost of $3,000 it is doubtful if more than $300 would be charged against the two towns.

Two Pensions Voted

Under the recently accepted law, put through the legislature session just ended by Rep. Charles H. Slowey of Lowell, a pension was granted Mrs. Bridget Donnelly, a charwoman at city hall since 1892. She will receive $560.04, payable in monthly instalments. Mrs. Donnelly is physically incapacitated for further full performance of her duties.

Patrolman Lindsey E. Ingalls, for thirty-five years a member of the police force, was also placed on the municipal pension roll. He was given an allowance of $912.50 a year, payable in monthly payments. Mr. Ingalls petitioned retirement on disability over a month ago. He has been confined to his home since last May.

Favor Bus Ordinance

Approval was voted the petition for incorporation made by Lowell Aerie, 228, Fraternal Order of Eagles, approved by the superintendent of police, and the city clerk was instructed to so notify the secretary of state.

The ordinance regulating the operation of motor busses in the city was read and ordered advertised. This ordinance was reported out by Chairman Daly of the committee on ordinances and is regarded as a preliminary step to the granting of endorsement to the franchise petition of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company which would operate busses express from this city to Boston.

Usual Tardy Start

The council was late as usual in starting its meeting, the session getting under way at 8.38 o'clock. An order for 290 feet of sewer, to be laid northerly from 212 Parkview avenue, passed second reading. Several petitions for street oilings, sewers, street repairs, edgestones and street acceptances were referred to the board of public service. Claims of James A. Laurie and Edward J. Murphy for damage done to their automobiles were referred to committee. A communication from the school board relative to the condition of Edson school was referred to the committee on public property.

S. Ellis Barrett was granted permission to erect a garage at 74-76 Bellevue street. Several residents of Sheldon street objected at a public hearing on the matter, contending that the garage is to have entrance from Sheldon rather than Bellevue street and that no residents of Sheldon street endorsed the petition.

The session adjourned at 10 o'clock without any reference to the tabled nomination of Charles J. Landers to succeed Fisher H. Pearson as a member of the board of health.

MILK PRICE STANDS AT 13 CENTS TODAY

Beginning today, the price of pasteurized milk per quart, delivered to consumers, will be 13 cents, as announced in The Sun last evening. The one-cent advance was predicted several days ago and yesterday it was learned that a formal agreement would be made by the principal distributors, establishing the new price at 13 cents. The agreement was officially ratified at a "special call" mass meeting of the dealers, held last night in Odd Fellows' hall, Middlesex street.

The new price now in effect does not affect the retail price of the pint bottle, which is still seven cents. The increase will be felt only by the purchaser of the quarts.

MINOR CASES IN DISTRICT COURT

Joseph Rainey and Joseph Emond of this city were arraigned on drunkenness charges in district court this morning and fined $5 each. According to the testimony of a Lowell man camping in Dracut, the defendants were on property owned by him and he ordered them off. They, in turn, he said, threatened to kill him, and he notified Dracut police officers, who later made the arrest. The defendants were given a week to pay their fines.

A plea of "nolo" was accepted by Judge Fisher in the case of Joseph Brassard, charged with using profane language.

Harry Gostigian, charged with driving an automobile at an excessive rate of speed, was found guilty and the case placed on file.

Kaley M. Kelly was arraigned on charges of operating an automobile without a license and failure to keep to the right of the road. A state constabulary officer testified that Kelly failed to keep to the right of the Lawrence boulevard in the Kenwood section on June 22 and that when stopped by him, Kelly's license was found to have expired two days previous. Findings of guilty on both counts were made by Judge Fisher and Kelly was fined $10 on each.

George St. George, drunk and operating while drunk, was found guilty and fined $100.

the standpoint of need as existing according to the judgment of a certain head or heads of departments.

"Out of a total of 58 appropriations, there are but two departments that might possibly need an additional appropriation of any material size. I have reference to the charity and street departments.

"Of the larger departments, the various units under the control of the board of health appear to be keeping within their appropriations very nicely.

"The charity department, including such appropriations as the Chelmsford street hospital, Mothers with Dependent Children, and Outdoor Relief, have spent a total of $168,730.32 for the first six months of this year out of a total appropriation of $275,659.35. It is quite apparent that a deficit will occur in this department according to present indications.

"The Elections Department will be called upon to do more than double the usual amount of work to be covered in the next six months; therefore, it is hardly feasible to judge the outcome from the standpoint of a semi-annual statement.

"The Fire Department on July 1 of this year has $232,409.53 as against approximately $199,375.92 at the same time last year, which has every indication of being a step in the right direction.

"The Park Department in the first six months spent $22,273.65, leaving a balance of $36,766.96 to cover the same length of time over the remainder of the year.

"It has cost the city of Lowell $164,784.12 to maintain the police department for the first six months of this year; however, a total appropriation of $355,999.68 has been provided by the city government for its maintenance.

"The various divisions of the Board of Public Service show an unexpended balance July 1 of $562,764.96 as against an unexpended balance July 1 of last year of $525,399.37. It is apparent, and the street maintenance appropriations will have a deficit for the remainder of the year unless the Board of Public Service rearranges its schedule of activity.

"The schools general appropriation shows an expenditure under salaries and wages for the first six months of the year of $628,469, which will give an average monthly expenditure of $104,745, and allowing this figure for each month of the next school term, September to December, would necessitate $418,980 in the form of teachers' pay rolls, $31,500 for janitors and $5372 for summer school, or a total of $455,852. While this does not include all the possible expenditures under salaries and wages, yet the difference between the $455,852 as estimated, and the balance of $463,244.74 provides a fair percentage of reserve for possible contingencies.

"The water works department, being entirely dependent upon its own receipts for the maintenance of its department, presents a situation quite unparalleled by that of any other department. Last year the water department had to its credit for receipts during the year 1923, $402,160.28, and with an expenditure of $198,299.98, for the first six months of this year, it would appear that the department might be in a fair way toward cleaning up a small deficit which has existed in the department for a number of years, provided there is the usual increase in the number of consumers from year to year.

"To sum up the situation as a whole, it is my opinion that the heads of departments are to be congratulated for their efforts to maintain their departments within allotted appropriations, for it is only by the compilation of an intelligent budget that a municipality may hope to reap the benefits of its various endeavors."

DUNIGAN, CHAIRMAN

John J. Dunigan has been elected chairman of the North Chelmsford board of water commissioners; Stewart Mackay, secretary, and William H. Quigley, treasurer. Morton B. Wright will continue as superintendent for the present.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS OF ADVERTISING

LONDON, July 16.—(By the Associated Press)—Serious discussion of specific problems of advertising today occupied the third day of the International Advertising convention which was devoted for the most part to departmental conferences. In each conference, speakers from the United States, the dominions of Great Britain and from other countries described the specific problem under consideration from the particular aspect it assumed in a single nation.

Leaders of the convention expressed the opinion that the conferences this year would form the basis for an immediate opening for advertising on a universal scale and would allow the United States delegates to bring to bear upon the delegates of nations not yet highly developed along advertising lines, the modern and advanced conceptions of the industry prevailing in the United States.

IRELAND IS PEACEFUL

Lowell Tourist Found it Progressing Along the Highway of Freedom

Ireland—the country beautiful and romantic—is peacefully progressing along the highway of freedom today, with honesty of purpose and fidelity to the noblest of aspirations, yet with ancient customs and historic ideals still clinging to the land of the blooming furze.

To the world of make-believe, there is no such place as Ireland, Michael J. Sharkey, Lowell real estate dealer and insurance agent, today told a Sun reporter, who called at his offices in Central street to obtain an interview with the returned traveler.

Mr. Sharkey left Lowell on May 25, last, for his first visit to the Irish homeland in 31 years. He returned last Monday noon, filled with interesting knowledge and happy memories of a journey well spent in rambles through many favorite realms, quaint and peaceful as well as vigorous and history making sections of Ireland, where many heroics in the wonderful story of that wonderful island were written in indelible fame for all time.

Mr. Sharkey had a most delightful visit to Ireland, had the pleasure of meeting blood relatives and many old-time friends, and also enjoyed traveling hours through historic regions with American friends that included former Mayor Peter F. Sullivan of Worcester. Requested to give a short account of his travels in the land of his birth, Mr. Sharkey said:

"Ireland has been divided into two British provinces, one called Ulster and the other Free State. In the northern part, the Orangeman is paid for his fidelity to the empire, and in the other part, the Free Staters are paid for their perfidy to Ireland's national traditions and ideals. Unemployed are paid 15 shillings per week, which the taxpayer in turn must pay. The system makes, or endeavors to make, supporters for the Free State government, and so it goes in other departments. A free and fair election will undoubtedly leave the Free State on the rocks. Office holders and those receiving good salaries are mainly the government supporters.

"When we arrived, the country was adorned with the picturesque bloom of the furze. Our party was led by ex-Mayor Peter F. Sullivan of Worcester, Mass., to whom the urban council of Cobh tendered a reception, which was attended by Andrew Roach of Lowell, myself and other members of the party. Arriving later at Cork, the party visited Blarney Castle and toured the southern part of Cork and Kerry, Kinsdale, Clonakilty, Skibbereen, Bantry, the famed Glengarreff with its suburb scenery, and Roach's modern hotel. From here the party proceeded over the mountains and through the glens of Cork and Kerry, where each succeeding panorama was yet more thrilling. Arriving at Killarney, where the handsome ex-mayor Sullivan hails from, a band was in readiness to welcome the conquering hero and his friends. Everybody was a cousin of Peter Sullivan's and everybody endeavored to make everybody else happy. The '400' surely ruled and rooted!

"After a tour of the lakes and Muckross abbey, the party proceeded to Dublin in special cars provided by the railroad. I had the pleasure of seeing Glasnevin with its numerous historic graves, the zoological gardens, the zoo, the Phoenix park, the ruins of the general postoffice, where Padraic Pearse took his stand for liberty in 1916; the Four Courts, where Irishmen attacked their brothers at England's bidding in 1922. I attended the Wolf Tone memorial at Bodenstown. I saw the awe-inspiring Dargle, the Lover's Leap, Power's court waterfall, Glenmalure, Killiney, Glendalough, Clontarf, Dun Lough, Arrow, Lough Gill and Follards demesne, the home of Willie Reilly's 'Colleen Bawn.' I saw the Boyle abbey and the blood of the monk, killed by Cromwell's soldiers, miraculously still fresh. I climbed the Sheegora mountain from which the four provinces are plainly visible.

"Owing to the lateness of the season, when the thousands of workers were released from prison, there is little tillage this year. Potatoes, turf and vegetables are selling at almost prohibitive prices and the question of foods for the winter and seeds for next spring will be serious. Cattle-jobbing and grazing have become more popular as a natural consequence of the absence of tillage.

"The weather was not very pleasant, but when you visit Ireland, you must not mind the weather. If you want to carry out a program keep going.

"Troops confront you on every side with rifles, some of them nearly as big as the soldier, yet there is nothing apparently for them to do. We never locked our baggage or our rooms in any of the many hotels we visited. We saw nothing but peace and honesty amongst the people. But we also found a silent, steady reserve and determination never to submit to the oath of allegiance or the division of the nation. Even those who profess to be Free Staters, claim they want the republic. And the republic must eventually succeed."

In its length of 3142 miles, the Lincoln Highway has less than 125 miles or unfinished road.

LOWELL MAN RESCUES CHILD AT REVERE

Daniel J. Powers, manager of the local branch of the Sunshine Biscuit company, played the role of hero at Revere beach Sunday when he rescued a youngster who had been carried out beyond her depth by the tide.

Powers was swimming in deep water some distance from the beach when he espied what he believed to be a bundle of clothes floating towards him. He swam to the bundle and discovered a young girl, barely more than a baby, and swam with her to the beach where he found the child's mother running up and down the beach searching for her daughter. The child had been playing in shallow water and was drawn into deeper water by the tide. Fortunately her clothes had served as a life-buoy but she was being carried out to sea and her clothing was fast becoming water-soaked when she was rescued by Powers.

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL REPAIR FUND

LONDON (By Associated Press)—The Dean of Lincoln has just returned home from America where, for the second time in two years, he went successfully for dollars to add to the Lincoln Cathedral Repair fund.

Last year the Dean collected about $30,000 in the United States. This year he got $15,000 more, most of it along the eastern seaboard. The cathedral at Lincoln is one of the standard sights for tourists in England.

LOWELL MOOSE WILL ATTEND CONVENTION

Lowell will be well represented at the supreme national convention of the Loyal Order of Moose of the World, to be held in New York city, July 27 to July 31. Dictator John L. Sullivan, of local lodge No. 618, will lead a delegation of at least thirty-five members of the order, including every officer of the Lowell body.

The official delegate of No. 618 is Past Dictator Elmer G. Willey; alternate, Past Dictator Edward St. Leger.

The Lowell delegation will leave for New York on Saturday morning, July 26, via the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad via Framingham and Fall River, making the latter half of the journey by "ye old Fall River line" to the metropolis.

The program for the New York city national rally of members of the Moosheart fraternity will include important business meetings, election of national and district officers, sports programs, a trip to Coney Island and Atlantic City, receptions, banquets and concerts and dances.

Interest centers for the most part, of course, in the monster street parade through the streets of little old New York, scheduled for Thursday, July 31, as a grand spectacular wind-up to the national encampment of the Moose. Nearly 50,000 members of the fraternity are expected to be in line and there will be sixty bands.

A feature of the convention outside of the lodge ritual work and social sessions, will be a beauty contest, with winners to be selected from entrants from each state. Lowell lodge, No. 618, will not participate in this contest, but local Moosehearts are prepared to pick the prettiest feminine visitor at the convention, and they never pick 'em wrong. Rodolph Valentino is to be the sole judge, and that will help, for Rodolph visited Lowell a short time ago and revelled in local beauty.

The officers of No. 618 handling the convention trip details and all preliminaries, are as follows:

LOCAL DOCTORS ARE NOT INTERESTED

In an article carried in this newspaper yesterday relative to a campaign for reduced gasoline prices, it was said that a local committee was being formed with Dr. Robert A. Donahoe and Dr. Charles M. Roughan, well known doctors, as members. The names of both men were used without their sanction or approval, and this opportunity is taken to correct the impression that they are in any way interested in the purported idea.
